HOSPITAL DEFINITIONS.

FROM THE IRISH NURSING NEWS.

A Hospital is a collection of corridors covered by a roof and supported by its foundations and by contributions.

A Ward is a room attached to the side of a corridor. It contains fresh air in large quantities, nurses, beds and patients.

A Bed has position but no magnitude. Its real duty is to glorify the ward. To disarrange the bed is a criminal offence. It is far better to have a tidy bed than a comfortable patient.

A Nurse is essential to the proper running of a Hospital. Her chief duties are to wake the patients when asleep.

A Meal is a long thin thing, about three inches in diameter and about two hours long. It is incomplete without Rice Pudding. This is supplied either as a pleasant surprise or to annoy the patients, who thereafter faint at the mere mention of it.

A Clinical Thermometer is a cold-blooded instrument which requires warming up twice a day. This it is the duty of the patient to do.

A Doctor is a member of the Medical Profession who is usually to be found at the other end of a stethoscope. His greatest joy is to push a shoe-horn down one's throat, coupled with the request to "say 'Ah!'"

A Chart is a scrap of paper hanging on to a board at the end of the bed. It has often been mistaken for a railway map, but is really the life-story of a clinical thermometer set to music.

MOTOR SHIP PROGRESS.

9,000-TON VESSEL FOR ATLANTIC SERVICE.

The Drechtdyk, a large twin-screw motor vessel, built to the order of the Holland-America Line, was launched from the Greenock Yard of Messrs. Harland and Wolff, Ltd. The new vessel is a cargo boat, 485 feet by 62 feet by 38 feet 6 inches, with a gross tonnage of about 9,000. The Drechtdyk is of the poop, bridge, and forecastle type, and has three complete decks and a partial boat deck. There are seven water-tight bulkheads extending to the upper deck, which divided the vessel into five holds and a motor room. An additional water-tight bulkhead to the lower deck immediately abaft the motor room forms a deep tank for the carriage of cargo oil, water ballast, or ordinary cargo. No. 3 Hold is insulated for the carriage of chilled cargoes, and No. 3 lower 'tween decks is similarly insulated for refrigerated cargo. Insulated store-rooms for ship's use are situated in the bridge 'tween decks, and grain boards are provided in the holds for the carriage of grain in these spaces. The double bottom extends all fore and aft, and is used for the storage of oil fuel, lubricating oil, fresh water, and also for water ballast. With the addition of the oil fuel deep tanks between the tunnels the total capacity of oil fuel tanks in the vessel is about 1,200 tons. A very complete outfit of derricks and winches is fitted to ensure expeditious handling of cargo.

The machinery, which has been constructed by Messrs. Harland and Wolff at their Diesel Engine Works, Glasgow, comprises two sets of eight-cylinder four-cycle Diesel engines on the Burmiester and Wain system. The engines develop a normal h.p. of 6,000 I.H.P. at 115 revolutions a minute, and are of the cross-head type, having cranks, cross-head bearings, and guides forced lubricated.

CHILD'S FATAL FALL.

In the Northern Police Court on Saturday William Farrell, 12 Cottage place, a motor lorry driver, was charged with having on Friday last killed Isabella Cairns, 4½ years, 3 Mountjoy place, by knocking her down with a motor lorry.

Sergeant-Major McCormack, national Army, stated that while walking along Belvedere place he saw a child fall from the lorry, which was driven by the accused, and the back wheel passed over her. The lorry was going "dead slow" at the time, and there were a number of children on the lorry.

Further evidence showed that the accused made a statement, in which he said that a number of children were in his lorry at the time. At Mountjoy square he slowed down to let them off. The car became almost stationary, and when he re-started he felt a bump and saw the child picked up.

The magistrate refused informations, saying that it was perfectly clear that there was no negligence on the part of the accused.

WOMAN AND HER HOME.

NO FANCY BELTS.

OUR WEEKLY LETTER FROM PARIS.

In the new day dresses, the fancy belts seem to have vanished. The waistline is still long, and in almost every model a narrow band is inserted to join the skirt to the bodice, which is invariably straight, loose and flat. For afternoon and evening, a silhouette which is daring to a degree for these days of straight lines and wide waists, is frequently noted.

Below the bodice, with blouses at a normal waistline, the material of the skirt is drawn tightly over the hips by a sash or self-drapery in an uncompromising and revealing fashion, and until one observes that as a matter of fact the lines are rendered as adjustable as the prevailing slip-on garments by tying the sash at will, one wonders how just anybody can look well in it.

Characteristics of Season.

If we counted up what some of the characteristics of this present season are, it might be as well to mention, first of all, the yards and miles of braiding. Then there are the skirts with the three little pleats on either side. Skirts pleated any way at all are fashionable. A pleated skirt with a blouse is almost smarter now than a one-piece dress.

There is, further, that Spanish-dancer feeling in afternoon and evening dress, which is obtained by putting a ruffle round the skirt. Greek designs in printed effects and in embroidery are good. The wrapped feeling is prevalent everywhere. The draped dress, with low neck and formal train, is not neglected.

A New Coat.

What the woman of fashion likes about this special coat is that you can wear it in the day-time and at night too. That is to say, it is not a highly specialised coat, and unless you are a very specialised person, going in for dead-lines in dress, it can appear after 6 p.m. and before 11 p.m.

It is of black kasha. This material has all the softness of that old friend cashmere and is more interesting. This coat has a lot of character given it by wide bands of black fox fur. Nothing is smarter than a flat surface of material with fur trimmings thrown up high and shaggy in pronounced relief.

Should you want a lighter material for this kind of coat, let me recommend black marocian and ostrich. It is very smart. But to return to this coat. It is quite a sophisticated garment and should never be essayed by the ingénue. You have to know a lot about life and dining out "to get away with it" and not allow it to predominate you.

The Tailleur.

The new coats and skirts are of mannish severity and are worn with blouses which button closely under the chin. Suits with 30-inch coats, bloused and drawn tightly under the hips, or hanging in loose, swinging lines, are worn with blouses of harmonising georgette, which also finish at the hips, in a band of the heavier material which composes the suit.

Again, coats cut on flaring directoire lines reach to within a few inches of the narrow skirt underneath.

Black and sage-green are one of the approved and extremely pretty colour schemes for autumn. Brown though is the rage of the day. It is a very sad colour, however, and should only be worn by very pale women with red lips. Grey is like a charming person that you don't mind having round always—like someone who has a gracious personality which puts everyone else at ease and gives all the world a sense of self-pleasure. That is why I suppose it is so fashionable just now.

Toby Frills.

Coat frocks of a supremely simple order are to be seen effected in light-hued kasha, buttoned severely up to the summit of the throat, where the prettiest finish is provided in crisp little outstanding frills, or else a demure turn-down collar of white organdy, cuff corresponding.

Organdy, tucked in vertical groups, is responsible for some of the daintiest of these lingerie adjuncts, a small striped muslin handkerchief being tucked into an absurd little pocket, introduced on one side of the front, above the waist, and those who find dead-white rather trying have now the alternative of a deep Chinese ivory.

Toby frills, soft, seductive things of chiffon and georgette, in white, ivory or pastel shades are all the go. There are also frills to match on the sleeves—turned upwards on short ones and falling right over the hands in long ones.

The trimmings of skirt hems with ruches and large flowers in velvet, in muslin, or in leather—according to the material they accompany—is unquestionably growing in favour.

This jumper, carried out in blue and embroidered in white, looks very effective.

ART OF PACKING.

We seem to be learning the art of packing. Last Christmas, says a postal official, there was an appreciable diminution in the number of slovenly parcels badly made up, incompletely directed, and so forth.

"It is the exception to find an address that is not duplicated on a well-packed parcel. For instance, people have learned to mistrust the brown paper parcel that bears a written address only upon it. It is realised that this may quite easily be mutilated or torn away completely in the stress of travel. So they also place a label on the parcel, and, in accordance with our recommendations, enclose the address inside as well."

⁂

CHRISTMAS POSTS.

This table will remind you to post your Christmas gifts abroad in good time.

Early November—The Far East, New Zealand, East Africa, Chili, Peru, Straits Settlements, Iraq.

Middle November—Central America, Expeditionary Force to Black Sea, West Africa, Brazil, India (to 14th), Bombay (only to 21st), West Indies.

Early December—Canada (Eastern Provinces), Western Canada (to 28th November), Egypt, Malta, United States (Western the 4th, Eastern the 11th), Jamaica, Army of the Rhine (up to 15th).

⁂

TO CLEAN THE SINK.

Put a handful of soda over the grid, with a tablespoonful of disinfectant fluid, and pour a kettle of hot water over both. This will make a cleansing fluid, which will free the pipes of grease and any unpleasant smells.

⁂

FOR THE COOK.

A SIMPLE ENTREE.

Wash 1lb. liver, dry well, and cut in slices. Mix four tablespoonfuls breadcrumbs with an onion chopped small, a teaspoonful finely-chopped parsley, salt, pepper, and a little nutmeg. Put the slices of liver in a well-greased baking tin, put some of the breadcrumb mixture on each piece, with a thin slice of bacon on top. Pour in half pint stock, and bake in a slow oven for an hour. Dish up the meat, flavour the gravy with Worcester sauce, and pour round.

CARROTS A LA FLAMANDE.

Peel one pound of carrots and a quarter of a pound of onions. Put them together through a mincer. Melt a piece of butter or good dripping, about the size of an egg, in a saucepan, toss the vegetables in it until the onions begin to brown. Add pepper and salt to taste, a lump of sugar, and a bay leaf. Stew gently for about an hour. Mix in a little cornflour to thicken. Pour into a vegetable dish and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

STUFFED TURNIPS.

Choose turnips that are fine and unblemished. Peel them, then cut a piece off the top of each and scoop out some of the inside. Next mix a quarter-pound of chopped bacon—not too fat—with a quarter-pound of crumbs soaked in milk; add a grated onion, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste, and the yolk of one egg. Fill the turnips with this mixture, and replace the pieces you cut off. Stand in a flat tin. Pour in enough good stock or gravy to come halfway up them, and cook slowly, basting frequently for 1½ hours.

Cut as many small round pieces of bread as you have turnips, and fry them in fat. When nicely browned arrange on a dish, and on each pour a little juice from the turnips; then stand a turnip on each and serve.

BUYING A HAT.

AVOID THE ULTRA NOVEL.

To the woman of to-day who dresses upon a modest income the purchase of any garment presents cause for thought, although prices in clothes are supposed to be on the downward grade.

The buying of hats and furs offers something more of a problem than other clothes, because they must be selected with reference to accompanying gowns and suits. And it is a well-worn axiom that the extravagant purchase is the one that is never used or liked.

Plan Ahead.

This applies most strongly to the hat that does not match, and since it is not within the range of the limited income to complement every frock with a hat of its own, it is far wiser to plan ahead, and with the entire wardrobe in mind, to determine just what use each hat will have this coming winter.

The advice that is hoary with age, yet so true fundamentally that it can bear any amount of repetition, is the caution against the ultra-novel, the "sensational," the too-highly coloured.

Too often has the unwary shopper been betrayed by an astonishing importation perched beguilingly on the piquant little wooden stand in the milliner's window, while her wiser sister resolutely seeks the equally smart but less sensational attire. The extreme hat only means a week of novelty followed by boredom and tears and a long, long bill.

Thing That Counts.

Line is the thing that counts most in a hat that must accompany a variety of toilettes; for on these no trimming is needed except, perhaps, a stiff cocade or knot of feathers to which a filmy veil may be added for more formal occasions.

A tricorne is an admirable choice for the woman who likes to be smart and is obliged to be economical. This three-cornered hat complements a plain tailleur or a handsome restaurant frock with equal success, and can even be turned back to front by way of variety!

Smartest of all, perhaps, is the sweeping upturned brim of the "Napoleonic" chapeau. In velvet, in satin, in fine plush its silhouette is always charming, always striking; and, after all, what would one otherwise expect of a hat so named?

ANNA B. MORWOOD.

⁂

DAYS OF LONG AGO.

FASHIONS THAT REVIVE.

It makes curious reading to learn what our ancestresses wore in the days of their youth and beauty, and to notice how some fashions have come back to their descendants in a way, and others seem strange and ridiculous.

So far back as 1800 we read: "Ladies in Paris no longer load their head-dresses with diamonds, but effect a kind of turban, one point of which rests on the cheek"; that "white satin hats are in vogue and also rose-coloured edged with gold"; while black velvet hats (so fashionable to-day) adorned the heads of great ladies, and were edged with rose colour and sky-blue hats were edged with black.

Ribands round the waist, and caps small and round in shape with lace borders seem fairly modern, but they were worn more than a century ago and were regarded (the caps) as particularly becoming.

Scarlet was in high favour with the great ladies of this bygone age, and we read that scarlet cloaks, ribands and shoes were in great demand, while handkerchiefs of the same hue and "half great coats," trimmed with sable, in this bright colour must have looked charming in the winter.

The highest belles, we are told, greatly favoured short wadded coats of coloured sarsenet trimmed with lace or fur, and in these our great-great-grandmammas must have looked betwitching.

It is agreeable to know that the carriages of the time were lined with wadded silk, and they were doubtless extremely comfortable and warm.

Have we improved much in fashion in the latter days?

TABLE DECORATIONS.

From your woodland walks bring back some clumps of moss, and when flowers become scarcer and dearer use it to "bed" tiny little pots of ferns in your flower bowls. You will have a decoration that will last till the early bulbs in fibre are available.

Put a few pieces of charcoal in the bowl, and keep the moss damp but not sodden, or it will get slimy.

Collect autumn leaves now, press them in newspaper, and put them away. They will be useful for the Christmas festivities later on. The wild guelder leaves make excellent substitutes for vine-leaves to garnish grapes. Crimson bramble leaves make an effective table decoration, when simply arranged on a cloth.

ENJOYABLE SPORT.

JACKDAW OF RHEIMS'S EASY WIN IN FOAL STAKES.

Though a trifle too cold to be altogether pleasant, little fault could be found with Saturday's weather, and quite a large company assembled to assist at the concluding stage of the meeting. True, the members' enclosure was not unduly crowded, but the muster in the other stands was distinctly encouraging, and those who entered an appearance were rewarded with a thoroughly good day's sport, features of which were the smart performance of Bolshevist in the hurdle race and the easy victory of Jackdaw of Rheims in the Autumn Foal Stakes.

The Newtown Hurdle Plate, with which proceedings were ushered in, brought out a party of twelve, and of those Hy Many and Merry Miner attracted most support. Of the pair the last-named did best, and at the last flight of hurdles looked very like winning, but in the run home was outpaced by the top-weight, Bolshevist, who gave another demonstration of his usefulness over the minor obstacles and landed a 6 to 1 chance. They were a moderate lot in the Silverpark Plate, for which Guinea Stamp was always in most demand, but he never flattered, and after Hardicanute had momentarily held out hope to his suppoters he was relegated into third place, behind Royal Oak and Tailte, who came very close together in the last fifty yards; but the expected objection was not promulgated.

The chief event, the Autumn Foal Stakes, proved the good thing it was generally regarded to be for Jackdaw of Rheims, who fairly dominated the position throughout, and, though the lot opposed to him did not include anything out of the ordinary, he scored in the style of a smart colt, and should mould into a more than useful three-year-old. Bachelor's Ward, who was also well backed, never threatened danger to the favourite, and Mr. C. T. Wallis supplied the second and third in Princess Herodias and Vesington Prince, respectively. The Stillorgan Steeplechase furnished a very interesting race, the result of which was in doubt right up to the end. Kerry Blue, who is a fine jumper, was prominent for a long way, and with the favourite, Glowanna, making a mistake and losing ground about half a mile from home, her backers were on anything but good terms with themselves. Kerry Blue was beaten after jumping the third last fence, and then Ballylundan and Boomerang loomed large in the picture; but meanwhile Glowanna was rapidly making up leeway, and catching the leaders at the final obstacle outpaced them in the run in. Bleach Lough, who was not a little fancied, blundered after going a mile, and never afterwards shaped like a potential winner.

Three of the six starters for the Paddock Steeplechase were staunchly befriended, and the trio were concerned in the concluding stages of the race, the first half of which was run at a wretchedly slow pace. Soldier Bill, only just returned from an unsuccessful trip to England, ran right well; but from the last fence home it was a ding-dong struggle between Outlaw and Yours Only, and it was only by a narrow margin that the former gained the fiat. Tilstock may have been unlucky not to win the Carrickmines Plate, as he was leading and going well a furlong from home, when in some scrimmaging that occurred just after they had entered the straight he was knocked out of his stride. This contretemps left Knock Brack and Snow Ball to fight out the finish, and in an exciting set-to Knock Brack, who did not score out of his turn, prevailed. An objection was lodged against the winner for bumping and boring, and this remains in abeyance until next Saturday, when it will be investigated at Phœnix Park Meeting. Details:—

FLAMMETTE DISAPPOINTS.

THOUGHTLESS WINS AUTUMN HANDICAP.

Stratford was forgiven his Cambridgeshire lapse on Saturday at Newbury, for, after Charlebelle had opened a very decided favourite for the Autumn Handicap, several of the leading professionals took the Manton colt on their side, and in a very few minutes he came from 8 to 1 to half that odds. That was after the paddock inspection, in which Charlebelle certainly presented the most attractive appearance; but Stratford was more composed, and apparently on much better terms with himself than at Newmarket. Unfortunately, however, for his friends, he again played the part of gay deceiver. He ran a particularly patchy race. For the first half mile he was whipper-in; then he began to pick up his feet, and with a couple of furlongs to go promised to come through and win. Then he suddenly changed his mind, threw up his head, and allowed himself to be beaten.

It had been hoped that he would be the winner of a good race before being sent to India, but he is apparently incorrigible. The winner, Thoughtless, finished with something in hand, and had won his two previous races carrying a penalty. In the Royal colours Will Somers gave a particularly bright display, but he was too near the winner on the handicap. The connections of Charlebelle fully expected her to make amends for her Cesarewitch failure. The most that can be said for her is that she ran well, but was not good enough, and is, perhaps, a little over-rated, whilst the resuscitated Bracket retains none of her old form. Dry Toast, who is now in Piggot's little stable, is just the cut to make a high-class hurdler.

Possibly no one was more surprised at Passenham's amazing improvement on his previous day's running, when winning the Twyford Selling Nursery under top weight, than were his connections. It is very possible that those horses he now accounted for are extremely moderate.

Such horses as Bantry and Bart Snowball somewhat spoil the ordinary selling plate. Bart Snowball did not turn out for the All-Aged Plate, which, in the circumstances, was little more than an exercise canter for Bantry.

The defeat of Flammette in the Theale Maiden Plate was little short of a tragedy to the Clarehaven people, who had scouted the idea of defeat. The filly, however, ran a trifle green, but was subsequently running on, to be beaten a head by the Belle Royal colt after a prolonged struggle. The winner had been beaten earlier in the week at Birmingham.

Irette, in the Reading Nursery, was a very popular winner.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Following Knock Brack's victory in the Carrickmines Plate at Leopardstown on Saturday an objection was lodged on behalf of Snowball, who finished second, on the grounds of bumping and boring, the investigation of which remains in abeyance until next Saturday.

The York Gimcrack Club dinner has been fixed to take place on Wednesday, November 29. Lord Woolavington, whose colt, Town Guard, won the Gimcrack Stakes at the last York Meeting, will be the guest of the evening.

LINCOLN.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

The end of the flat racing campaign approaches very rapidly now, and this week at Lincoln, with Liverpool to follow, only leaves another fortnight before the curtain rings down at Manchester and Lingfield. Everything is in apple-pie order for the late Autumn Meeting beginning here to-day. The snow reported from other parts of the country did not much trouble the Carholme, which yields excellent going. The weather last night, however, was wet, and may upset calculations. Enormous entries were received for all the events, and, judging from the horses already arrived and those under orders from the stables north and south of the rendezvous, big fields will contest all the half-dozen races upon the opening afternoon's card. The chief item is the Great Tom Plate, which is a handicap over seven furlongs, containing the names of many high-class animals. Leighton represents Cottrill instead of Proconsul, and I shall expect to win, in the probable absence of such as Lady Juror, Re-echo, and Blue Lady. Soldennis will be a danger if he comes. Other selections are as follow:—

LEIGHTON

Gautby Plate—Golden Kit.
Yarborough Handicap—Woodley.
Blankney Nursery—Sunshot filly.
Brownlow Maiden Plate—Silver Square.
Doddington Plate—Perfectus.

[The figures in front of the names of the horses are an index to placings in their last three engagements—reading from right to left. Where a horse started slowly and was unplaced an S appears instead of 0.]

GAELIC GAMES.

DUBLIN'S DOUBLE WIN.

INTER-DIVISIONAL SCHOOLS' MATCHES.

(BY PAT'O.)

A dull evening, with sharp showers during the senior final, and a small crowd were the accompaniments of yesterday's Leinster fixtures in Croke Park. The lack of travelling facilities on the Great Southern line kept many away who would have followed the Kilkenny team, and, as events proved, a couple of the chosen team were "held up" en route.

It was not a great final by any means. The opening half, in which Kilkenny played a fine, dashing game, and held Dublin at all points, was up to a good standard, but in the end the fieldcraft and combination of Dublin prevailed. The second moiety was altogether in Dublin's favour, and they dominated the game in unmistakable fashion.

The Kilkenny defence, including the goal man, a veteran of 1911, was good throughout, and frustrated the wiliest of Dublin attacks, which, however, could not altogether be denied. The visitors' power of penetration was almost completely curbed during the concluding stages, and popular anticipations of a local victory were conclusively confirmed.

Kilkenny were first away, and had a fine point by Connolly in the first five minutes. The Synnotts, Carey, and M'Donnell sent Dublin into Kilkenny ground soon after, but the Kilkenny defence, led by Irish, held out, and Dalton in goal, when called upon, proved reliable, as he did all through the game.

Fluctuations of fortune were fast and vigorous, but Kilkenny were giving a flattering display. The home lot were enterprising, however, and in a sharp attack P. M'Donnell equalised with a minor. Very interesting play followed, in which every sector participated, and no further scoring ensued for a long time, till Fitzgerald sent over a flying point for Kilkenny.

The game continued an excellent one, Kilkenny being very good, and M'Kenna was very prominent in initiating dangerous assaults which the home backs found it hard to cope with. There was no decided superiority on either side, and at the interval Kilkenny led with 2 points to 1 for Dublin.

The resumption soon saw the Metropolitans exerting their clever tactics, and, despite a vigorous Kilkenny struggle the champions settled down into Kilkenny ground. Scores were not easily got, however, and many opportune chances were ably frustrated, till Reilly sent down for P. M'Donnell to secure and equalise with a point.

The Dublin half line were invulnerable, and Kilkenny were constantly defending; but some of the Dublin finishes were very wild. A lead was a long time coming, however, but Dublin at length got ahead when M'Donnell shot a nice minor. Play was still in Kilkenny ground, and Shanahan added a point, which M'Donnell supplemented very soon after. The question of superiority was now settled, and from a clever Dublin attack M'Donnell added a very fine goal. Robbins contributed a point before the final whistle, and Dublin had won well on the score:—

Dublin—1 goal 7 points.
Kilkenny—2 points.

Mr. James Byrne (Wexford) was referee.

The junior replay needs little description. For a long period it was an uneventful, indecisive game, and not a single score was made in the first half. Then Dublin got going, and mainly through Hunston's efforts took the match in hands, and maintained superiority to the end, winning by 1 goal 3 points to 2 points for Westmeath.

The inter-divisional matches promoted by the Schools' League on Saturday evening proved very enjoyable games, and were attended by a big crowd of youthful enthusiasts, though the patronage accorded the fixture by senior Gaels was almost negligible. In juvenile hurling the youngsters kept up a great pace on the big ground from start to finish, and in the end the North city team won by 4 goals 2 points to 2 goals. It was a really good exhibition, played with fine spirit. The Northern selection triumphed also in the junior football contest (under 16). They had the best of matters for most of the time, and were far more effective in the scoring line. Leading by 2 goals 1 point to nil at the interval, they finished winners by 3 goals 3 points to 1 goal. The winners received sets of neat silver medals. The League propose to have similar divisional games for intermediate and senior grades on Saturday next.

At a meeting last week of the Dublin Colleges' Committee Rev. Bro. Doyle, Clondalkin, was elected President, and Fr. M'Intyre, Belcamp, Secretary. The balance-sheet and by-laws were discussed. A further meeting will be held in Vaughan's Hotel to-morrow (Tuesday) evening at 6 o'clock.

GOLF FOR BEGINNERS.

MAJOR GUY CAMPBELL'S BOOK.

For very many years Major Guy Campbell has occupied an eminent position in British golf. He has represented Scotland in the International matches; his name appears in the roll of golfing celebrities who won the coveted Gold Medal of the Royal and Ancient Club; he has won the Silver Cross four times, and the George Glennie Medal twice. One of the most brilliant amateur golfers whom Scotland has produced, he ranks as an authority of high repute on all matters appertaining to the game, a reputation to which his golfing skill and his thirty years' intimate association with the game justly entitle him. The gallant Major, who had a distinguished record in the great war, some time ago decided on writing a text book for the benefit of beginners.

"At the moment (he writes in the preface) golf is on the threshold of a tremendous boom. Links and courses are springing up in all directions, like mushrooms in a night. True, most of these ventures are of a private nature, but before long municipal courses will abound on every common and waste place within a few minutes' reach of the great centres of human endeavour. Over them, during the spring, summer, and autumn, employer and employé will play before going to work, and again when their work is done. Every half-holiday in winter and throughout the year these municipal courses will be thronged. The benefit to humanity will be incalculable. . . . It is for the benefit of these 'rookies'—beginners at the game—that I have undertaken this text book, and it is for them, in whose hands the future and fair fame of the game lies, that I write." There is a foreword by Mr. John L. Lowe, who writes:—"Among modern players, I believe you have searched more carefully and more exactly than any other in your endeavour to find the cause and effects of the many shots which make up the content of the game. . . . The beginner, after reading your book, can hardly complain that he has not the 'seeing eye,' for you have forced him to see, even the things which he may not understand." In a second foreword Major Cecil K. Hutchison also pays a high compliment to the author, whose book, he writes, "teems with useful hints."

START WITH THE PUTTER.

Some years ago when I consulted Charles Wilkinson, a local professional, and one of the best teachers in the country, regarding a temporary breakdown in my wooden club play, he set about remedying the defect by giving me a hard hour's work with the mashie. Wilkinson studied the theory and practice of the game as few professionals have studied them, and his contention was that the edifice of a good game of golf should be built upwards, starting with the putter and finishing with the driver. None of the leading professionals subscribe to that theory; but here we have one of the soundest authorities in amateur golf propounding the same principles. Major Campbell starts the beginner with the putter. He devotes 28 pages to putting; he then introduces us to the iron clubs in another 28 pages, and finishes with wooden club play, which he dismisses in 19 pages. He gives his reasons for departing from the orthodox mode of procedure as follows:—"In my notes I have revised the usual method, and purposely; for I believe, as a result of many years of experience, of close observation, and of a deal of quiet consideration, that the whole game of golf can be built upon the foundation of the short putt. Every shot in the game is merely a prolongation of this stroke. . . . In the main, exactly the same remarks are applicable to play with wooden clubs as to iron play and putting. Such differences as do occur are simply questions of detail, and these do not interfere in any way with the fundamental principles which I have tried to impress upon the minds of my readers."

I have read and re-read almost every book on golf that has been published in recent years, and have profited greatly thereby. Major Campbell's text book for "Beginners" will constitute a valuable addition to my library of golfing literature, for it contains many and useful hints that are not to be found even in the best of the "classics" which have gained such wide repute and circulation among golfers. His hints on putting contain many that I have not read before, and his chart for indoor practice, and the accompanying explanations, should be of considerable help to those who are off their putting. Major Campbell's sole concern in putting is to "hit the ball truly." "The basis of good putting is the ability to hit the ball truly," he says, and, what is more to the point, he tells you in simple language how that first essential in sound putting can be mastered.

IRON PLAY.

But what appeals to me most in this most interesting and instructive book is his chapter on play with the iron clubs. Lord Balfour, we are told, in his tyro days as a golfer, spent many and many an hour practising shots in bunkers. Major Campbell takes his beginner to the bunker, and there teaches him how to play the iron shots correctly! "The first thing to acquire in iron play (he writes), as in putting and in wooden club play, is the ability to hit the ball truly. In other words, the ball must be hit clean. To hit the ball clean the sole of the iron club must just brush or scrape the turf after the face of the club has hit the ball, beginning where the bottom of the ball touches the ground, and continuing not more than four inches along the desired line of direction." Remember (he adds), "it is quite unnecessary to take a divot, unless the ball is lying cupped. It is a principle that is forgotten far too often." There is nothing new in that theory, for Harry Vardon, who, our author says, is probably the greatest iron player in the history of the game, and certainly hits the ball more cleanly than any other golfer, tells us that the ball must be hit cleanly with the iron club. His reasons for using sand, rather than turf, as his practise "mat" were as follows:—Sand magnifies an error in hitting a golf ball far more than does turf. To hit a ball cleanly off sand, the wrists must be rigid, and must form an unbroken line with the arms at the instant of impact between the club and the ball. These are two fundamental principles in golf.

Major Campbell sums up his arguments for iron club practice as follows:—"Off sand nothing but a cleanly hit shot—incidentally, a perfect shot—will give the desired result." The moral is obvious. It is to commence all iron club practice off sand. He demonstrates to the beginner how to play the correct iron shots out of the shallow sand bunker, and, by means of diagrams, shows him where you hit the sand for the right class of shot, the duffed shot, the topped shot, the pulled shot, and the sliced shot. When the right shot can be played off the sand with the irons, he adds, then the shots will come easy when you play them on the turf.

This latest addition to the golfers' library teems with useful and hitherto unpublished hints on the playing of the game. The chapter on course construction is a desirable and valuable addition to the existing literature on that fascinating subject. The book is written in the simple, graceful style that appeals to discerning readers. Nothing is laboured; the author gets to grips with his subject right off, proves his arguments conclusively, and has succeeded in compiling a work that should be of considerable assistance not only to beginners, but also to those who have advanced far in the study of the fascinating game of golf.

INMAN'S FINE RECOVERY.

After being 1,730 points behind at one time during the week, in the match at Leicester square, London, Inman regained lost ground so consistently that when the half-way stage was reached on Saturday night, he had reduced Smith's lead to 151. He again played up to his old form on Saturday, making during the afternoon breaks of 185, 91, 158, and 83; Smith's best being 178, 393, and 79. Interval score:—Smith, 6,567; Inman, 6,258. At night Inman's breaks were 131, 81, 119, 69, 74, and 134; and Smith's 154, 74, 83, 81, 114 (unfinished). Closing scores:—Smith, 7,143, Inman, 6,992.

HOCKEY.

REVERSALS OF FORM.

The unexpected is never very far away in hockey, but even so, such turn-ups of accepted form on Saturday as a defeat of Three Rock Rovers by Kingstown Grammar School, and a 3 goals to nothing beating of Monkstown by Railway Union were contingencies that never presented themselves to the minds of those in touch with the game in Leinster. Both results can be explained away, of course; but they cannot be wiped out, and they will cause no little heartburning on the part of committees. If Rovers' weak representation explains their defeat, the same cannot be said of Monkstown, for in their case—and whatever was the cause—the team was a lifeless side from start to finish.

KINGSTOWN GRAMMAR SCHOOL (2) v. THREE ROCK ROVERS (1).

Rovers paid the penalty of fielding a weak side by being defeated by the margin of one goal in this match at Tivoli terrace, Kingstown. However, the weakness was only comparative, and the result, therefore, was a real feather in the cap of Grammar School, who have done something now to be really proud of. They played a plucky game throughout, and, stiffened by a fine defence, were able to hold the lead which F. Cook gave them in the opening half, until the long whistle ended the game. All the scoring was during this first period.

At the beginning it looked like being Rovers game. Were it not for the stout defence offered them they might have scored, and who knows then how the match might have ended. They did not, however, and then it was Grammar School's turn to attack. Marsden got his forwards away, and F. Cook, receiving from his brother, was able to score nineteen minutes after the start. The equalising goal took some time to come. Rovers strove hard for it, and Manly did get the ball into the net, but only after the whistle had gone for "sticks" against Devlin. From the corner, however, Pigot equalised with a fine shot. With the score even Grammar School played up for all they were worth, and from a penalty corner F. Cooke placed his side ahead again. This ended the scoring in the first half, and despite all that could be done after—and Rovers, in particular, strove hard to draw level again—the defence of each side could not be pierced before full time was reached with the School still leading by a goal. RAILWAY UNION (3) v. MONKSTOWN (0).

One result of this match at Park avenue is that Railway Union still remain at the top of the League table, the only undefeated senior side in Leinster. They won, too, on their merits, while Monkstown, for their part, gave a disappointing display. The latter team had been re-organised for the match owing to G. L. Orr being available again at full. It freed Darcus to come into the half-back line, and the experiment of playing D. R. Rowlands at inside right forward was tried, Burgess being dropped for this purpose. The team, as a whole, was not a success, and where it differed from Railway was in the fact that the latter was a team in the real meaning of the word. Railway began well. Early Jermyn had to save from H. Sully, and the next moment V. Sully missed a great chance. Monkstown now broke away only to come back again, and three unproductive corners to Railway followed. Wadsworth now got moving, and Leitch got possession only to hit the side of the net. Then Jermyn and the Monkstown defence had plenty to do; indeed, both defences were tried till V. Sully, receiving a fast centre from Browner, scored close in. Monkstown tried hard to equalise, and Hand had to stop a shot by Semmence. Soon after Jermyn had to save from C. Sully, only to be beaten the next moment by a back-handed stroke by V. Sully. Before half-time Leitch had a chance, but missed. Early in the second half H. Sully added a third goal to Railway's total, and with this the scoring ended. That Railway deserved their success there was not a shadow of doubt. Almost throughou they commanded the game, their forwards giving the opposing defence all they could do to keep their end up, while their half-back line was well able to hold the Monkstown forwards. Teams:—

Railway Union—J. A. Hand; K. Browner, N. Thompkins; W. Chiddick (capt.), R. Williams, D. Ryan; J. Browner, C. Sully, N. Sully, H. Sully, P. Gillespie.

Monkstown—W. Jermyn; G. L. Orr, J. Peterson; W. Morrison, E. Webb, G. Darcus; H. Wadsworth, D. R. Rowlands (capt.), R. Leitch, A. Pearson, R. Summers.

Umpires—Messrs. J. S. Jackson and W. F. M'Donnell.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY (8) v. DUBLIN DISTRICT (3).

Previous form pointed to a win for Trinity when these teams met on Saturday, on the Garrison ground in the Park. The only surprise lies in the five goals margin, a margin fully deserved on the run of the play. Indeed, with a little luck, or less efficient goal keeping on the part of the losers' last line, the winners' total might easily have reached double figures. From the start the game was fast—at times very fast—and open, and for some little time there was little between them. Then the visitors came through smartly, and Aykroyd opened the scoring at the end of seven minutes' play. In their turn the Garrison attacked, and it was not long before Captain Pelly equalised with a shot that gave MacManaway no chance. Following this Trinity forwards got into their stride, and playing with great dash, they ran up five goals in quick succession. First MacDonagh scored from a difficult angle, and soon afterwards Aykroyd increased the lead. From this on right up to the interval the leaders continued to play a wonderful game, and as a result MacDonagh (1) and Aykroyd (2) further increased the score. Throughout this spell the Garrison could make little headway, their backs were overwhelmed by the brilliant attack, and their forwards were held in check by the opposing defence. However, they had one chance, and this they took. A penalty corner for sticks gave Lieutenant Cork his chance, and he made no mistake with a fast shot, and the interval came to find the score 6-2.

From the restart the Garrison did rather better. For some time they held the visitors inside their own half, but failed to do more, lack of combination and poor shooting causing several good opportunities to go astray. On the other hand, Trinity always looked dangerous when they broke away, and although they enjoyed but moderate luck, Acheson and Evans in turn further increased the lead. Try as they could, and did, the Garrison failed to make any impression on the resolute defence until close on time, a fast centre from the right found Captain Pelly in position to score a goal similar to the one he got in the first half. This finished the scoring, and a splendid game resulted as above. Teams:—

Dublin University.—J. MacManaway; C. Blair-White, G. Levingston; M. D. Fox, B. J. Gahan, H. W. Strong; J. M. Eyre, R. S. Evans, W. Aykroyd, P. MacDonagh, W. Acheson.

Dublin District.—Bandsman Haben; Lieutenant Baird, Major Pratt; Sergeant Platt, Lieutenant Orpwood, Captain Brynns; Lieutenant Anderson, Lieutenant Matthews, Lieutenant Cork, Captain Pelly, Lieutenant Ely.

WATER POLO.

IRISH CUP FINAL.

VICTORY OF BELFAST AMATEURS.

The final of the Irish Water Polo Cup was played in Iveagh Baths, Dublin, on Saturday night, and attracted a very large crowd, who probably expected to see Pembroke beat Belfast Amateurs and retain the trophy which they took from the North last year. If they did, they were rudely surprised, for the Dubliners were well beaten on the score of five goals to one, which does not exaggerate the Belfast team's superiority.

Amateurs were strongly represented, and three of the side has had international experience. Pembroke's team, except for Dr. Beckett, is composed of young players. In the first half Pembroke were the speedier, and often got possession. Poor handling, combined with wildness, offset the Dubliner's advantage in the former particular. M'Cormack took advantage of a miss by Heather to score the first goal for the Northerners. After Leitch had shot wide for Pembroke, and Dr. Beckett shot into the goalkeeper's hands, Amateurs scored again, per Sayers. Pembroke's shooting was weak. Steele scored twice for Amateurs before the interval.

In the early stages of the second half Pembroke promised to wipe off some of the lead. M'Keown, however, kept goal well. Amateurs forced a fruitless corner, and then lost Steele (ordered out). Subsequently Dr. Beckett scored for Pembroke, and Stevenson soon followed with a fifth for Amateurs. The following were the teams:—

Belfast Amateurs—Goal, E. M'Keown; full backs, A. C. Sayers and W. Magee; half-back, T. M'Cormack; forwards, W. Steele, J. J. Smyth, and H. Stevenson.

Pembroke—Goal, S. Armstrong; full backs, Dr. Peckett and C. Heather; half-back, R. Leitch; forwards, J. C. Hopkins, O. Armstrong, and H. G. Ellerker.

Referee—Mr. N. Purcell.

N. Dublin, 4; S. Dublin, 3.

A match between teams called North and South Dublin was closely contested, and resulted in a win for North by the odd goal in seven.

RATHMINES ROAD FIGHT.

MEDICAL STUDENT'S DEATH.

STORIES TOLD AT THE INQUEST.

A graphic account was given at an inquest held in the Meath Hospital, Dublin, on Saturday last by the City Coroner (Dr. L. A. Byrne) on the body of Francis Power, aged 22 years, a medical student, of the attack with firearms and bombs upon the residence of General Richard Mulcahy in Rathmines road on Thursday evening last, in the course of which the deceased man was fatally injured by bullet wounds.

Mr. O'Byrne (instructed by Mr. A. Corrigan, Chief State Solicitor) appeared for the Free State authorities, and Mr. Lynn (instructed by Messrs. L. Uaidaigh and Black) said that he appeared for the Irish Republican Army. Mr. P. M. Seales, solicitor, represented the next-of-kin.

Mr. O'Byrne, at the outset, said that he presumed Mr. Lynn appeared for an illegal association of men engaged in carrying on an armed revolt against the national Government of the country. That association was not recognised by law, and had no existence in point of law. No one could appear in Court on its behalf, and consequently he objected to Mr. Lynn being allowed to appear.

Mr. Lynn said that Mr. O'Byrne was appearing for an army which had no legal existence either. No Mutiny Act had been passed in respect of the force which Mr. O'Byrne described as the National Army, and he maintained that the National Army was not an army at all.

Mr. O'Byrne said that he did not say that he appeared for any army, but for the State.

The Coroner said that the duty of the jury was to find the cause of death, and they should not take notice of legal quibbles.

DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE.

Dr. Cyril J. Murphy, house surgeon, stated that the body of Francis Power was brought to the Meath Hospital on Thursday evening. On examination, he found that the spinal column had been severed by a bullet, which entered behind the left ear, while a second bullet penetrated the chest, fracturing the left fourth rib, and a third bullet wound was found in the left arm. Death was instantaneous, and was due to laceration of the spinal column, or of the brain.

A sergeant of the National Army stated that on Thursday evening last he was in charge of the guard in a gate lodge at the entrance gate to Lissonfield House, Rathmines, where General Mulcahy resided. Shortly after 8.30 p.m. he heard firing from Rathmines road, and bullets struck the wall of the lodge. The witness ordered the guard to get out through a back window of the lodge, and accompanied them. They took up a position at the gate, but he did not hear any more shots. He saw an ambulance come along and take someone away. One of his men called the witness's attention to a grenade (produced), which was lying on the ground near the gate lodge. There was a detonator attached to the grenade, which was removed by an officer.

A metropolitan policeman, who was on duty near the Rathmines Town Hall, stated that at about 8.30 p.m. he heard a number of shots, and then saw several soldiers come from Portobello Barracks and discharge their rifles, apparently to frighten off people. He saw a man lying on the road opposite the Roman Catholic Church, and later saw the man removed on an ambulance.

To a Juror—When searching the body for identification at the hospital, the witness found some live cartridges in one of the pockets.

THE MAN WITH THE GUN.

An officer of the National Army, having been formally cautioned by the Coroner, stated that he was driving a motor cycle and sidecar, with a corporal, on Thursday evening, and when opposite Rathmines Post Office he heard shots, and saw several men on the road firing outside Lissonfield House. He estimated that there were 16 or 18 men, and they were firing towards the guardroom. The witness and the corporal fired two shots, and the man nearest them, who had a gun in his hand, turned, as if attracted by the shots. The witness and the corporal fired again, and the man staggered and fell. The witness got into the centre of the road to engage the other attackers, and the witness fired at a man that he saw in a tree. Some of the men ran for Rathmines Church, and others ran down Richmond Hill. Some of the men went into the church, and others got away by the side. One of the men fired point-blank at the witness from inside the church grounds, and then went into the church. On the witness's orders, the corporal took the gun from the deceased man and searched the body for papers. The corporal handed the witness the dead man's revolver. A clergyman arrived, and the man was taken away in an ambulance, accompanied by the clergyman.

Mr. Lynn was about to cross-examine the witness, when

Mr. Seales objected to Mr. Lynn's cross-examining. He said that he did not know who instructed Mr. Lynn, but he (Mr. Seales) objected to him.

Mr. Lynn said that a soldier of the Irish Republican Army had been killed, and he assumed that the Coroner would be willing to have every assistance, but, in face of Mr. Seales's objection, he would not proceed.

The corporal, who was with the officer on the motor cycle, corroborated his evidence. He found a Webley revolver a few feet from where the deceased man lay, with four live and two spent cartridges in it. In the dead man's pocket was a letter (produced), addressed "F. M. Power, Students' Room, St. Vincent's Hospital, Dublin."

THE VERDICT.

The jury found that the deceased man died from shock and hemorrhage, caused by gunshot wounds. They expressed their sympathy with the family of Mr. Power.

Mr. Seales thanked the jury for their expression of sympathy.

A GREAT CITIZEN.

ULSTER DELEGATION AT SIR HENRY WILSON'S TOMB.

Reverently clustered around the tomb of Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, in the crypt of St Paul's Cathedral, on Saturday, about fifty members of the Ulster Delegation in London paid homage to the memory of their distinguished countryman.

Lord and Lady Carson and the Duchess of Abercorn headed the procession to the tomb, where a magnificent wreath of orange chrysanthemums, lillies, and roses was deposited by Lord Carson. It carried a card inscribed:—"In loving memory of a life-long and devoted friend of Ulster."

Speaking with deep feeling, Lord Carson said:—"Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson was our beloved friend. He was one of the greatest citizens of the country. He was one of the men who, above all others, secured our freedom in the Great War. To us he was something even more than that. He was one of Ulster's most devoted sons, and because of his love of Ulster he sacrificed his life. It is hard to speak of him. I knew him since he was a boy. He was a great, frank, generous friend, a most loving companion, and a God-fearing man. We shall never forget."

ALSATIAN POTASH MINES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—As a writer on agricultural topics, I was interested to read your article on October 17th relating to Irish agriculture. The news with reference to ground phosphate rock and potash supplies is of special interest. In case, however, that your agricultural correspondent has not seen the following figures, I venture to quote from the Fertiliser and Feeding Stuffs Journal, September 27th:—

"The French production of potash has been greatly aided by the return to France of the potash mines in Alsace. The Alsatian mines in 1913, under German control, produced 350,341 metric tons of potash salts and 58,000 metric tons of pure potash. Under French control these mines produced 591,400 metric tons of potash salts and 98,000 metric tons of pure potash in 1919, and 1,243,027 metric tons of potash salts and 192,486 metric tons of pure potash in 1920."

It is apparent also from other statistics that very large tonnages of the potash salts from Alsatian mines have during the last two or three years been imported into various ports in the British Isles.—Yours, etc.,

CHRISTIANS IN ASIA MINOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—I wish to thank several of your readers for their kind response to the appeal which I have made for relief of the Christians in the Near East. Hitherto the Armenians had seemed to be the principal sufferers; but now, since the defeat of the Greeks, the tide has turned against them. I regret to see in your issue of this day that the Angora Government is stated to have "decided to expel all native Christians remaining in Asia Minor." Thousands have already left in a panic or have been driven away. What will happen to those multitudes who are now to be expelled?

The subscriptions already received have been forwarded to Captain Gracey, and the money will be divided between the "Friends of Armenia" and the Lord Mayor of London's Fund. The "Friends of Armenia" are now giving relief to Syrians and other sufferers in the Near East.—Yours, etc.,

STORM-TOSSED BIRDS.

THOUSANDS SEEK SHELTER ON A LINER.

It is not often that American liners acquire the rôle of a floating aviary, with all kinds of birds flying about the public rooms, but this was the case with the Cunard liner Scythia, which arrived at Liverpool on Saturday evening from New York. When some four hundred miles from the American shore, with a strong east wind blowing, a flock of birds, numbering several thousands, alighted on the ship's deck. It is presumed that they had been blown out to sea during migration from North to South America.

The species included wild canaries, redbreasts linnets, thrushes, and sandpipers. The flock also numbered three owls and carrier pigeons. A number of the smaller birds died from exhaustion.

THEATRES & CINEMAS.

THIS WEEK'S PROGRAMMES.

As good wine needs no bush, so the Carl Rosa Opera Company needs no recommendation to Dublin audiences, and its three weeks' season, which opens at the Gaiety Theatre to-night, is assured of a success equaling, if not transcending, that which has rewarded its previous visits. It is announced that during its visit the company will produce virtually the same repertory as it has presented at Covent Garden during the past month. This repretory, it may be noted, included Tannhauser, Rigoletto, the Meistersingers, Thais and Talmaae, Lohengrin, Tosca, Aida, and La Bohème.

The Gaiety season will open to-night at a quarter to eight o'clock with "Carmen."

The principal performers at the Theatre Royal will be Bert Coote, in his latest success entitled "P. Pipp, Detective"; St. Juste and Higgins, late of the King's Jesters, entertainers; Donald Mackay, a Scottish burlesque comedian; the Eddys, "Mid-Air entertainers" Malvina, "Just a Fiddler"; Lily Hayes, in songs and dances; and the "Mirthful Jokers," in a comedy act.

Mr. Lennox Robinson's latest play, "The Round Table," which will be reproduced at the Abbey Theatre to-morrow and on the succeeding nights, got a good reception on its first staging a few months ago, and, doubtless, many who have heard of its indubitable merits will take advantage of the present opportunity to form their own opinion. Following in the footlight footsteps of the author's "Lost Leader" and other plays, it will be produced in London next year by Mr. Basil Dean, who has also secured the American rights. Mr. T. C. Murray's one-act comedy, "Sovereign Love," will also be presented.

The week's attractions at the Empire Theatre include:—Gladys Wright and John Hartley, in a vocal scena entitled, "Songs sung Differently"; Les Avalong, four girls, who will appear in a scena embracing singing, dancing, and skating; Madam Sarah Rees (described as a Welsh Patti) and her baritone; Bert Neilson, dancer; Joe Archer, comedian; Monica Daly, comedienne and dancer; and Gaston Morel, in a comedy, "Cleaning a Lamp."

The Queen's Theatre stock company, which already has so many successes to its credit, under the management of the veteran actor, Mr. Frank Dalton, will appear in "Willy Reilly." For those who like this sort of play, it is just the sort of play they will like.

"Foy and Fay," described as "The Labour Comedians," head the "bill" at the Tivoli Theatre. Other "turns" include:—Bert Earle and Partner, comedy acrobats; Edith Allen, contralto; Eileen O'Meara and Teddy Mason, entertainers; Alf James Holt, mimic and comedian; Clark Sisters and Jenkins, in "Comical Capers"; and Max Garland, pianist and vocalist.

Norma Talmadge's production, "Smilin' Through," will be the attraction at the Metropole Theatre. New York, Long Island, and California furnish the backgrounds for the film, which was adapted from the popular song by Arthur A. Penn.

To-day the Carlton Cinema will show a film entitled "Extravagance," with May Allison in the chief part. On Thursday will be shown "Paid in Advance," with Dorothy Phillips, Priscilla Dean, and Lon Chaney in the cast.

At the Pillar Picture House next week, Harold Lloyd appears in his first five-part comedy, "A Sailor-made Man." It is a humorous picture, in a picturesque seaside setting.

Miss Maud Davin, a Dublin violiniste, will give a recital in the Abbey Theatre on Monday, the 13th. Miss Davin holds a sub-professorship in the Royal Academy of Music.

The Prince of Wales lunched with the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace yesterday.

GREATER DUBLIN SCHEMES.

PROPOSED DAIL COMMISSION.

THE TOWNSHIPS' VIEWS

An interesting debate on the subject of the proposed amalgamation of townships took place last night at a meeting of the Blackrock Literary and Debating Society, which was held in the Technical School, Blackrock. Sir Henry McLoughlin, K.B.E., was in the chair.

Mr. Reddy, solicitor, in opening the debate, spoke in favour of the amalgamation proposal, and outlined his scheme for the merging of the South Coast townships into one borough. The Dublin Corporation, he said, was framing a scheme to promote a bill to annex the townships, not for the benefit of the citizens, but for the benefit of the Corporation. To guard themselves against this they must form themselves into one corporate body with Parliamentary sanction, and call themselves a borough, with all the townships amalgamated. They could then defy the Corporation.

Mr. E. A. Aston, Honorary Secretary, Greater Dublin Reconstruction Movement, referred to what he described as the administrative puzzle of the City and County of Dublin. He suggested as an alternative proposal for their consideration that they should leave the present local authorities as they were, and go to the Dail and ask it to get up a Greater Dublin Reconstruction Commission. In that way they would accept responsibility for a limited period—say, five or ten years—for the area defined as Greater Dublin. The Commission's functions—it should be small and well paid, so that they would get the very best men available—would be to think out the problem of Greater Dublin. Having done so, it could then go to the Corporation, the Gas Company, Port and Docks Board, Dublin and South-Eastern Railway Company, and other bodies involved, and say, "Here's what we think should be done." Then they could sit around a table and discuss it, and draw up their recommendations and place them before the Dail as a report. If in three months it was unchallenged it became law, and, if challenged, the Dail was to decide whether it was to be worked or not.

THE LIMPETS.

Mr. Good, Kingstown Council, said that the Corporation had an ulterior motive in view.

Mr. O h-Uadhaigh said that he endorsed Mr. Aston's remarks, and agreed with him, particularly in his warning against parochialism and thinking in terms of the parish pump. Dublin was too large a problem to be dealt with by the townships themselves. They were limpets clinging to the rock of Dublin, and if the rock rotted away they would go with it. The nation would have to reinstate and reconstruct the capital of the country.

A number of other speakers having contributed to the debate,

The motion for the amalgamation of the townships was carried without dissent.

NEW ISSUES.

MARCONI'S DEBENTURE STOCK.

Messrs. Helbert Wagg and Co. are offering to-day £1,500,000 6½ p.c. Convertible 10-Year First Debenture Stock of Marconi's Wireless Telegraph Company, at the price of 99 per cent. The stock is secured by a first floating charge on the whole of the assets of the company, which has no other Debentures outstanding. If redemption takes place in 1932, the stock will be redeemed at 101 per cent., but the company reserves the right to redeem the whole issue with accrued interest at 109 in 1924, and in each subsequent year at a price diminishing by 1 per cent. each year. The company undertakes to apply £75,000 in each year, beginning in 1924, in purchasing the stock, provided it can be acquired below the year's redemption value, and to the extent that stock cannot be so purchased then in drawings at such premium. Stockholders are given the option during the six years, from April, 1923, to April, 1929, of converting into Ordinary shares of the Marconi Company on the basis of one share for each £3 of Debenture stock. The prospectus sets forth the balance sheet as at December 31, 1921, and Senatore Marconi, in a letter to the issuing house, points out that the surplus of assets over liabilities is £7,951,946, which does not include considerable claims outstanding against Government Departments. The net profits since 1915 are given, and show an average annual sum of £411,686, or sufficient to cover the interest on the Debenture stock more than four times over. Signor Marconi adds that the business of the current year has every prospect of showing improvement over that of 1921, which was one of unprecedented difficulty. The proceeds of the present issue are entirely destined for purposes of further development. He also states that there is an ever-increasing demand from all parts of the world for wireless facilities. The Debentures are, of course, well secured, and the prospects of early redemption at a high premium gives them an additional speculative value, which will appeal to some investors. The prospectus appears on Page 11, and the list will close on or before Friday, 10th instant. Applications from shareholders will receive special consideration up to half the amount of stock offered.

SIR J. L. HULETT AND SONS' PREFERENCE SHARES.

The Melford Industrial Corporation, Ltd., having purchased from Sir J. L. Hulett and Sons, Ltd., the South African Sugar Millers and Refiners, and Tea Growers and Manufacturers, 225,000 7½ p.c. Cumulative Preference Shares, now offer them for sale at the price of 21s. per share. In front of the Preference shares are £300,000 5 per cent. Debentures and Mortgage Bonds. The company has been in existence just 30 years, and since 1912 it has paid dividends ranging from 5 per cent. to 12 per cent., the last being 8 per cent., without a bonus. The profits in 1921 had risen to £80,174, but in 1922 fell to £58,599, after allowing for heavy depreciation. The net annual average profit for the past 11 years, including 1922, has been £67,571, which covers the interest on the 7½ per cent. Preference shares four times over. The total assets standing as security for the Preference shares are valued at £1,088,550, and, in the opinion of the Board, the assets are undervalued. The prospectus is printed on Page 11, and applicants should use the application form attached thereto. The subscription list will close on or before Saturday next, 11th instant.

£50 DOLE PAID BACK.

The Rev. A. G. Pritchard, one of the guardians for Battersea (London) has received a packet containing fifty one-pound notes from a person formerly in receipt of the dole.

The anonymous sender, signing himself "Well-wisher," wrote:—

"I have much pleasure in forwarding £50 to hand over to the guardians as payment of some of the dole I received from them, as I know it will help many another deserving case."

M. Autrand, the retiring Prefect of the Seine, has been presented with the Medaille d'Or in the name of the Municipality of Paris.

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSED IRREGULAR.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Saturday.

Stocks opened irregular. Coppers were bid up, but "bears" attacked other leaders vigorously, especially Oils, Steels, Equipments, and Motors, which lost 1 to 3 points. In the later dealings, however, shorts covering and the strength of Standard Oils cabled some recovery, and the market closed irregular.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY.

NEW ELECTION BY-LAWS.

At a meeting of the Council of the Royal Dublin Society last Thursday, the report of the committee appointed in June to prepare a scheme to simplify the method of electing members was read. Sir Simon Maddock handed in a notice of motion for the next meeting setting the proposed new by-laws to give effect to the recommendations of the committee.

The Council has voted £100 to the Dublin Cattle Salesmasters' Association for a fat stock show to be held in December.

MAILS TO CANADA.

DIRECT SHIPPING FROM BELFAST.

The direct shipment of mails from Belfast to Canada was inaugurated on Saturday. The vessel was the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's ss. Metagama, which left Glasgow on Friday night with over 1,000 passengers on board. The vessel anchored off Kilroot on Saturday, and 23 bags of mails, together with some 100 emigrants from Ulster, were conveyed to it by the Harbour Commissioners' tug, Musgrave.

Hitherto it had been the practice to send the mails to Liverpool and other ports, from which they were despatched. A saving of at least 24 hours will be thus effected. If the old practice had been followed the mails would have been sent via Larne and Stranraer on Friday night in order to catch the vessel, which left Liverpool on Saturday and which did not pass Belfast Lough on her outward journey until Sunday morning.

TWO KILLED IN AMBUSH.

FIGHT AGAINST HEAVY ODDS.

SURPRISE FOR QUEEN'S CO. ROBBERS.

Eight soldiers travelling in a Crossley tender were ambushed near Dundalk last Saturday forenoon.

A land mine which was exploded did no harm, but in a burst of rifle fire which followed it an officer and a sergeant were mortally wounded.

The body of a young man lay in the street of Portroe, Co. Tipperary, all last Friday night. It was riddled with bullets, and bore a label which read, "Convicted spy and robber."

Men who stole postal orders from Loughglynn Post Office had the audacity to cash them with local merchants before they left the village.

COUNTY LOUTH.

FIGHT NEAR DUNDALK.

OFFICER AND SERGEANT KILLED.

A desperate attack on a Crossley tender containing a small party of national soldiers occurred just before midday on Saturday four miles from Dundalk, and resulted in the deaths of Captain Boyle and Sergeant Treanor.

Captain Boyle and seven soldiers were motoring from Greenore to Dundalk. When nearing Rockmarshall the troops had just passed underneath the railway bridge of the Dundalk, Newry, and Greenore Railway, when a mine was exploded. Beyond covering the men with earth, the explosion did little harm.

As soon as the mine had exploded gunfire was poured on the troops from the hills which face the railway bridge and from the slopes of the railway.

It was evident that the attackers had laid careful plans. About twenty are stated to have participated in the firing, and the spot selected was ideal from the attackers' point of view. Behind the troops was the sea, and in front the attackers ranged along the hillside. The high hedges along the railway afforded others of the attacking party excellent cover.

One of the first rifle shots damaged the engine of the Crossley. A desperate fight then took place. Sergeant Treanor, a native of Monaghan town, was shot through the back, the bullet coming out over his heart. He died instantly. Treanor was engaged to be married, and was leaving for his home on Monday.

Early in the encounter Captain Boyle received two bullet wounds, both of them in the stomach. One bullet went clean through his body. For half an hour the firing continued, and the soldiers state that they saw two of the attackers fall, shot through the head, and that they were carried by their comrades up to the mountains. Captain Boyle was taken to the County Infirmary at Dundalk. He died at 5.40 on the same evening.

QUEEN'S COUNTY.

HIGHWAYMEN CHASED.

ATTEMPT TO ROB A BANK MANAGER.

As Mr. James O'Keeffe, manager Munster and Leinster Bank, Maryborough, and another bank official, who were accompanied by a guard of two national soldiers, were driving to Stradbally on Saturday morning armed men attempted to stop them near the Rock of Dunamaise.

The soldiers, who had just dismounted from the car, engaged the men, and an exchange of shots took place. One soldier, Patrick Phelan, of Ballacolla, was shot through the cheek.

The attackers fled to the hills. It is believed that one of them was wounded.

During the engagement Mr. O'Keeffe succeeded in driving away, and got safely to Stradbally, where he opened his sub-office.

The wounded soldier, though weakened by loss of blood, walked into Stradbally, where he was attended by Dr. T. F. Higgins, senior, who drove him back to the County Infirmary.

COUNTY TIPPERARY.

"CONVICTED SPY."

BODY LIES IN THE STREET ALL NIGHT.

Late last Friday night a young man named Kennedy was shot dead in Portroe village, about five miles from Nenagh. His head and body were riddled with bullets.

The villagers were so frightened that nobody would approach the body, and it lay in the street all night. On Saturday morning the Rev. Father Scanlon placed a sheet over the body pending its removal to Nenagh Workhouse by the military. Pinned to it was a card which bore the inscription—"Convicted spy and robber."

COUNTY CORK.

SOLDIERS AMBUSHED.

ATTACKED WITH BOMB AND RIFLE FIRE.

Shortly before midnight on Saturday night, when a motor car containing national troops was returning from Blackrock to Cork a bomb was thrown at it at the eastern end of Ballintemple village. None of the occupants was injured.

At the same time rifle and revolver fire was opened on the troops from both sides of the road. The military returned the fire, and dismounted, and made a search of the vicinity. Heavy firing was kept up for some time. There were no casualties on the military side, and it could not be ascertained whether any of the attackers were wounded.

COUNTY ROSCOMMON.

IMPUDENT ROBBERS

STEAL AND CASH P.O. ORDERS IN SAME VILLAGE.

At 11 o'clock last Friday three armed men raided the Loughglynn Sub-Post Office, Castlerea, and carried away £86 in cash and money orders.

They afterwards cashed some of the postal orders with the local shopkeepers. No arrests have been made, notwithstanding the activity of the Civic Guards.

COLLEGE GAELIC SOCIETY.

The opening meeting of the second session of the College Gaelic Society will be held in the Regent House, Trinity College, to-morrow afternoon at 3.30. RESULT OF A COURTMARTIAL.

At a courtmartial held in Limerick a guard at the City Home and Hospital was charged with neglect of duty, which involved the escape of six prisoners recently, when the guard was overpowered. The Court, our Limerick Correspondent says, found the guard guilty, and imposed a sentence of five years' penal servitude on a sergeant, and twelve months on other members of the guard.

MILLIONAIRE TO THE RESCUE.

A gipsy van stuck in the notoriously steep Morley street, Bradford, on Saturday. A pedestrian put fourteen stone of Yorkshire bone and muscle to the wheel successfully, and was thanked by the gipsy as he mopped his brow. The friend in need was a millionaire wool king, famed alike for his business astuteness and his good heart.

..."That is all you need do—take a course of Sanatogen"

BUT the Doctor impresses on her that she must take her Sanatogen regularly—three times a day—to build up her nerves and bring back the colour to her cheeks.

"For the shaky nervous system and weak or failed digestion I have always found Sanatogen a sure and satisfying food remedy," writes a doctor in the Medical Times.

And 24,000 other doctors have also given similar testimony.

At the sixteenth International Medical Congress Sanatogen gained the Grand Prix—highest possible award—in open competition with other products.

Take Sanatogen regularly for at least a few weeks. It will rebuild your health on a bedrock foundation. No drugs or stimulants with their inevitable reaction. Just a perpetual feeding of nerves, blood and tissues with the purest invigorating nutriment.

From a Royal Physician:

"I have prescribed Sanatogen for people who were run-down" writes Dr. E. Gallone, Royal Court Physician, Rome, "and they were very grateful for the surprising improvement which followed; their appetite was restored, and their general strength greatly increased. I also tried Sanatogen in the case of four weakly children, all of whom showed a quite unexpected gain in weight after only a fortnight's use of the preparation."

Ask your chemist for it. At 2/3 to 10/9 per tin, it costs you less than 2½d. per dose. And the results are certain—increased strength and energy, improved nutrition, richer, redder blood corpuscles—and a better functioning of all the vital organs.

If you would like to know more about Sanatogen, a postcard to Genatosan, Ltd., Loughborough, will bring you an interesting booklet.

BANKRUPT'S TENANCY.

ASSIGNEE'S APPEAL DISMISSED.

In the High Court of Appeal for Ireland on Saturday, before the Lord Chancellor, Lord Chief Justice Molony, and Lord Chief Justice Henry (Northern Ireland), an appeal which had been brought by the assignees in bankruptcy was heard. It was taken from an order of the Court of Appeal for Southern Ireland, which reversed an order of the Judge in Bankruptcy refusing to compel Mrs. Mary Keane, a bankrupt, to deliver up to the landlord, Mr. Herbert H. Wilson, possession of the house, Edenville, Conyngham road, Dublin, which the assignees in bankruptcy elected not to take.

Mr. Lardner, K.C., with whom was Mr. Carson (instructed by Messrs. Hayes and Sons) for the assignees, argued that the Judge in Bankruptcy had done the best he could for the creditors, as he was bound to do, in declining to make the order. Mrs. Keane, who was in the victualling business at Parkgate street, Dublin, and Terenure, was adjudicated a bankrupt in August, 1921, her liabilities running well into five figures. In August, 1920, she became tenant of Edenvale, at a rent of £110, for one year, with an option to purchase for £3,000 before November 1st, 1921. She did not purchase, and the assignees in bankruptcy elected not to take her interest in the premises as part of the bankrupt's assets. She continued in possession, and in March last an arrangement was entered into with the purchaser of the furniture of the house that the assignees would not take possession of the house.

The Court now held that, although the Judge in Bankruptcy had a discretion to grant or refuse the order, the bankrupt in this case had no real interest in the house, beyond a tenancy at will, as she had not exercised her option to purchase. The landlord did not want a bankrupt tenant, and he was entitled to possession of the premises. They accordingly made an order for possession, and dismissed the appeal, the Lord Chancellor expressing the hope that the landlord would deal gently with Mrs. Keane, who was endeavouring to support her family.

Mr. Blood, K.C.; Mr. Swayne, K.C., and Mr. H. Hamilton (instructed by Mr. J. R. Cresswell) appeared for the landlord.

Mr. Costello (instructed by Mr. H. B. O'Hanlon) appeared for the bankrupt.

A LOST MOTOR CAR.

At a special court on Saturday in Armagh, before Mr. A. Gore Moriarty, R.M., a young woman, who was described as a nurse, was returned for trial to the Ulster Winter Assizes on a charge of stealing a motor car, the property of William McCann, Dobbin street, Armagh.

The defence was that the accused was not responsible for taking the car.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—The depression off North-West Ireland will soon be centred over the British Isles, causing very unsettled weather in all districts. Winds will be strong from south-west over England at first, and the temperature higher than of late, but cold northerly winds will probably become general in the course of the next day or two, with sleet or snow in the north.

Ireland.—Wind N.W. to N., fresh or strong; rain or hail showers, bright intervals; visibility moderate to good; cold.

South-east seaboard, mouth of Channel to South-West Ireland.—Strong N.W. to W. wind, showery; visibility mainly good; sea rough.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Wind indefinite, freshening from north later; showery; visibility moderate to good; sea rather rough.

N.W. seaboard, N. Ireland to Hebrides.—Freshening northerly winds; showery; visibility mainly good; sea rather rough.

The British Elections.

Last Saturday was nomination day for the British elections. It was expected that at the final moment Mr. Lloyd George would throw his "reserves" of some 150 candidates into the fray; but he seems to have decided on second thoughts that to "spread the war" would result not in an improvement, but rather in a worsening of his chances at the election. When Saturday arrived only a handful of additional candidates was nominated. Altogether some 1,300 candidates are in the field. Fifty-six, of whom thirty are Conservatives, were returned unopposed, and 559 seats remain to be won and lost. The Conservatives have, roughly, 440 men in the field. Mr. Lloyd George's party has only 180. There are 410 Labour candidates, one Nationalist, Mr. Joseph Devlin (Mr. T. P. O'Connor was returned unopposed), and a sprinkling of independents of various political shades. The Independent Liberals, however, nominated a surprisingly large number of candidates. Altogether some 325 "Wee Frees" will follow Mr. Asquith to the polls, and they include some very well known and popular politicians. Any attempt to forecast the result of this election, which is being contested by a "record" number of candidates, would be futile. The general opinion is that the Conservatives will be sent back to power with a small majority, and that Labour will receive another wholesome snub from the electorate; but speculation is dangerous, and the Independent Liberals may surprise everybody.

Nearly all the important leaders made speeches on Saturday, but none of them brought the problem of policy much nearer to solution. At Leeds the Prime Minister addressed an enthusiastic audience of Yorkshire Conservatives. He has gauged the feelings of the mass of the people very accurately, and intends to stick to his "negative" policy of "tranquillity" until after the elections. Then, no doubt, he will elaborate his scheme for setting the nation's house in order. Mr. Lloyd George spoke in London and made another attempt to glorify the idea of coalition. He gave no hint of his intentions if the turn of fortune's wheel at the polls should put him in a position in which he could hold the balance between the Conservatives and the Labour Party. The advocates of Liberal reunion will scan his words in vain for a suggestion that he would be prepared, in certain circumstances, to throw in his lot again with his old chief, Mr. Asquith. Viscount Grey, at Manchester, made a strong appeal for this reunion; but, like the Turk, neither Mr. Lloyd George nor Mr. Asquith is inclined at present to bear a brother near his throne, and the only hope of Liberal reunion seems to lie in the translation of the latter to the House of Lords. Rarely in the history of British politics has there been an election with fewer real issues. Reduced to its simplest terms, the decisive question for the people will be: "Are you for or against Mr. Lloyd George?" The personal note is predominant.

Ireland has no direct concern with a political change which marks a turning point in British history. The Treaty is secure. At Leeds Mr. Bonar Law made that point clear beyond a shade of doubt. He laid particular stress on the fact that his good-will towards the men who are trying to restore stable conditions to Ireland is sincere. Ireland's interest, however, demands that Britain shall have a strong and efficient Government. Although she is now, to all intents and purposes, an independent political entity, the economic links that bind her to the sister island are as strong as ever they were. Irish prices will continue in a large degree to depend on prices in England. Irish trade will flourish or languish in direct proportion to the growth or decay of British commerce. Every thoughtful Irishman, therefore, will rejoice if Mr. Bonar Law is returned to power with a working majority. His Cabinet may not be ideal, but it is an honest Cabinet which will make for efficiency in public affairs. An indecisive result would be deplorable. The whole life of the nation would be at sixes and sevens. There would be no stability either in politics or in trade, and Ireland would be affected very seriously by the widespread confusion which would result. Nature has bound the Irish and the British peoples together by chains which are stronger than treaties or Acts of Union, and bad government in England would be an evil only less dangerous than bad government at home.

American Politics.

The Republican Party in the United States is not facing the elections with complete equanimity. At present it possesses a majority in Congress as overwhelming, and therefore as unwieldy, as was Mr. Lloyd George's in the late Parliament. To-morrow's contest involves some one-third only of the seats in each House, and the worst that can happen—the general opinion of the experts seems to be that it will happen—is that the large Republican majority will be reduced substantially. The Republican Party, in its present form, is a Coalition, precisely like the Coalition that supported Mr. Lloyd George. It is a fusion of the old Republicans—the party of "big business" and the trusts—and the Progressives. The latter might be described as enlightened conservatives, believing in the old Republican principles, but demanding their application for the benefit of the people as a whole, and not for the benefit of certain privileged classes. The Progressive Party came into active being in 1912, when it took something like three-quarters of the Republican vote from President Taft and gave it to President Roosevelt. This splitting of the Republican vote admitted President Wilson, and in 1916 a sort of Coalition was arranged between the two parties for the purpose of reversing the situation. The Coalition, however, displeased a great many Western Progressives, who promptly voted for Mr. Wilson, thus securing his second term of office. Post-war conditions in the United States and a general mistrust of Mr. Wilson's League of Nations policy resulted in a real Republican-Progressive Coalition in 1920, which routed the Democrats. Now America is settling down to normal conditions, and the cleavage of interests and opinions between Republicans and Progressives is beginning to assert itself. For the moment "big business" is in the saddle. There may be a job for everybody, as President Harding's supporters boast; but wages are falling, prices are stationary and, with the Fordney Tariff in full swing, they are bound to rise. Senator Borah prophesies the coming of a victorious "People's Party" in 1924. It will be the Progressives under another name; but their victory will not divide the American voters, as some correspondents seem to think, into the two natural groups of political thought. American political issues turn not on ideals, but on needs. The People's Party will insist that the Government's aim and practical efforts must be to secure the greatest good of the greatest number. The Republican Party will remain the party of the vested interests. Only when this party has disappeared permanently can the Liberal-Conservative cleavage appear truly in American politics.

Canadian Cattle.

The terms on which Canadian cattle may enter Great Britain have been settled by agreement between the new Cabinet and the Prime Minister of Canada. Store cattle must be isolated for three days before shipment. They must be examined daily during the voyage, and when they reach the specified landing places they must undergo thorough examination by British veterinary officers. Afterwards they will come under the same regulations which are applied to Irish cattle, including detention for six days on a farm or other premises. A maximum fee of sixpence per head will be imposed on all imported animals. There will be no compensation for slaughter as the result of disease, and the Minister of Agriculture retains power to suspend importation if plague, pleuro-pneumonia or foot-and-mouth disease should appear in Canada. The landing of breeding cattle will require the authority of a general order by the Minister, which either House of Parliament may veto within a period of thirty days. These regulations, no doubt, will be applied in the near future to cattle imports from South Africa and other parts of the Empire; for the London Conference endorsed the view that legislation on the subject could not be limited to Canada. Irish farmers have no further excuse for inaction. They are confronted with assured and formidable competition in a rich market where hitherto they have enjoyed a virtual monopoly, and the conditions of the new rivalry are now revealed. The crisis demands the best thought of our two Governments, of the leaders of the cattle industry and, indeed, of all Irish economists; for it affects every aspect of national organisation. For instance, there is a vital connection between the future of the cattle industry and the future management of the railways. Ireland's ability to compete with the Dominions in the English markets will resolve itself largely into a question of railway and shipping charges.

Looking Forward.

Many writers before Bellamy and Wells have tried to pre-construct the cities and homes of a century or five centuries hence; but the practical architect seldom allows imagination to run away with him in this fashion. There is a special interest, therefore, in Sir Aston Webb's vision of the London of A.D. 2023. It is a broad-spaced and pellucid London, from which many of the existing land-marks will have disappeared. A hundred years hence, Sir Aston Webb predicts, the whole of London will be under the sway of one central government. Smoke and fog will have become as extinct as the dodo. The Thames, purified of sewage, will teem with salmon. Spanning the river at Charing Cross, a magnificent road-bridge will serve as the national memorial of the Great War. All the railways will have disappeared from the airman's map; for they will have gone underground for a distance of fifteen miles from the centre of the city. The flat-roofed houses will carry their own gardens; and a stretch of open parkland will provide the vast population with a retreat for rest and pleasure. Certainly this is not the London of Samuel Pepys or Dr. Johnson or Charles Dickens; but the fulfilment of Sir Aston Webb's vision—in which nothing is inherently impossible—would repay the scrapping of many precious associations with the past. We are glad that the eminent architect has not permitted his fancy to wait upon the drafting of a civic survey. The foundations of Greater London and of Greater Dublin must be laid in the educated pride and ambition of their citizens.

COLLEGE GREEN.

One of Dublin's Birthmarks.

(BY PATRICK AIDEN.)

COLLEGE Green and Nassau street have lately been the subject of some controversy in municipal and collegiate circles, and so, for the time being, have acquired a certain public interest.

The Dublin citizen, however, who passes daily through the familiar street in pursuit of pleasure or business seldom realises that he is in touch with a distant, but by no means uninteresting past.

Who would suspect that the apparently simple word "Green" carries a history with it? A few, perhaps, have wondered why a street in which there is not a vestige of grass should be called "College Green." "College" one can understand, but why "Green?" unless, indeed, the grass and trees of the College Park have, by some sympathetic process, impressed themselves upon the surrounding street names. It is not so, however. There was a "Green" long before either college or park came into existence.

It is hard to realise that there can be any direct connection between modern street names and the Danish pirates who first plundered and afterwards settled in Ireland during the ninth and tenth centuries. Yet, it is to them, and no others, that College Green owes its distinctive name.

The surprising accuracy of the old Irish annalists enable us to visualise to some extent the origin of the "Green" and the first expansion of Dublin City. On Wednesday, 15th September, 919, says the annalist, Sitric, the Danish King, defeated a combination of Irish chiefs and their followers at Kilmashogue Mountain, near Rathfarnham. As the result of this battle, the Danes established themselves firmly in Dublin, which, for some time afterwards, became almost a Danish city, so far at least as its Government and public customs were concerned.

The Danes, in their natural state, appear to have been bloodthirsty savages enough, but were capable of a better, or, at any rate, of a different manner of life. Like many other wild men before and since, when they did at last settle down, they grew into quite exemplary citizens. They became more or less regular church-goers, and even church-builders. They built up a considerable import and export trade; they went in for town planning, and are said to have improved the domestic architecture of the city—probably not a very difficult feat in those days. In municipal affairs they naturally introduced Danish customs and methods of procedure.

It is here that we come into direct touch with the "Green," which, in the familiar name of "College," is still with us. In every Scandinavian community there was a central meeting place, generally a hill, to which the whole adult population gathered once a year. Here laws were made and proclaimed, trials were held, bargains were made, and all sorts of business, both private and public, was transacted. A survival of the custom may be seen in the quaint ceremonies of the Tynwald in the Isle of Man to-day.

Well, in Danish Dublin the meeting place, or Thingmote, was near the site of St. Andrew's Church, and was known as "Hogges Green," "Hogges" from Hoga, a hill, which then stood there, and "green," the open space where the annual meetings were held.

An old picture of the hill shows it to have been about 50 feet high and cut into terraces. "Exercise your imagination," said the late Professor Stokes when lecturing to a Trinity class on the subject, "sweep away the College and all its buildings; remove the Bank of Ireland and leave an open space down to the shelving banks of the Liffey, even then of a dark rich brown colour; place near the site of St. Andrew's Church a steep hill rising 50 feet above the present street level, or as high as the highest summit of the church; carve that hill into terraces, and then you have 'Hogges Green,' or the assembly ground of the Danes of Dublin, as it existed 900 years ago."

The Thingmote was levelled about 200 years ago, and its soil now forms Nassau street, accounting for its height above the College Park.

It is doubtful if any other streets of modern cities have so direct a connection with so remote a past.

LONDON LETTER.

THE NOMINATIONS.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The surprise of the nominations was the collapse of Mr. Lloyd George's threat to "spread the war" by starting National Liberal candidates at the last minute in a number of seats where the Unionists were supposed to have the best chance. The Daily Chronicle, the only London paper which remains faithful to his cause, published an imposing list yesterday of the seats to be thus suddenly invaded. Eleven of them were in or near London.

But the courage of the candidates or of their leader seems to have evaporated in the course of the morning; for, out of the eleven, only one came up to scratch. This was Mr. A. Clavering at Hampstead. His name deserves to be recorded as that of the one Lloyd George "die-hard." But the only effect of his candidature is likely to be to detach a few Liberal votes from the "Wee Frees" champion and so to increase Mr. G. Balfour's majority.

One is beginning to think that Mr. Lloyd George is not quite the electioneering strategist that he was reported to be. It is true, of course, that his entire plan of campaign was upset by the fall of the Coalition Government. He had expected that he would fight this election, as he did the last, as the acknowledged generalissimo of an Allied host, in which his personal following would have the unquestioning support of the Conservative Party. When his anticipations were upset at the Carlton Club he had no alternative to fall back upon.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S MISTAKE.

He ought to have remembered what Wellington said about one of the French marshals—Massena, I think it was—opposed to him in the Peninsula. He described his rival's plan of campaign as being like a splendid suit of harness complete in every detail; but if, by some accident, one part failed, the whole came to grief. "Whereas," he added, "I make my plans of rope, and if one part breaks, I just tie a knot and go on."

There was not, of course, much excuse for the ex-Premier's miscalculation. After what happened at the beginning of this year he ought to have known that the Conservative organisation, under its astute chief, Sir George Younger, had no intention of allowing itself to be used a second time to secure a Lloyd George dictatorship for four or five years. But it is now clear that, blind to this plain warning, and relying upon the complacency of some of his principal colleagues, he was about to repeat the manœuvre that had failed a few months before, and spring a general election upon the country before the Conservative Party, as a whole, had taken its bearings.

Chagrin at this second failure and consciousness that he had really only himself to blame are quite sufficient to account for the querulous tone of his speeches, and for the pin-pricks that he applies to his successor. It is odd, by the way, that he should lay so much stress upon the "negative" character of the new Prime Minister's programme; for his own, as revealed in four or five long speeches, consists of little more than an abstract belief in the advantages of coalition.

In this connection, a political correspondent of the New Statesman tells a story which, if well founded, is highly significant. "I cannot think," he writes, "that Mr. Lloyd George's wayside and other orations, queerly compounded as those mixtures continue to be of self-pitying tear-drops, tawdry metaphors, and trite backchat—in short, anything and everything but politics—are likely to advance his interests. At the close of one speech, I am told, an emissary of the orator was deputed to sound the assembled journalists for an expert impression of the great performance. 'Tell him,' was the dreadful reply, 'that if he goes on like this, he will lose his verbatims.'"

FORECASTS.

At no general election that I can remember has it been more difficult to frame with any confidence a forecast of the result. The Conservatives have started well, as they always do, by securing a large majority of the unopposed returns. Already they have thirty members in the new House, including seven Ministers. Mr. Douglas Hogg, K.C., the Attorney-General, has had an almost unique experience in being returned unopposed at his first attempt to enter Parliament. The Government can rely also upon the support of the ten Ulster Unionists already returned.

Seven National Liberals (including Mr. Lloyd George himself, who has never before been unopposed at a general election), five Liberals (including Mr. Whitley, whose re-election as Speaker may be confidently anticipated), three Labour members (including Mr. Adamson, a former chairman of the party), and one Nationalist (Mr. T. P. O'Connor, the Father of the House, who has now been successful at eleven general elections) have also been returned—making a total of fifty-six members already elected.

What will happen in the 559 contests to be waged on November 15th? The difficulties of prophecy are increased by the fact that in the great majority of them there are three candidates, and in some four or even more. Altogether there are some 1,350 candidates in the field, of whom, roughly, the Conservatives claim 440, the National Liberals 180, the Liberals 325, and Labour 410, with one Nationalist (Mr. Devlin), who is essaying a rather forlorn hope against Sir Leslie Scott in the Exchange Division of Liverpool, and a few independents.

A journalistic friend who has made a study of the electoral prospects tells me that his forecast is—Conservatives 350, National Liberals and Labour about 100 apiece, and "Wee Frees" between 60 and 70. But, as he is on a Unionist journal, his wish may be father to his thought. Personally, I should be well content if the Unionists get 320, and I have an idea that the "Wee Frees" will do rather better and the National Liberals rather worse than my friend anticipates.

THE WOMEN'S VOTE.

An interesting topic of general discussion at the moment is the effect of the women's vote in the general election. All parties have some more or less plausible ground for believing that they will benefit. Labour organisers have long held the view that the enfranchisement of women would act greatly in their favour; but it has been the experience of Conservatives who have taken part in canvassing that a considerable part of the vote is on their side. Curiously enough, Liberals of both wings and independent candidates also appear to believe that they can rely upon a large volume of feminine support.

An interesting fact about Sir Henry Wilson's grave was revealed by Canon Simpson when he received Lord Carson and the Ulster delegation, who came to lay a wreath upon it yesterday. When before the war the Dean and Chapter had to choose a grave for the late Lord Wolseley they remembered that Lord Roberts was an old man, and would almost certainly be brought to lie there, so they left a place for him. "There, in between them," continued the Canon, "they left a third place. They were thinking of that great soldier who now lay under the waters of the Northern Sea. For some time they said, 'What soldier will fill that place?' And then your great fellow-countryman from Ulster was brought here."

ROTUNDA RINK BURNED

SET ON FIRE BY A BAND OF ARMED MEN.

DESTRUCTION OF MAILS.

RESTRICTED SERVICE IN THE CITY TO-DAY.

The Rotunda Rink Post Office, Dublin, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning.

At about 6.40 o'clock armed men compelled a watchman to admit them at the western gate. The officials on duty were ordered into a small room, and later were escorted into Lower Dominick street, when they were instructed to walk towards the Broadstone Station.

In the meanwhile, other men entered the Rink with tins of petrol, with which they saturated the floors, and, when their preparations were complete, set the place on fire.

Within an hour, despite the efforts of the fire brigade to extinguish the flames, the Rink was a mass of smouldering ashes and twisted ironwork.

The destruction of the Rink has resulted in the loss of a great quantity of correspondence. There will be only two deliveries in the city to-day, but to-morrow there will be three. The postal authorities, apparently, intend to use Banba Hall as a temporary sorting office.

HOW THE RAIDERS GAINED ADMISSION

The latest action of incendiarism in Dublin has been the destruction of the Rotunda Rink Post Office, which was set on fire early yesterday morning by a party of armed men.

At 6.40 a.m., when a watchman was standing near the western gate, ready to open it when the English mails arrived, a young man approached and asked him to open it. Not knowing the man, the watchman hesitated. Almost immediately four other men arrived on the scene, and, pointing revolvers at the watchman, through the gate, ordered him to open it.

The watchman was thus compelled to admit the men. He was taken to the despatch platform and forced to open the doors leading into the premises.

Meanwhile three other men arrived carrying tins of petrol.

The watchman was next conducted to Granby place, where he was joined by three postmen, a sorting clerk, and another watchman, who had been taken from other parts of the building Later they were all marched by their captors to Lower Dominick street, and told that they must walk straight towards the Broadstone Station.

ELABORATE PREPARATIONS.

Inside the Post Office the remainder of the raiders made elaborate preparations for destroying the premises. Petrol was sprinkled over the floors, walls, and ceilings. Little more than a dozen men seem to have taken part in the work, which was carried out quietly and expeditiously.

A policeman had passed the Post Office shortly before the arrival of the raiders. Evidently his presence had been noted by some of the men, for it was immediately after he passed that five of them approached the watchman at the western gate.

Some time afterwards two other constables made their appearance, and were accosted suddenly by some of the raiders, who detained them in order to prevent the alarm from being given to the Fire Station.

At 6.55 a morning watchman arrived to take up duty. The first indication of a raid on the premises was conveyed to him by the fact that the west gates were open, and the grounds inside were quite deserted. On going towards the premises he discovered that the interior was blazing fiercely.

BRIGADE ARRIVES.

The alarm was immediately given by him to the Fire Brigade. The summons was answered within a minute.

"We arrived," Captain Myers told an Irish Times reporter, "after 7 o'clock, and found that the south end of the building was a complete mass of flames. The blaze was at the same time spreading rapidly towards the north end. We immediately brought into use six lines of hose, connected with hydrants at points around the 'Square.' The heat was so intense that the firemen could not remain inside the building. Part of one of the lines of hose was burned, and one of the metal pipes actually melted."

All the efforts to save the building were unavailing, and within an hour from the time when the alarm was given by the watchman to the Brigade the building was completely destroyed.

Some ammunition had evidently been left lying about the premises, possibly by a recent military guard, as loud explosions were frequently heard..

One resident in the locality, who watched the blaze from his bedroom window, was awakened from sleep by intermittent explosions and the crackling of the flames. On going to the window he found that the "Square" was well illuminated, and the heat "almost oppressive."

The low wooden paling which enclosed the building itself was charred.

The raiders took every care to carry out their work without attratcing attention. In Lower Dominick street the young man, who ordered the watchmen and officials to walk straight in the direction of the Broadstone station, had warned them that they must not look back.

Few pedestrians were about when the Fire Brigade came on the scene. Efforts were made to save a number of safes situated in the south end of the building. Three of the safes are said to be intact.

The amount of the damage has not been estimated, but it must run into many thousand pounds. The building was composed for the most part of wood and felt, with a corrugated iron covering. The dimensions were roughly 110 by 140 yards.

The building had been rented by the Government for about £400 a year, and had been used as a sorting office since the burning of the G.P.O. in 1916. It was at one time used for an industrial exhibition, and subsequently as a skating rink.

For some time past there had been no military guard on the building. The guard was withdrawn after the recent postal strike.

DESTROYED MAILS.

It was learned last night that a considerable quantity of mails was destroyed. There had been the usual week-end accumulation of letters and, it is said, a big American mail. The mail which was ready for despatch to England perished in the blaze.

An inspection of the ruins shows that a big quantity of petrol and pitch must have been used by the raiders to set the building alight.

It is thought that several small barrels of pitch were taken into the premises by some entrance other than the west gate. A chute leading from the west side of the office grounds into the interior of the building is believed to have been used by some of the raiders.

The passage was used on several occasions in recent times when raids were carried out on the premises. The chute was designed for the transfer of mails to the sorting and despatch departments.

It is understood that a conference of postal authorities was held during the day with a view to making arrangements for the utilisation of temporary premises elsewhere in the city.

BROADCASTING OPERA.

WORLD'S MOST POWERFUL WIRELESS STATION.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, Sunday.

Opera by wireless from the Metropolitan Opera House has been brought a step nearer by the Radio Corporation of America, which is now erecting the most powerful broadcasting station in the world at the top of the Æolian Building.

It is planned to start very shortly the broadcasting of concerts by Metropolitan opera stars and concert artists of the Æolian Hall.

BANK ROBBER CAUGHT.

SMART DETECTIVE WORK.

Last week a woman presented notes to the value of £500 at a Dublin bank, with a covering letter from a man in the country, requesting that they should be changed for English notes.

Suspicion being aroused, the Criminial Investigation Department was communicated with, and a member of the department hurried to the bank. Taking off his overcoat and hat, he posed for the time being as cashier. He said that he could not make the transfer unless to the writer of the letter. The woman then said that she would convey the message, and left the bank saying that she was returning home to the country that night.

Two members of the C.I.D. left Dublin by motor car for the town which was the woman's destination. Arriving before the train they watched the woman alighting, followed her, and arrested a man who proved to be her husband, whom they wanted for a bank robbery.

POLISH GENERAL ELECTION.

Reuter's Warsaw Correspondent telegraphs:—Electioneering campaigns for the coming Parliamentary elections are being conducted in an orderly manner, and with the exception of a few insignificant cases of rowdyism, there have been no disturbances. The absence of trouble is attributed to the strenuous efforts taken by the authorities to ensure that the electors shall have complete freedom in the exercise of their votes. M. Skriment, the former Foreign Minister, leaves on Sunday to assume his duties as Minister to Great Britain.

THEFT OF BICYCLES.

A number of bicycles, including some belonging to Postal Telegraph messengers, were stolen last night from outside business premises and private houses in the city.

"RED" PETROGRAD.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE REVOLUTION.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
PETROGRAD, Sunday.

Trotsky and seventy other leaders of the Russian revolution are here with Communists from forty-five countries, who hope to emulate the Russians.

Turks and Greeks are shaking hands, while the Germans are telling the French how brotherly they all are.

Sarrati and other Italian Communists are denouncing Mussolini; Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, Tartars, and Russians are holding Oriental "pow wows."

Red flags are flying from every housetop; the Red warships in the bay are brilliant with decorations; Red army officers are all wearing new red breeches.

Thus is being celebrated the fifth anniversary of the Russian revolution and the fourth session of the Third International.

British and American delegates have also arrived for the International, which commenced this morning.

PEACE ON EARTH.

MR. HUGHES ON AMERICA'S FOREIGN POLICY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
CLEVELAND (OHIO), Sunday.

Secretary of State Hughes, in a campaign speech supporting the Senate candidates, reiterated and enlarged upon his recent outline of the foreign policy of the Administration.

He insisted that the United States does not "covet any territory anywhere on God's broad earth. We do not seek special privileges anywhere at the expense of others: we only wish to protect the just and equal rights of Americans everywhere.

"Our greatest wish is to see the world starting again on a sound economic basis. Wherever it has had the chance to promote peaceful settlement, the United States has taken it."

THE NEW BERENGARIA.

The Cunard liner Berengaria, the first vessel to occupy the enlarged Trafalgar dry dock at Southampton, is being undocked to-day. Two of her four propellers have been replaced by new ones, and during her overhaul three additional spacious public rooms have been added her third class passenger accommodation. It will be recalled that prior to the recent accident to one propeller, she was accomplishing the fastest speed since her conversion to oil fuel burning.

ITALY WHOLLY FASCISTI.

ENTHUSIASM IN THE SOUTH.

SOCIALISTS ADVISED TO STAND ALOOF

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
NAPLES, Sunday.

Southern Italy is giving complete support to the Fascisti Government. From Brindisi across the Apennines to Naples every town and village is gay with Fascisti banners, and is crowded with "Black Shirt" forces organising and enrolling recruits. Local administrations are unanimously falling in line, and perfect order prevails.

Tourists here are getting many thrills, and amid the martial uproar they are ignoring Vesuvius, placidly smoking on the horizon. The tourists are interested principally in political events.

Streets are crowded with Fascisti Militia, en route to their homes, wearing black fez-like caps, with black tassels attached, black shirts, civilian trousers tucked into black putties, armed with a motley collection of rifles revolvers, clubs and canes, singing anthems and songs of youth or giving the ancient Roman battle cry. They wear an oval red, white, and green enamel button, embossed with the ancient Roman fasces, the symbol of Fascism. There are 40,000 Fascisti in the Naples district.

The Socialist Party has circularised its adherents, appealing to them to stand aloof from the present affairs and to adopt a waiting attitude until the "enemy's squall has blown over."

A Nice telegram to Reuter says that anti-Fascista elements, mostly undesirable, have been clandestinely crossing the frontier by mountain tracks during the last few days. The police have carried out several raids in the old town of Nice and on one day 150 men were arrested and ordered to re-cross the frontier. These measures are a precaution against possible anti-Fascista demonstations in the Italian quarter of Nice.

Signor Mussolini has written to all the representatives of Italy abroad warning them that they must give no interviews or make any public statements whatever without the previous consent of the Royal Government.

PROHIBITION NAVY.

ATTEMPT TO FRUSTRATE RUM SMUGGLING "RING."

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, Sunday.

The United States Prohibition Navy has been hastily massed and increased, because 10,000 cases of liquor are reported to be en route to the United States from the Bahamas.

The whole of the New Jersey and Long Island coast is being guarded, and a strict watch is being kept for six British schooners said to be anchored six miles out.

A gigantic rum-running "ring" is declared to be backing the shipments.

REPARATIONS PROPOSALS.

INDICATION OF GERMANY'S CASE

The German proposals submitted yesterday in writing to the Reparations Commission have not been officially disclosed, it having been agreed between both parties that the matter should for the present be treated confidentially.

A number of the newspapers profess to have information that the German Government's contention is that the stabilisation of the mark and the balancing of the Budget is impossible without a foreign loan, and that should such a loan be conceded, the German Government would not be disinclined to employ a part of the Reichsbank's gold reserve to support the mark.

The Government, furthermore, contend, it is stated, that a foreign loan is only possible if Germany is granted a lengthy moratorium and her obligations under the Versailles Treaty definitely fixed on a reasonable basis.

Further documents regarding the measures that the German Government intends to take to restore the equilibrium of the Budget were sent to the Reparations Commission this (Sunday) morning by the Finance Ministry. It is expected that the Commission will meet on Monday, after having had an opportunity of studying the new documents.

BIG JEWEL ROBBERY.

LADY-IN-WAITING THE VICTIM.

Donna Franca Florio, one of the wealthiest women in Italy, and a Lady-in-Waiting to Queen Elena, was robbed on Friday night at the seaside resort of Viareggio of all her jewels, worth more than £10,000. They include a magnificent necklace of 365 large pearls, and many gifts from the Italian Royal Family.

The theft was discovered, says the Florence Correspondent of the Daily Mail, when Donna Franca returned to her hotel from the Kursaal at 4 a.m. It is supposed that the thief entered by the window, which is at no great height from the ground. An Englishwoman, Miss Chapman, who occupied the adjoining room to Donna Franca, and returned at the same hour, discovered that all her jewellery had also been carried off. Suspicion falls on a Swiss who had been staying at the hotel and had disappeared on Saturday morning.

SIR ERIC GEDDES'S TRIP.

Amongst the passengers on the Cunard liner Aquitania who left Southampton on Saturday morning for New York was Sir Eric Geddes. In reply to an interviewer he declined to make a statement either on the political situation or on the reason for his trip to America.

KEMAL AND THE SULTAN.

Kemal's proposal to deprive the Sultan of his temporal power may involve him in deeper trouble than he anticipated, says the Daily Express. He may find the Moslem world of India arrayed against his action. The opinions of prominent leaders in Calcutta are outspoken to a degree, and they have both reason and tradition on their side when they claim that the question ought to be decided by a full conference of all Mohammedans. One comment, in particular, is significant. The Angora Nationalists are, it is complained, becoming too enamoured of Soviet ideas, and the tenets of Bolshevism are contrary to those of Islam.

NEW NEAR EASTERN DIFFICULTY.

ALLIED CONTROL RESENTED.

SULTAN'S MINISTERS RESIGN.

APPREHENSION AMONG CHRISTIANS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sunday.

After a stormy session yesterday afternoon, the Sultan's Cabinet capitulated to Angora and resigned. Rafet Pasha has been named Governor-General and will rule Constantinople in the name of the Grand Assembly until the city is turned over to the Kemalist Government. Beginning to-morrow, he will organise the city's government along the lines of the fundamental law and constitutional organisation of Angora.

A huge patriotic demonstration last night celebrated the Nationalist advent here. All the courts operating under the Sultanic decrees ceased work yesterday. If the authorisation arrives from Angora during to-day they will commence again to-morrow in the name of the National Assembly. The Minister of Public Instruction and Director of Posts and Telegraphs has proclaimed their separation from the Government of Constantinople.

All official political documents concerning the action of Damid Ferrid's Cabinet on the Sèvres Treaty were taken last night from the Foreign Office here by Nationalist agents.

The letter of abdication has been prepared for the Sultan. He is expected to sign this to-day. Resistance to the signature is not expected because he remains for some time Khalif of Islam. From to-day Medjid Effendi, heir to the Throne, is considered to have lost his rights of heritage. Henceforth he will be treated as a common citizen.

REFUGEES IN GREECE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
ATHENS, Sunday.

The refugees now in Greece include 98,800 men, 293,000 women, 385,000 children and 70,000 orphans, according to the tabulations prepared by the American Near East relief organisation. The official statement says that the total is probably low, as it does not include many refugees who have sufficient resources to support themselves for the time being.

The Independent, an extremist Allahabad daily newspaper, says that no attack on the temporal power of the Khalif is contemplated by the Turks. The new Turkish Government, it explains, proposes to safeguard for ever the sanctity of the Khalif's temporal power over the Islamic regions by placing the person of the Khalif outside the petty concerns of the internal administration of Turkey.

"I AM THE GOVERNOR."

HOW RAFET DECLARED THE FALL OF THE SULTAN.

The Press Association's Special Correspondent telegraphed from Constantinople yesterday:—The Kemalist Governor of Thrace, Rafet Pasha, sprang the news of a change of Government with an eye to a dramatic effect upon a meeting of the Allied Generals yesterday. The Turkish representative was invited to the meeting in order to discuss the question of the admission of the Kemalist gendarmes to the Gallipoli and Chanak neutral zones, to which the Allies were prepared to agree, subject to their control by the Allied authorities.

Rafet Pasha refused to admit control in any shape or form. He agreed, however, to refer the matter to Angora. Then, as by way of an afterthought, he broke the startling news. "I must inform Your Excellency that since noon the Government of Constantinople no longer exists, and I have assumed the Governorship."

He added that he would respect the Mudania Convention and recognise the Allied occupation, but he would not admit interference in the control of internal affairs.

The Administrative Council of the vilayet of Constantinople, acting on the advice of Rafet Pasha, has held a meeting, at which it was unanimously decided to conform to the decision of November 2 of the National Assembly, regarding the position of the Sultan, and, in consequence, to break off relations with the Government of Constantinople and carry on business in the name of the National Assembly. The chiefs of the gendarmerie and police have also transferred their allegiance to the National Assembly, and were confirmed in their posts by Rafet Pasha. The interim Cabinet has resigned.

It is understood that the Constitutional law adopted by the National Assembly will be announced in Constantinople by proclamation, but before ordaining the new régime it is believed that a delay will be granted, nominally to enable merchants to re-export their stocks, but in reality to await the conclusion of the Peace Treaty.

Three days' rejoicings have been ordered, in order to celebrate the assumption of sovereignty by the people. It is not clear by whose orders, but last night there were processions of people, carrying lanterns and flags, and pictures of Kemal in all the Turkish quarters, and thousands of rounds of ammunition were fired into the air to the intense alarm of the Christian population.

Yesterday's coup d'état greatly complicates the situation here. The late Government, although powerless, supplied a useful machinery for the exercise of Allied control, and its substitution by the Chauvinistic Nationalist agents will not make for smooth working in their relations with the Alliedy authorities, who must continue their work of control in the interests of public order and safety while the occupation lasts.

The position of the Greeks, and even of those Turks against whom the Kemalists have a grudge, is unenviable.

INDIA AND THE KHALIFA.

Moslem leaders here (says Reuter's Delhi Correspondent) consider that the decision of the Angora Government regarding the deposition of the Sultan and the Khalifa is to the effect that the Khalifa could be elected, and that it need not be confined to the Ottoman family. They consider that the Khalifa's powers should be constitutionally regulated as in the case of the British King, and as long as the Khalifa retained nominally the supreme powers in temporal and spiritual questions Koranic Law would not be violated.

The Moslem leaders are not apprehensive that the Kemalists will challenge the Islamic Law, but state that if any steps contrary to the Koranic injunction are taken they propose to send a deputation to Angora to represent the views of the Indian Moslems.

MENACE TO GALLIPOLI?

The Athens newspaper, Patois quoting a telegram from the Thracian Deputies, states that the Turks are planning a surprise occupation of the Gallipoli Peninsula during a change of the Allied ships in order to confront the Allies with a fait accompli.

It is added that the attention of the Allies has been called to these Turkish plans.

ELECTION IN NEW ZEALAND

LABOUR ADOPTS SOCIALIST "PLANK."

The general elections have been fixed for December 7th, says Reuter's Wellington (New Zealand) Correspondent Mr. Massey, the Prime Minister, is opening his reform campaign with a speech to his own constituents on Monday.

The Liberals are going to the country under Mr. T. M. Wilford, who succeeded to the leadership of the party on the defeat at the last election of Sir Joseph Ward.

The Parliamentary Labour Party is contesting most of the seats on a Socialistic programme.

Sir Joseph Ward states that he has not yet decided whether to stand as a candidate, but that in any case he will probably speak and put the issues before the country.

AILESBURY ROAD FIGHT.

LEADING REPUBLICANS ARRESTED.

ONE KILLED; THREE WOUNDED.

One soldier of the national Army was killed, a prominent leader of the Republicans was seriously wounded, and two women were slightly injured when national troops went to search 36 Ailesbury road, Dublin, last Saturday morning.

In many respects the affair was worthy of the cinema. There was, according to the official report, a "camouflaged wardrobe" from which fire was opened on the soldiers, and it is said that one young woman used a revolver against them.

The soldiers drove to the house in a motor lorry shortly after seven o'clock, in the chill grey of early morning, while the frost was still heavy on the road and silvering the grounds around the dwelling.

A few minutes later the crackle of rifle and revolver shots startled the residents of the district, which is one of the most sedate suburbs of Dublin, and hitherto has been untouched by any of the "incidents" so common elsewhere.

Those who had the nerve to look from their windows saw but little of the fight, as the red brick, two-storey house stands alone in a garden at the end of a small avenue leading from Ailesbury road. They saw, however, the arrival of reinforcements for the troops, and caught glimpses of figures in green uniforms advancing on the building, taking what cover they could behind walls and bushes.

Then the firing died away, and the ambulance came dashing to the scene. The stretcher was taken out and brought back in a moment, bearing the form of a soldier, white of face and very still.

The Red Cross vehicle bore its tragic burden swiftly away, but in a very little while it was back again, and two young women were helped into it.

A man, who appeared to be very badly wounded, was taken away, with a strong military escort, in a military ambulance.

A little later some women were placed in a military motor, which instantly moved off.

Troops remained in charge of the dwelling for some time afterwards, and "rumour, painted full of tongues," stood at garden gates and the corners of the lane. It was said (among other things) that the object of the troops' visit had been to arrest Mr. de Valera, and there were vivid stories of his last-minute escape from the rear of the house. This was one of the stories that persisted, but it appears to have been without foundation.

THE CASUALTIES.

The facts that came to light subsequently revealed the casualties as follow:—

Private Peter McCartney, Scottish Brigade, National Army, Curragh Camp—Died of wounds in Baggot street Hospital shortly after admission.

Ernest O'Malley (said to be the Republicans' Assistant Chief of Staff)—Seriously wounded. Injuries dressed in Baggot street Hospital; afterwards removed in custody to Portobello Barracks. Reported this morning to show signs of improvement, though not yet out of danger.

Miss O'Rahilly (prominent member of Cumann na mBan and sister of The O'Rahilly, who was shot dead while crossing Moore lane from the G.P.O. during the rebellion of Easter, 1916)—Wound in face.

Miss Ellen Flanagan (servant employed at 38 Ailesbury road)—Bullet wound in shoulder.

The tenant of the house is Mrs. Humphries, another sister of The O'Rahilly. Her daughter, Miss Sheila Humphries, and her two sons live with her. The family has been identified with the Anti-Treaty Party.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

The official report of the affair, issued from Army Headquarters on Saturday, reads:—

"At 8 o'clock this morning a search of the premises 36 Ailesbury road was carried out by troops of the national Army. In the course of the search a camouflaged wardrobe was discovered, and on an attempt being made to break in shots were fired from within, wounding one of the troops. In an exchange of fire another soldier, a lady named Miss O'Flanagan, and a man, who was afterwards found to be Ernest O'Malley, were wounded. The wounded were removed to hospital.

"The following ladies were placed under arrest—Mrs. and Miss Humphreys and Madame O'Rahilly. E. O'Malley is a prominent leader of the irregulars, and reputed to be their Assistant Chief of Staff.

"The house was found to be the headquarters of what was known as the N.E. Command, and papers and documents were discovered to which the highest importance is attached.

"The condition of O'Malley is critical."

Ernest O'Malley was in charge of the Four Courts during the bombardment, and arranged its surrender. He afterwards escaped while in custody in Jameson's distillery. He has displayed much activity throughout the country since, and was reputed to be Commander of the 2nd Southern Division. He escaped from Kilmainham Jail with two other prisoners named Teeling and Donnelly in the spring of 1921. During the recent fighting in O'Connell street one of his brothers was killed. Other brothers are still engaged in operations against the National Army.

During the search of the residence by the military a number of important documents are said to have been found.

Military also raided 40 Herbert Park, the residence of Madame O'Rahilly, where they arrested Miss Mary MacSwiney.

THE LAUSANNE STAGE.

PREPARATIONS FOR PEACE CONFERENCE.

Preparations for the assembling of the Near Eastern Peace Conference at Lausanne are proceeding apace, says the Special Correspondent of the Press Association, although considerable doubt still prevails regarding the precise date of the opening of the negotiations—in fact, an adjournment from the original date, November 13th, is generally regarded as inevitable in view of the General Election in Great Britain, but more especially in view of the recent developments in Turkey.

What has, however, been definitely settled is that the sittings of the Conference should be held at the Hotel Du Chateau, at Ouchy, an imposing castle, situated at the entrance to Ouchy from the Lausanne side, and facing the lake. In the middle-ages the chateau became the residence of Bishop Roger, but has now been transformed into an elegant hotel. It is, however, usually closed during the winter months, consequently it can readily be taken over for the sittings of the Conference without causing inconvenience to anyone.

The British delegation will reside at the Hotel Beau Rivage, Ouchy, which is a luxurious building of historical importance facing the lake. It was here that the famous Treaty of Peace between Italy and Turkey was signed in 1912 after the Tripolitan war. The other delegations will be distributed between various hotels in Lausanne, practically all of which are within about ten minutes' drive from Ouchy.

LOSS TO QUEENSTOWN.

CABLE SHIPS LEAVE THE HARBOUR.

Four months ago the Commercial Cable Company, of America, was granted permission to use Cork Harbour as their base at this side of the Atlantic for their ships and plant, and the announcement gave the people of Queenstown much satisfaction, because the presence of the ships meant increased employment in the town and the circulation of many thousands of pounds in the year. At least two of the company's cable ships, each employing between 60 and 80 hands, would be stationed in the harbour, while a huge concrete barge, which would be used as a store ship, would also give considerable employment.

Dredging operations for the mooring of the store ship off the deep water quay were almost complete when an order was received to suspend operations, because the company felt that, owing to the state of the country, their expensive plant and stores might suffer. Their Waterville station, it will be remembered, was put out of action during the summer months, an act which caused the company considerable loss, and they feared a repetition of this conduct at Queenstown. On Saturday one of their ships, the George Ward, arrived to tow away the store ship, which had been in the port for some months. Both ships left in the evening for Plymouth, where the store ship is to be furnished with the necessary stores, and if conditions do not improve it is feared that Queenstown will have lost the many advantages that a Cable Company's base would confer on it.

The matter has been taken up by the Cork Harbour Board and by Mr. Hennessy, Parliamentary representative for the Queenstown Division, and it is hoped that the assurances that they have sent to the company will result in the return of the ships to Queenstown.

FROM TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

THE GOOD OF THE COUNTRY.

ISSUE BEFORE THE ELECTORATE.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

In times of national danger the tendency has often been for parties to join in support of the responsible Government, and thus to place in the hands of Ministers practically absolute power until the danger should be past. Ministers, who for a season thus enjoyed absolute power, have not always agreed when the danger was past, or even as to the moment when fatigue on their part or the more subtle perils involved in the growth of their sense of indispensability, made it expedient for the good of the country that they should give place to others.

But, on the whole, public feeling has generally favoured a return to the system of party balances as being the least likely to harm national interests, and the best means of avoiding the dangers inherent in a system of groups which, coalescing for reasons of their own under one head, should confer upon the head semi-automatic functions without possibility of effective check. From those dangers the country now has a chance of escaping. Whether it shall take that chance is now the real issue before the electorate. We believe that, if the issue is made quite clear, there can be no doubt of the result. The return to power of a predominant party—which in present circumstances can only be the Unionist or Conservative Party—watched and criticised by an Opposition strong enough to make its weight felt, and to supply an alternative Government at a future election, should the predominant party mismanage public affairs, would, we believe, now be in the highest interests, as it would be in accordance with the traditions of the country.

We agree entirely with Lord Grey of Fallodon that foreign affairs should be, as far as possible, kept outside and above party. We agree with him, too, that a conference with the self-governing Dominions would be valuable upon the foreign, as upon the economic, policy of the Empire But important as are the problems of administrative economy, of unemployment—upon which we print to-day an interesting letter from the Minister of Labour—and of housing, we hold that they are all transcended by the necessity of securing a stable, homogeneous Goverment. Only thus can the country recover from uncertainty at home, and hope to regain abroad the confidence which the late Coalition Government dissipated.

CONSTANTINOPLE CRISIS.

UNITED ACTION NECESSARY.

The Constantinople Correspondent of The Times, in a message yesterday, states:—Yesterday, at mid-day, General Rafet Pasha assumed control of the administration of the "Province of Constantinople." At 4 o'clock the Grand Vizier tendered the resignation of the Government, and also informed the Allied High Commissioners that the Porte would not send delegates to Lausanne. Rafet Pasha, in the course of the day, sent a message to Sir Charles Harington, claiming the right to instal a Kemalist Civil Administration at Chanak and Gallipoli and on the Asiatic shores of the Bosphorus. The Allied Generals replied that they could not agree to this claim.

The resignation of Abdullah Azmi, the Angora Commisar for Religious Affairs, is announced—it is conjectured because of disagreement with Angora's action Last evening there were demonstrations in Stambul, Scutari, and Beshiktash. Some casualties occurred. Further demonstrations are being organised for to-day. At the moment of telegraphing I learn that Kemalist gendarmes have entered the Chanak zone, the neutrality of which no longer exists. It is said that the Allied authorities, faced with accomplished facts, have recognised the new régime.

Commenting editorially upon this development, The Times remarks:—This revolutionary act is calculated to provoke a crisis in Islam of which much more will be heard; but the immediate result is that the Kemalists have succeeded in circumventing one of the most important clauses of the Armistice of Mudania, and, elated by their initial success, are apparently already engaged in the open infraction of the remaining clauses. The Allies are confronted with a fresh challenge, and before the Peace Conference meets they should find some fresh basis for determining their attitude towards Turkey. The precarious bridge constructed at Mudania has broken down before Lausanne could be reached. At few moments since the war has the need for united action by the Allies been more urgently necessary than it is to-day. Many dangers may yet be averted if the Allies, particularly Great Britain and France, agree at once to act firmly and in unison.

A WHISKEY FLEET.

VEXATION OF PROHIBITION AUTHORITIES.

The Times New York Correspondent states in a message telegraphed yesterday:—The prohibition authorities are circulating in the Press to-day sensational accounts of the presence of a fleet of over a hundred vessels, laden with whiskey, off the New Jersey coast, just outside the three-mile limit. Deep vexation is expressed at the fact that the recent ruling preventing interference with the liquor on ships outside territorial waters cripples the efforts of prohibition officials in their war against smuggling. This whiskey fleet, reported off the coast, which is described as mocking the agents of American laws, is said to be under the skilful direction of a well-protected international organisation of "boot-leggers," who keep in touch with the skippers by various means, and manage to land whiskey supplies in small boats at unguarded points on the coast.

The vessels are all supposed to have clearance papers from the Bahamas for St. Pierre Miquelon, or for Tampico, Mexico. One of them sighted yesterday by the Revenue cutter, Kickapoo, is reported to have aboard over £100,000 worth of liquor. The object of the smugglers is to satisfy betimes the nation's forbidden Christmas thirst. The authorities are mobilising in New York and at Atlantic City and other places on the seaboard hundreds of small craft, in the hope of intercepting the smugglers before they reach land.

THE REAL ISSUE.

The Daily Telegraph observes:—After Saturday's flood of political oratory the elector cannot complain of any lack of guidance in making the momentous choice that is about to be presented to him. He will find evidence in plenty to show what is the real issue of the approaching General Election—the Socialist programme. In our judgment the elector ought not to ask himself whether "the Socialists will win sufficient support at the coming election to carry out their programme." That is not how the big battles of politics are won. It is how they have sometimes been most disastrously lost. The single determination of sound citizenship in this country ought to be that the defeat of this attempt shall be as complete and spectacular as by the use of every effort it can be made.

THE IRISH TREATY.

The Westminster Gazette says:—From the nominations it is plain that the Conservatives, Labour, and the Liberal Party all have sufficient candidates in the field to secure a majority, should all be returned. The National "Liberals" alone must remain a group to whom victory is an impossibility, and whose only force in Parliament would be by a combination with other sections. We would add that although the Bonar Law Administration is probably born for the shortest of lives, it is a definite gain that its formation should have removed the Irish Treaty outside party issues, and have committed its strongest opponents to its acceptance.

COCAINE SMUGGLERS.

The police at Konigsberg have arrested twenty-seven persons who were trying to smuggle across the Polish frontier a large quantity of cocaine and morphia stolen from a medical warehouse. The drugs are worth several million marks, telegraphs the Berlin Correspondent of the Daily Mail. The arrested persons comprise former officers, students, shop assistants, and labourers. Some were living at Konigsberg and others at Eydtkuhnen, from which places the drugs were to be smuggled out of Germany.

EX-KAISER'S SECRET WEDDING.

FULL DESCRIPTION.

POMP & CIRCUMSTANCE AT DOORN.

JEERS FROM CROWDS.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)
DOORN, Sunday.

The ex-Kaiser's intention to hold his wedding to Princess Hermine in secret succeeded.

For an hour and a-half Emissaries from all countries of the world watched the gate of Doorn Castle in a bleak November morning—sunshine mingled with pouring rain—hoping to catch a glimpse of their Imperial Majesties "a Kaisering."

It was not a gathering of respectful, awed subjects, such as Wilhelm Hohenzollern knew in the days of his power. This Sunday crowd could have proved to him that the days of blind Monarchism had gone, provided the ceremonies left him time enough to glimpse the onlookers.

Hooting and cries of "Wilhelm, come out," alternated with sarcastic remarks.

Only a few blonde sentimental young girls endeavoured eagerly to catch a glimpse of "high society." The latter was massed near the gates, since it was known that the wedding party had gathered in a house built near the gate about a thousand feet from Doorn Castle itself. It was expected that the wedding party would walk this distance.

Balancing carefully on the edge of a ditch surrounding the Doorn estate, carefully pulling out branches to hide their presence, whenever a policeman looked in their direction, crowds stood a chance of seeing the bridal couple and regal guests.

ELUSIVE EX-KAISER.

They saw Prince Henry cross the lawn, a mysterious lady in black strolling through the grounds, but the ex-Kaiser tricked them all. He had automobiles flying back and forth between Doorn Castle and the guard house, and ducked behind the car curtains every time he passed near the onlookers.

The Crown Prince arrived first in an open car, wearing his well-known red cap still at a juvenile angle, then he returned wearing his gala uniform of the Black Hussars.

Princess Henrietta, now the Kaiser's adopted daughter, scrambled into and out of an automobile under the care of a nurse, and her aunt, Princess Stolberg Rossla, sister of the bride, cloaked in a bright red velvet cape and wearing a pink gown.

Servant maids, after the Dutch fashion, bicycling on a last minute errand through the Imperial estates; valets solemnly marching up and down; detectives disguised as workmen sauntering through the park; the ex-Kaiser's own cow calmly feeding in the meadow; dogs starting a wild fight, kept the attention of the audience interested until the final moment, when the ex-Kaiser's car, with drawn curtains, returned to the main building of Schloss Doorn after the signing of the contracts.

The bridal car was followed by other cars, with the chief guests, including Prince Fuerstenberg, Admiral Rabeur Plaschwitz, and a big gathering of notables from Holland, and especially from the Doorn district.

These latter indicate that the Kaiser is preparing to take up assiduously friendly relations with his neighbours.

THE LUNCHEON.

Herr Van Houten, Captain of the Dutch Guards, which have protected the Kaiser during the past year at Doorn, who was among the guests this evening, invited the newspaper correspondents to one of the main hotels in the little village, to tell them what the Kaiser thought fit for publication concerning the marriage ceremony and to allow them to glance at the menu of the bridal luncheon.

The menu was printed in typewritten letters on cards engraved with a view of Castle Doorn. It was written in German Gothic script. There was nothing on the menu but:—

Bouillon Cups.
Salmon Chaudfroid.
Volaille Salade.
Punch Romaine.
Dessert.

Spies, who had been hired by the newspaper correspondents, however, confided that excellent wines were drunk, and that French champagne was served to the Regal party. This, despite the fact that the ex-Kaiser once swore never to touch French champagne, and is consequently considered to be the protector of German beverage of this kind.

The family succeeded in preventing the ex-Kaiser from indulging in his favourite pastime—speech-making.

He merely thanked Prince Henry, who proposed the short toast welcoming the bride into the Hohenzollern family.

A speech of political importance, for which the German politicians have been watching eagerly, was not made to-day.

Presents from Germany were scarce. The German National Party, which at first thought it could never forgive the ex-Kaiser forgetting the first Kaiserin, but finally made peace with him, sent a big flower basket.

The wedding was celebrated with all the glory and pomp of bygone days the ex-Kaiser could muster.

In a miniature Court, all guests conformed with the usual Royal ceremonies, obeying the regulations issued by the ex-Kaiser. The fallen Monarch personally supervised the programme, which was handed to each guest.

CIVIL CEREMONY.

The preliminary civil ceremony was performed at noon, in a lodge on the Kaiser's estate hung with Gobelins tapestries, and a huge portrait of William himself, in the georgeous uniform of a General of the Hussars, and numerous battle scenes.

The religious ceremony, which followed an hour later in the chateau itself, was in a setting which hardly could have been exceeded in regal splendour of the palmy days of the Hohenzollerns.

The great hall was transformed into a coronation room. Two massive thrones, draped with heavy red stuffs, and flanked by huge gold candlesticks, had been erected, and a large picture of the ex-Emperor gazed down upon the wedding party, and there were more battle scenes.

In a white marble vestibule leading to the coronation room was hung a superb Japanese tapestry, the gift of the Emperor of Japan, long before the war.

The first hymn of the religious service was:

Jesus, lead the way upon our path of life,
Close we follow Thee through bitter strife;
Guide us by Thy hand
To God's Fatherland.

THE GREATEST OF LOVE.

Dr. Vogel, from Potsdam, addressed the gathering, grouped in the hall of Doorn Castle, with the guests sitting in five rows of chairs behind the bride and bridegroom. A big curtain was drawn behind the clergyman, hiding the servants, who were thus able to listen to his words:—"Faith, hope, love—these three; but the greatest of these is love. A beautiful important day has arrived—a wonderful hour in which Your Majesty and you noblest Princess join hands for life's union journey. In this sacred hour your high-born Royal hearts must surely receive deep comfort and happiness from the inspiring words of the text—'Faith, hope, and love.'

"These same words were used by Your Majesty at the time of the golden wedding anniversary of your Royal grandfather—Emperor William I.—and blessed the golden wedding wreath.

"These same wonderful words were used on the happy occasion of Your Majesty's youthful wedding, and at the time of its silver anniversary, and blessed your wedding wreath.

"Now, once more, on the occasion of a second marriage we hope and pray that the same words will remain with you, and be the guardian angel's to guide your path.

"Castle Doorn has up to this hour been an impermanent place—comings and goings—the scene of short uncertain visits on the part of your Imperial Family, retainers, friends, and faithful servants.

"These came, only to go; but your illustrious bride from thir hour has come, unlike the others, to remain by your side so long as life may last.

"To-day a company of faithful adherents are gathered to pray that the union may be long and happy. Ever bear in your minds the words of the text:—

"First—Faith must ever be strong, and bide with you, because it has linked your lives by the holy bonds of matrimony. Only those are happy whose hearts have the faith given by God.

"Second—Hope will abide with you. Hope that is not based on earthly things, which are but temporary, but you will have what is Eternal hope, which is heavenly. This Eternal hope, even in the darkest hours of life, sustains with an assurance that nothing transpires which God does not ordain

"Love is the most divine power on earth. In the silent sadness of this occasion we think of two who have departed this life. In one case it is the husband, and in the other the noble Empress, who was the ideal model of German and Christian womanhood.

"The Fatherland grieves over her loss. But how infinitely greater must be the sorrow and grief of Your Majesty?

"What brings consolation into a stricken heart and carries sunshine into the home? It is love. Love carries comfort and lightens the darkest hours of life, and conquers all pain and sorrow.

"With abiding faith, Christian love will do all this. Love does not labour for itself, but for the happiness of others. Carry with you

59 NEW M.P.'S RETURNED.

1,226 CANDIDATES.

ELECTION CAMPAIGN IN FULL SWING.

MR. DEVLIN'S SURPRISE.

The number of members of the House of Commons returned without opposition on Saturday was 59, including the three members for the Scottish Universities returned on Friday. They were divided among parties as follows:—

Conservatives	42
National Liberals	7
Liberal	5
Labour	4
Nationalist	1

Candidates nominated to contest seats were 1,226 as follows:—

Conservatives	410
National Liberals	105
Liberals	352
Labour	322
Independent Conservatives	12
Conservative Democrats	2
Independent	21
Independent Labour	2
Ulster Unionists	13
Co-Operatives	5
National Democrats	6
National Unionists	2
Anti-Waste	1
Agriculturists	3
Socialists	1
Communists	5
Nationalists	3
Sinn Fein	1

Mr. Lloyd George's threat to flood many constituencies with last-minute National Liberal candidates did not take place, but at Hampstead a Lloyd-Georgian unexpectedly entered the field against Mr. George Balfour, the Conservative.

Of the four chief party leaders, Mr. Lloyd George was alone unopposed at Carnarvon—for the first time during the thirty-three years he has represented the constituency in Parliament no rival candidate took the field.

"To-day is my birthday, and here is a nice present for me—my husband returned unopposed for the first time," remarked Mrs. Lloyd George, who represented the ex-Premier.

Mr. Bonar Law at Glasgow, Mr. Asquith at Paisley, and Mr. Clynes at Manchester, have all to fight for their seats. Dr. Addison, the Liberal ex-Minister for Health, is being opposed by a National Liberal at Shoreditch.

Because the Labour candidate at Loughborough, Leicestershire, forgot that 12 noon was the latest time for nominations to be received and arrived ten minutes late, the High Sheriff refused to accept his papers, and Brigadier-General Spears (National Liberal) was declared elected—the luckiest of unopposed candidates.

The last minute nomination of Mr. Joe Devlin (Nationalist) to oppose Sir Leslie Scott (Conservative) at Liverpool led to exciting scenes, Mr. Devlin being carried shoulder-high by his supporters from the nomination hall.

Another surprise was in the Isle of Ely constituency, where General Sir Charles Townshend was invited overnight by the Conservatives to contest the seat, but on the way to the station he changed his mind, and the Conservatives, at a moment's notice, got Colonel Norman Coates to fill the breach.

The Attorney-General, Mr. Douglas Hogg, K.C., was unopposed at Marylebone. Labour has two K.C. candidates—Mr. Patrick Hastings at Wallsend, and Mr. E. G. Hemmerde at Crewe.

Members of the Government returned unopposed include:—

Mr. E. F. Wood, Minister of Education.
Mr. D. M. Hogg, Attorney-General.
Sir M. Barlow, Minister of Labour.
Sir W. Joynson-Hicks, Parliamentary Secretary, Overseas Trade.
Major H. Barnston, Controller of the Household.
Colonel W. W. Ashley, Parliamentary Secretary, Office of Works.
Earl Winterton, Under-Secretary for India.

Prominent party leaders also returned without a contest include:—

Mr. Lloyd George.
Sir E. M. Pollock, Attorney-General in the late Government.
Mr. J. H. Whitley, Speaker of the Commons.

Major Gwilym Lloyd George, the ex-Premier's son, handed in his nomination papers as Liberal candidate for Pembrokeshire, and coincidentally received the news that his wife, in London, had presented him with a son.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor was returned unopposed for the Scotland Division of Liverpool.

Mr. Lloyd George, as at present arranged, leaves London to-day for Newcastle, where he is to address a meeting to-morrow morning. In the afternoon he addresses meetings at Sunderland and Stockton, returning to London by the evening train from York. He will rest in London on Wednesday, and on Thursday morning, if his health permits, will begin a tour of Wales.

POINTS FROM SPEECHES.

LORD DERBY:

It was with the greatest reluctance that I took office at all. Not because I do not unswervingly and with the utmost loyalty follow Mr. Bonar Law, but because the acceptance of office meant my severance from that work which I so much loved in the county, and which was non-political and non-sectarian.

I took office on one condition, and this I made clear to Mr. Bonar Law. I make it public now. It is that when the happy reconciliation of the whole of the party came about, when Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Sir Robert Horne, Sir Worthington Evans, and others are ready to give Mr. Bonar Law their advice and support, my post is absolutely at his disposal—to give it to anyone of those who would strengthen his Government.—At Derby.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE:

I should like to make it clear what I conceive under these very perplexing conditions is the duty of a patriotic citizen. His duty is to steer between the two extremes. What are they? There is, first of all, the extreme of the Socialist Party with their challenge to private enterprise, and with their attack upon the capital which is essential to our prosperity. That must be avoided. The Municipal elections demonstrate that the danger from that quarter is not as great, is not as imminent, as we had apprehended. That is still my opinion. I do not believe that the Socialists will win sufficient support in this country at the coming election to carry out their semi-revolutionary programme.

What is the other danger, the other extreme? It is the danger that a Parliament might be elected whose majority may be forced by a powerful, determined minority to a course of reaction. This is the real, the imminent danger.

There are men who were in substantial agreement now fighting each other in seats—for the benefit of whom? For the benefit of extremists who are out to make an attack on the whole fabric of our industrial system. That damage will be considerable. I hope it is not going to be irreparable.—In London.

MR. ASQUITH:

The country requires a solid body of Liberals in Parliament, stout-hearted and single-minded, who will insist on pursuing Liberal purposes by Liberal methods. Mr. Bonar Law's alternative was to sit still in the hope that, by the mercy of Providence, the tangle which the Coalition was leaving behind would straighten itself out. The other alternative of the Labour Party would plunge us into the whirlpool of adventure.—At Penrith.

In the last twelve months there has been a great revival of Liberalism. The delirium of 1918 has faded away in the cold light of hard experience, and Liberals everywhere have come to see that, if Liberalism is to become once more a living and dominating factor, their duty is to unite in a common purpose by Liberal methods.—At Preston.

HON. E. WOOD (Minister of Education).

If the Premier asked me to-morrow what economies I could make in Education, without sacrificing its efficiency, I would say—"You must give me time to explore, and look around." No sensible man could say anything different. I will leave nothing unexplored to see where economy is possible. No man can say more.

MR. J. H. THOMAS:

While I do not suggest that the Churches should engage in party politics, they should not remain indifferent to the grave moral questions involved in politics. If the Church is to hold its place, then it must keep clearly in mind that, although the spiritual ideal was essential, at the same time the material needs of the people are also of importance.—At Newport.

LORD BIRKENHEAD.

You don't make a policy or a programme out of talk about negatives. When a million men, walking the streets, say: "We can't get work; we have not enough to eat in spite of all the Government have done," you cannot turn round and say: "We are pledged to a quiet life. How dare you interrupt the Cabinet—they were just going to sleep when you came in?" Mustapha would not have cared a brass farthing that Mr. Bonar Law had sleeping sickness. The only thing he cared about was that there were men who knew their own minds and who intended to give effect to their own decisions and maintain the ancient honour and prestige of this country.

ULSTER SEATS.

THE UNOPPOSED RETURNS.

COUSIN AGAINST COUSIN IN DERRY.

Ten of the thirteen members who will represent the six Northern Counties in the Imperial Parliament were returned unopposed on Saturday. In Belfast the number of constituencies have been reduced from nine to four, and the four Unionist members who have been returned represented the city in the last Parliament. Their names are:—

North—Mr. T. E. M'Connell, O.B.E., J.P.
South—Mr. Thomas Moles.
East—Captain Herbert Dixon, D.L.
West—Mr. R. J. Lynn.

Owing to the enlargement of the West Division, Mr. Joseph Devlin decided not to contest the seat. He alleged that 20,000 Unionist voters were transferred from the adjoining constituencies to the new West Division. The Labour Party, as was anticipated, did not put forward candidates, although the party was well represented at the nominations, and a last minute surprise was expected in some quarters. The Anti-Prohibition Council, which threatened opposition in the East Division, did not put forward a candidate.

A vote of thanks was moved to the returning officer on the motion of Captain Dixon, seconded by Mr. T. Moles, and supported by Messrs. Lynn and M'Connell. Mr. Moles said that it was a proud thing for four men who had served in the Imperial Parliament to have that seal of approbation set upon their services by an unopposed return.

Mr. Quail said that he had been asked if on any occasion he came in contact with Parliamentary candidates to mention the housing question, and he now desired to do so.

THE NEW MEMBERS.

Mr. T. E. M'Connell is a brother of Sir Robert M'Connell, Bart., and is a well-known Belfast auctioneer and valuer. He is managing director of Messrs. John Robson, Ltd., cattle salesmen. He takes a keen interest in public affairs, and is a member of the Belfast Corporation. He succeeded Sir Edward Carson in the representation of Duncairn Division.

Mr. Thomas Moles represented Ormeau Division in the last Parliament. He is a member of the editorial staff of the Belfast Telegraph, and was on the secretariate of the Irish Convention. He is a member of the Northern Parliament, in which he holds the position of Deputy-Speaker and Chairman of Ways and Means.

Captain Herbert Dixon, D.L., represented Pottinger Division in the late Parliament. He is a son of the late Sir Daniel Dixon, Bart., a former Lord Mayor of Belfast, and a brother of the present Baronet. He is also a member of the Northern Parliament, and holds the position of Chief Whip.

Mr. R. J. Lynn represented Woodvale Division in the last Parliament. He is Editor of the Northern Whig, and is Chairman of the Committee appointed by Lord Londonderry, Minister of Education, to report upon the educational services in Northern Ireland.

Sir William Whitla, M.D., M.A., LL.D., Emeritus Professor, Queen's University, Belfast, has been returned unopposed to represent the University in the new Parliament.

COUNTY ANTRIM.

The two Unionist candidates—Captain C. C. Craig and Major the Right Hon. Hugh O'Neill—were returned unopposed for the two County Antrim seats.

Captain Charles Craig is a brother of Sir James Craig, Prime Minister for Northern Ireland, and is Chairman of the Ulster Parliamentary group in the Imperial Parliament.

The Right Hon. Hugh O'Neill is a son of Lord O'Neill, and represented Mid-Antrim in the last Parliament. He is Speaker of the Northern House of Commons.

COUNTY DOWN.

The two Unionist candidates for the two seats in the County Down—Major-General the Rev. Dr. J. M. Simms, C.B., C.M.G., and Mr. D. D. Reid, Barrister-at-Law, were returned unopposed.

Dr. Simms was returned unopposed to represent North Down, in succession to the late Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson. He was a Principal Army Chaplain during the war with the rank of Major-General. Subsequently he was Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland.

Mr. D. D. Reid represented East Down in the last Parliament. He is a barrister, and the son of Mr. Joseph Reid, J.P., Belfast. Mr. Reid was Secretary of the Ulster group in the Imperial Parliament before the dissolution.

COUNTY ARMAGH.

Sir William Allen was returned unopposed to represent County Armagh, which is now a one-member constituency. Sir William Allen is a linen manufacturer in Lurgan, and represented North Armagh in the Imperial Parliament. He served during the war with the 11th Battalion Royal Irish Rifles, and became the Officer Commanding. He received a knighthood on the occasion of the King's visit to Belfast for the opening of the Northern Parliament.

Amongst numerous offers of support from Orange and Loyalist organisations throughout County Armagh, Sir William Allen has received encouraging letters from the Lurgan Women's Unionist Association, the Women's Unionist Committee, Tandragee, and the Mid-Armagh Constitutional Association.

FERMANAGH AND TYRONE.

At Omagh on Saturday Colonel Irvine, Under Sheriff for the County Tyrone, received the following nominations for the joint constituencies of Fermanagh and Tyrone:—

William Edward David Allen, Commonwood House, Chipperfield, Herts. (U.)

James Alexander Pringle, King's Counsel, 64 Eglantine avenue, Belfast (U.).

Thomas J. S. Harbison, solicitor, Cookstown (Nat.).

Cahir Healy, formerly of Enniskillen, but now interned in the steamer Argenta (Sinn Fein).

All the candidates, with the exception of Mr. Healy, were present, and when the nominations were over they were introduced and exchanged greetings.

There will be no meetings in Fermanagh on the Unionist side, as it is believed that they would only be a useless expenditure of energy and time. All the work will be concentrated in searching for voters who have left the constituency, and perfecting the plans for an exhaustive vote.

DERRY CITY AND COUNTY.

Nominations for the joint division of Londonderry City and County produced a surprise. Mr. John Goode, a Letterkenny gentleman, whose name had been mentioned as an Independent, intimated on Saturday that he would not go forward, and it was thought that Sir Malcolm Macnaghten, K.C., would have a walk-over. A rival candidate of the same name, however, was proposed, and, as he did not withdraw in the allotted time, an election must take place. The nominations were:—

Malcolm Martin Macnaghten, K.C., K.B.E., Port Ballintrae, County Antrim.

Edmund Loftus Macnaghten, Captain, Royal Engineers (retired), Seapark, Malahide, County Dublin.

Captain Macnaghten was proposed by Mr. Michael M'Daid, a former Derry Nationalist registration agent, and seconded by Mr. James M'Clean, a Nationalist member of Derry Corporation. He is a cousin of Sir Malcolm Macnaghten, and is standing as an anti-partitionist.

BOUNDARY QUESTION.

BELFAST MEMBER'S VIEWS.

Mr. Thomas Moles, M.P. for South Belfast, speaking at a meeting of his supporters, dealt with the boundary problem and the Council of Ireland, two questions, he said, which vitally concerned them. A Government could not transfer territory and governmental powers to a new State, and afterwards proceed to negotiate with another new State in respect of the same territory, or the same powers. It could not part with power and possess power at the same time. (Applause.) "We say," he went on, "that this Government must honour the pledges given by previous Governments and embodied in statutes, or there is an end of national honour. It was Mr. Bonar Law, in the debates on the Treaty in February last, who made this statement: 'If there ever was a question which the people of Ulster had a right to consider closed for ever, it was the question of the boundaries.' If Mr. Bonar Law became Prime Minister in the next Government, they would look to him to deal with that question in the spirit of that utterance. If they meant to hold Ulster, and showed this firmly and clearly, then they would retain it."

FALSE HOTEL REGISTRATION.

Honora Burnett, a fashionably dressed woman of 33, and Julian Duck, aged 48, who were staying together in the Midland Hotel, Manchester, were fined 20s. and 40s. respectively at Manchester Police Court on Saturday for wrongfully registering themselves as "Mr. and Mrs. Duck."

The woman's husband was with them in the hotel bedroom when the police arrived in response to a telephone message.

EX-KAISER.

always faith, hope, and love, and know that the greatest of these is love."

The ritual was followed by the priest addressing the bride and bridegroom with all the titles they own or ever owned. Afterwards the traditional rings worn on the third finger of the left hand since the engagement day were transferred to the third finger of the right hand. The rings are single broad gold bands. After a new prayer, the congregation sang the hymn, "Wait, wait my soul."

While the village organist played the "Lohengrin" March that he had studied for the past eight weeks, the couple stepped forward to receive the congratulations of friends, and Princess Hermine Schoenaich Carolath of Reuss became "Her Imperial and Royal Majesty of Germany and Prussia."

The Regal wedding luncheon was held under the auspices of St. George slaying the Dragon—a big silver statuette at the end of the table, opposite the bride and bridegroom, representing this scene.

The centre of the table was occupied by a huge vase, engraved with the old-time insignia, "Wilhelm Imperator—Rex," on one side, and on the other side angels holding garlands connecting with smaller vases placed about the table.

Most of the guests had left Doorn Castle by 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Prince Fuerstenberg stopped at a small hotel in Doorn for a hasty luncheon, because the wedding menu did not satisfy him. He is one of the richest princes in Germany, and said to be ten times richer than the ex-Kaiser.

He was the only wedding guest whom the crowd could see closely, and they made the best of their opportunity. Photographers besieged him on all sides before he could leave Doorn.

To-night the bridal couple motored to Schloss Amerongen, where the Dutch nobility had prepared a banquet in their honour.

SIMPLE FRACTURES.

BIOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION ADDRESS.

The inaugural meeting of the Dublin University Biological Association was held in Trinity College on Saturday night at 8.15. The outgoing President, Mr. J. Speares, M.D., F.R.C.P.I., presided, and there was a large attendance.

The medal of the Association was presented to Mr. J. E. Stokes for his paper on "The Propagated Nerve Impulse."

The John Mallet Purser Medal was awarded to Miss H. Trant, and the Daniel J. Cunningham Memorial Medal to Mr. W. McCauley.

The President-elect, Dr. William Pearson, read his inaugural address on "Fractures from the Operative Standpoint." He said that the study of fractures was a fascinating one, beset with difficulties and problems yet unsolved, and in recent times there was no subject which had occupied the attention of surgeons to a greater extent than that of fractures and their treatment. For some years prior to the outbreak of the great war the problem of the treatment of simple fractures had become of supreme interest. Operative measures were introduced, and were claiming an increasing number of adherents. In 1910, following a discussion at the annual meeting of the British Medical Association, a Committee was appointed—"To report on the ultimate results obtained in the treatment of simple fractures with or without operation." Its conclusions, while carefully guarded, were on the whole favourable to operative treatment. It demonstrated the close relationship between good anatomical and good functional results, and also showed that in a considerable proportion of cases both open and closed methods of treatment left much to be desired.

NON-OPERATIVE MEANS.

The lecturer pointed out that now, more than ever, with the knowledge and experience gained in the war, it was safe to say that the majority of recent simple fractures could be efficiently treated by non-operative means. There remained, however, a number of cases in which such measures offered little prospect of success. The principal risks which may be urged against the operative treatment of simple fractures were sepsis and non-union.

Professor T. E. Gordon, M.B., proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Pearson for his very able address. He thought that, perhaps, the best compliment they could pay him was to say that it was of the same high order of merit which they were accustomed to expect at meetings of that Association. (Applause.)

Sir William I. de Courcy Wheeler, M.D., in seconding the resolution, congratulated Mr. Pearson on his excellent address, and on his election as President. Having referred to the advance of medical science within the last ten or twelve years, he said that there were lots of things learned outside the theatre and textbooks.

The resolution was carried with acclamation.

Professor A. F. Dixon, M.B., D.Sc., proposed: "That the Dublin University Biological Association is worthy of the support of all students of medicine and other sciences of the University."

Mr. W. R. Fearon, D.Sc., F.T.C.D., seconded the resolution, which was passed unanimously.

A vote of thanks was passed to the outgoing President.

VISCOUNT GREY:

Mr. Lloyd George started from London to Leeds some little time ago with a sword in his hand. He flourished it at every station at which the train stopped.

I have been reminded of a story I heard years ago in which the scene was laid in Wales, and the subject of it was a Welsh chieftain. It was written without the least application to Mr. Lloyd George, because it was written many years before he or I were born. When a sudden and unforeseen crisis occurred the chieftain drew his sword, rushed about waving it, and shouted "Show me the enemy." (Laughter and cheers.)

No doubt Mr. Lloyd George will find an enemy. But he seems to be exceedingly cautious before he strikes, and he is surrounded by a devoted bodyguard. There is Lord Balfour, Lord Birkenhead, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Sir Robert Horne, and, when he recovers—as all who know him sincerely hope he will soon—Mr. Churchill. This bodyguard keeps close round Mr. Lloyd George, and I cannot help thinking presently he may find them a little embarrassing.

They keep so very close to him, watching, I think, with great interest, but also, perhaps, with a little apprehension, what is actually going to be done with the sword—at any rate keeping so close to him that they are not likely to come in contact with the point of the sword themselves. In time this may be cleared up, but meanwhile, let us remember when we talk about "war never again" that the Coalition Government did the other day bring us to the very brink of war.

I won't go into details of a capital levy or how it is to be worked, but it seems obvious that if a man has £50,000 invested in works, and you are going to take from him, say, £5,000 of his capital, he is going to have less working capital, and if he thought of extending his works he is not going to be able to do so. If he had barely enough capital to keep the works going the works are going to shrink rather than to be extended. There is going to be less employment, and how he is to raise £5,000 at the same moment that everybody else is trying to raise £5,000 I cannot see.—In London.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN:

In the difficult times ahead the co-operation of moderate men, irrespective of party ties, was the only safe basis of policy, the only sound foundation for a strong and stable Government.

It is well that this great Irish Treaty of Peace should be signed by the very men who opposed its execution, and that the Irish race should have the assurance that the last and bitterest Diehard of them all has surrendered in his ditch.

I learned with surprise the other day that before the Carlton Club decision the late Minister of Agriculture had resigned his office owing to disagreement with the Government on agricultural policy, for I had received a letter from him explaining why he did not resign. The letter tendering resignation, if addressed to me, must have miscarried in the post.

I want to ask Sir A. Griffith-Boscawen a question. It appeared that he had already made up his mind that he had resigned because the late Government could not adopt his agricultural policy. Before Sir A. Griffith-Boscawen joined the new Government, did he get that agricultural policy accepted by them?

I know he did not. And I know it, because I have read the speeches of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who has explained quite clearly that what Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen has asked he can't have, and that is why Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen is no longer Minister of Agriculture and has been converted into a Minister of Health—in London.

INDIGNANT COUNCILLORS.

REJECTION OF EX-SERVICE MAN CAUSES STORM.

Seven members of the Whitland, Carmarthenshire, District Council walked out of the Council room when it was announced that a surveyorship appointment had not been given to an ex-service man, but to Mr. T. R. Davies, son and grandson of former holders of the post. Mr. Davies was rejected for war service.

Captain Protheroe, who led the walk-out, said that he would resign from the Council. He contended that an ex-service applicant had fulfilled the terms of the advertisement, which stated: "qualifications being equal, preference will be given to ex-service men."

A TRUCE AND AN ELECTION.

MIDLAND FARMERS' DEMAND.

THE PEOPLE'S VERDICT.

An immediate truce and a general election when the new register is completed was unanimously called for at the monthly meeting of the County Westmeath Executive of the Farmers' Union, which was held at the Courthouse, Moate.

Mr. Patrick McKenna, who proposed the resolution, declared that the Irish Farmers' Union would, eventually prove the saving of the country. The resolution was as follows:—

"That we view with deep concern the present unfortunate dissension amongst the representatives of the Irish nation, and consider that they should never have started civil war, as if it continues it will paralyse their power of serving Ireland, and tend to alienate the support of the Irish race abroad.

"We record our firm conviction that the Irish people are the supreme court of the Irish nation, and we hereby call on all parties to this split to have an immediate truce and a general election as soon as the new register is ready, and let the people's verdict be supreme."

DUBLIN DRAMA LEAGUE.

"THE THREE DAUGHTERS OF M. DUPONT."

The production of "The Three Daughters of M. Dupont," a play in four acts by M. Brieux, translated by St. John Hankin, under the auspices of the Dublin Drama League, was worthy of a larger audience than that which was present at the Abbey Theatre last night. The play is the story of a loveless marriage of two young persons who are driven to it by their respective parents. In a not remote way the mercenary motives of the parents resemble the match-making bargains of the Irish peasantry.

Monsieur Dupont is a printer by trade, and hopes to improve his business by an alliance with a banker, who has a rich uncle, from whom he has expectations. Monsieur Dupont's eldest daughter committed an indiscretion, for which her father banished her from his home. The second daughter is a spinster by choice, and works for her living, and the youngest is pretty, but somewhat inane.

She marries the banker, but soon incompatibility of temperament between her husband and herself becomes manifest, and she finds herself chained to a man whom she does not love. The printing business does not prosper, and the banking business fails; the rich uncle is a pauper, and so all the hopes of the families on both sides are disappointed.

Mr. James O'Dea gives an admirable study of M. Dupont, and as Madame Dupont, Miss Edith Dodd made a good representative of the demure wife. Miss Margot Brunton acted with much charm as the young wife of Antonin, the son of the banker, which part was capably filled by Mr. R. Brereton Barry. The other characters in the play were impersonated by the Misses May Craig, C. Perry, Christine Hayden, Edith Brambell, Shiela Richards, and Messrs. Gabriel J. Fallon, M. J. Dolan, Eric Gorman, and P. J. Carolan.

The play will be repeated this evening.

A YEAR OF DANGER.

BISHOP'S TRIBUTE TO IRISH GOVERNMENT.

Addressing the annual Synod of the Dioceses of Cashel and Emly, at Cashel, the Bishop of Cashel (Dr. Millar) said that they had been preserved through a year of difficulty and danger, and were met again in their Diocesan Synod with thankful hearts.

Having referred to the retirement of Archdeacon Wilson, the Bishop spoke of the circumstances under which the Rev. L. S. H. Henry left the diocese. It was difficult to speak with calmness of the brutal treatment of this worthy man. They deeply sympathised with Mr. Henry in his unmerited suffering, and earnestly trusted that he might have a happy future in a land other than that of his birth. It was pleasant to be able to acknowledge the readiness of the Government to give immediate payment to cover the financial losses that Mr. Henry had sustained. Considering the difficulties that had confronted them, the Diocesan Council were able to present a financial report which was inspiring in a high degree. It meant that in the face of the gravest trials their people had trusted in God and remained in the country. They had supported the Church without stint, and they could thankfully accept their liberality as an evidence that they believed that the creed they professed has a future in the country. That was the spirit which brought success. It had behind it the faith which looked beyond the present danger, and saw the ultimate triumph of good over evil.

PEACEFUL CITIZENS.

"We render," said his lordship, "our tribute of admiration to the members of our flock, who, under circumstances of almost unparalleled difficulty and danger, have so nobly done their duty. But how long must we endure? The Irish Times—to whom all Ireland owes a great debt for its wise, far-seeing, and high-minded counsel—a short time since impressed upon the Government the need for haste. We endorse that advice, too, with all our hearts. We respectfully and urgently remind the Government that we have not been neglectful of our duty to them. We have done our duty as peaceful and law-abiding citizens, and we again ask for increased immediate effort to ensure protection and security. We acknowledge that much has been done. We appreciate the courtesy of our rulers, and their evident desire to protect our interests, but yet we have still very grave cause for complaint. The feeling of insecurity continues, and the causes which have led to it are still daily manifest. Burning of property, refusal to pay just and lawful debts, gross and public interference with the rights of private property. Dreadful and unspeakable crimes have also been committed, and the public have not yet had sufficient evidence that these awful deeds have been adequately punished.

"Honest, brave men will face physical violence, the destruction of their property, but such deeds as we are now speaking of chill the hearts of strong men and fill them with an overmastering desire to get away from a country where, in their opinion, civilisation is losing its hold. An immediate and pressing duty rests upon the Government—viz., to give unmistakable evidence of their power to put down crime. We have no doubt whatever as to their willingness. We ask for evidence that they have the power, and this ought to be possible with the present strong and united public opinion. In the meantime, we will continue to render assistance in every possible way. Special prayers are now issued for those in authority. They ought to be used in our churches and in all our households. We will trust and pray that when our next Synod meets the blessing of peace will rest upon our country."

BANK CLERKS SHOT DEAD.

RIVALS FOR A TYPIST'S HAND.

In King's Bank, Pall Mall, London, on Friday afternoon, one of two men who were rivals for a female typist's hand shot his companion and then killed himself. The names of the dead men are Lindsey Lindsey (30), cashier, and Archie Grey (20), clerk.

Shots were heard in the basement, and when one of the employés went there he found the two men dead. One had been shot through the eye, and the other through the temple. A revolver was lying on the floor. Both had been paying attention to a Miss Ferguson, and she was about to become engaged to Grey, having declined the attentions of Lindsey.

ROAD MAINTENANCE.

LURGAN DISSATISFIED WITH GOVERNMENT GRANT.

At the quarterly meeting of the Lurgan Rural Council, the County Surveyor (Mr. E. McConnell) stated that the most unsatisfactory state of the Lurgan to Portadown road demanded special reference. It was evident to all that the Government contribution towards the maintenance of this road ought to be about 80 instead of 50 per cent. of the cost of maintenance. Nearly half a mile of this road was re-surfaced during the summer, and considerable expense was incurred in keeping the remainder patched with tarred stone. More than half of the whole length was in very bad order now, but the year's maintenance money was nearly exhausted, and unless an adequate amount was provided the road would become impassable for traffic during the winter.

The Chairman said that they should ask the County Council for an increased contribution towards the maintenance of the roads.

The Surveyor said that motor traffic was responsible for 90 per cent. of the wear and tear of the roads.

Mr. Symington moved that they ask for a contribution of 80 per cent. towards the maintenance of the main roads and a contribution of 60 per cent. for the second class roads.

Mr. Ruddell seconded the proposition, which was unanimously passed.

The report of the Committee places before the Assembly a measure whereby it is hoped to bring to an end what they regard as a very serious evil. The measure makes the patronage of a benefice incapable of sale after two vacancies subsequent to its passage, and renders void the presentation to a benefice of any clergyman who, after the passing of a measure has become a patron, or one of the patrons.

"AN ACT OF WAR."

BELLEEK & PETTIGO'S LOSSES.

90 PER CENT. LOOT.

A list of very heavy claims for malicious injuries was for hearing at Fermanagh County Court on Saturday from the Belleek and Pettigo districts, arising out of the events of May and June last.

Some test cases were heard, and it appeared that the damage was only 10 per cent., the remainder being loot.

The Rev. Mr. Naylor, who was called to prove "illegal assembly," said that before the Special Constabulary arrived at Magheramena he was stopped at a barricade, when an officer in a green uniform ordered him back and told him to "go home to hell out of that." He was ordered to clear out of the place, and had to do so according to plan. (Laughter.) Nearly all the people had to leave the village.

His Honour said that he had great difficulty in the case, as there was no evidence that the damage was done by an "unlawful assembly."

Major Falls protested against the people of Fermanagh having to pay for damage done admittedly by people from another county.

Judge Green said that this was one of those cases that was never meant to come within the scope of the Act. It was an act of war.

Major Falls said that it was a deliberate act of war. Hostile forces crossed the border and drove back the forces of the Crown and took possession of everything. Everyone sympathised with Belleek and the people of Pettigo, but their remedy was against the State and not the ratepayers.

His Honour gave a decree in one case for the damaged property, only to be a test case.

A CLERGYMAN'S LOSS.

Arising out of the same series of cases, the Rev. J. O'Kiernan had a heavy claim in for damage to Magheramena Castle and its contents. The applicant produced photographs to show that the contents of every room were wrecked; his library, which contained thousands of valuable books, was destroyed to the extent of £2,000 alone. Magheramena was first occupied by the Specials. They allowed him to have one room, and he remained in the house while they were there, and they conducted themselves very well, indeed. After they left and the town of Belleek was occupied three parties of British troops came and billeted themselves in Magheramena. They completely wrecked the house and premises. Anything that could be smashed was smashed.

His Honour said that in order to make the county liable it must be an "unlawful assembly." It was difficult to do that under the circumstances. It was not the sort of case that the county should have to pay for.

The case was adjourned till next Sessions.

CINEMA NOTES.

Film Censorship.

The controversy regarding cinema censorship has been revived by recent letters to the Press, in which correspondents complain of its unsatisfactory results. There seems to be general agreement that the present system is far from perfect. Perhaps its main fault lies in the fact that there are too many censors, with consequent overlapping, confusion, and lack of co-ordination. The problem is essentially one for Government consideration, as until the censorship is placed on a national, rather than a local basis, it will not give satisfaction. There should be one governing authority for the twenty-six counties at least, though one fails to see why with co-operation with the North one system should not prevail for the whole of Ireland. As things are, pictures passed for exhibition, say, in the Dublin Municipal area, may be rejected in Rathmines, and vice versa. Now that the Provisional Government is beginning to tackle many phases of local government there is no reason why it should not consider this problem. Our Home Office could easily devise a system which would at all events be an improvement on that now prevailing. The appointment of official censors of experience and discretion, would tend to promote the confidence of exhibitors and public alike, and remove the numerous anomalies that now exist.

A remarkable programme of British superfilms and drastic changes in booking methods has been outlined by Mr. Bernard, managing director of the Stoll Company. To meet the changing conditions of the industry it has been decided to abandon the policy of a regular output in favour of special productions. No limit of time or cost will be fixed for these pictures, which will be handled in the studio and booked to exhibitors on their individual merits. The material outlay involved in modern film production renders it impossible to make pictures for the British market alone, so that all future Stoll films will be designed in quality and appeal for the world's screens. Among the films in course of production and about to be produced are "The Prodigal Son," "The Sign of Four," and "The Wandering Jew," in which Matheson Lang will be seen in the rôle he created on the stage.

The cinema trade in Great Britain is organising a big campaign in favour of the abolition of the Entertainment Tax in view of the impending general election. The screens of three thousand nine hundred picture houses are to be the lines of communication between the public and the organisers of the campaign, and it is hoped that the moral effect on Parliamentary aspirants will be such as to brook no denying. The promoters point out that they do not advocate the use of the screen to influence votes for one political party more than another, but they urge their use that all candidates of whatever political persuasion may be secured as pledged supporters of the abolition of the tax. Propaganda through the medium of slides is being prepared asking voters to insist on cheaper entertainment.

BELFAST ROBBERIES.

PLUCKY BREAD-SERVER.

James Jones, a book-keeper in the employment of Messrs. Doran and Co., Donegal Quay, Belfast, was "held up" by several armed men last Saturday, while returning from the bank with the wages for the firm's employés.

A sum of £16 was taken from his pockets, but a bag containing a quantity of silver was not interfered with.

A bread server named Thomas McLeish, employed by Messrs. Inglis and Co., was also "held up" on the same evening by armed men, who followed him into the shop of Terence Fitzsimons, Pound street. He declined to give up his money bag, and, dashing out of the shop, jumped on his cart and made good his escape. A shot was fired after him, but it did not take effect.

Not only was all the business prepared for the Synod by the secretaries, but throughout the entire year they gave continuous and painstaking care to the affairs of the Church. Amongst the secretaries they mentioned Mr. Moore, whom they should not forget.

The proceedings then concluded with the benediction pronounced by the Bishop.

SIR JOHN RUNTZ.

Sir John Runtz, who was first Mayor of Stoke Newington, died at Watford on Saturday night.

MANY OUTRAGES IN DUBLIN.

ROBBERIES, AMBUSHES AND FIRES.

A FORMIDABLE LIST.

As a result of a shooting affair in Capel street, Dublin, between 10.30 and 11 o'clock last Saturday night, Francis Mooney (24), who gave his address as 3 Swansea terrace, Ranelagh, was seriously wounded, and was taken to Jervis street Hospital.

It is alleged that two or three young men, of whom Mooney was one, stopped an officer of the national Army, and asked him if he had any arms on him. There was a brief conversation, and suddenly a muffled report was heard. Mooney was seen to fall, and was quickly removed to hospital. A revolver and ammunition were found on him. He is suffering from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Shops Raided.

Two armed men entered the grocery premises of Mr. D. P. Mordaunt, 33 St. Alban's road, Dublin, last Saturday night, and took away £6, the contents of the till.

Miss Reid, the assistant, was covered with revolvers, and told that she would be shot if she raised any alarm or called the proprietor, who, at the time, was at his tea.

One of the men emptied the till, and Miss Reid called Mr. Mordaunt, who rushed into the shop. A struggle ensued, and a shot was fired at Mr. Mordaunt, the bullet, however, going wide. Two more shots were fired, but without result, and finally the raiders withdrew.

On being refused admission to the licensed premises of a Mr. Hughes, Leeson street, last Saturday, one of two armed men discharged his revolver through the letter box, wounding an assistant named Joseph Keating in the hand. Keating was removed to Baggot street Hospital.

The premises of Mr. Lonergan, spirit grocer, 14 Jones's road, were entered on last Friday night, at 7.55 o'clock, by four men, and a sum of £23 10s. was stolen. One of the men remained at the door while the other three covered the staff with revolvers.

Ambushes.

While a party of four or five National Army officers were travelling towards the centre of the city in a Ford motor car last Saturday afternoon they were fired upon near the corner of Cabra road. Nobody was hit.

It was subsequently stated that the attackers entered a house and left again without their overcoats. The officers returned almost immediately and arrested a man, who was alleged to be one of those attempting to get away. Houses in the locality were searched, and two men were arrested near Ellesmere avenue.

A party of men driving in a Ford car along Leinster street towards Merrion square, Dublin, were fired upon at about 5 o'clock on Saturday morning. Only one shot was fired, and the window of Mr. Murphy's chemist's establishment, Leinster street, was pierced.

Mails Seized.

While postmen were delivering letters in Marlborough street, Gardiner street, and Dorset street last Saturday morning, they were "held up" by armed men, and their mail bags taken from them. So far the mails have not been heard of, and no arrests have been made.

Attack on Signal Cabin.

An attempt was made to burn a signal cabin on the loop line near Drumcondra Bridge at about ten o'clock last Saturday night. The cabin was set alight by armed men, who used petrol. The fire, however, failed to get a hold on the cabin, and was soon extinguished when the Fire Brigade arrived.

Fourteen Arrests.

National troops, in the course of a raid on the premises formerly known as the Oddfellows' Hall, Upper Abbey street, yesterday, arrested fourteen young men, who were found in one of the rooms which was let some weeks ago as a social club.

Other rooms in the building occupied by members of other clubs were inspected, and the occupants were questioned.

Sunday Highwayman.

Following the reports of robberies from a number of pedestrians in different parts of the city yesterday, a Dublin Metropolitan Policeman last evening arrested Edward Dodd, who, on being searched at Great Brunswick street Police Station was found to possess a revolver and three silver watches, which were identified as the property of some men who had been "held up."

William Finglas, 4 Sandymount Green, was one of the victims. He was walking along Fade street at about 6.30 p.m. when a man asked him what o'clock it was. Upon being told the man produced a revolver, and asked Mr. Finglas if he "belonged to the Free State." He then proceeded to search him and appropriated a silver watch and chain and about seven shillings in silver, after which he directed Mr. Finglas to proceed along Dame street, and on no account to look back.

Two other men, whose watches and money were taken, were stopped in Exchequer street and Anne's lane (off South Anne street), respectively.

After some time in the police station the prisoner was removed by a party of soldiers from Wellington Barracks.

LATE LORD NORTHCLIFFE.

ONCE MISTAKEN FOR A NEWSBOY

Some interesting reminiscences of the late Viscount Northcliffe are contained in a little book—"The Real Lord Northcliffe," by Louise Owen—which has been published by the house of Cassell.

The writer, who was for twenty years his private secretary, tells of one occasion when Lord Northcliffe was crossing the Channel and bought, as was his habit, a complete set of the London newspapers to read on the journey. He was wearing a travelling "ulster" and a cap well pulled down, and his papers were in a bundle under his arm, when he was tapped on the shoulder by a passenger and "Times, please" was shouted into his ear. Whether or not he parted with his copy is not recorded.

On another occasion the author was sent to Coutts' Bank for several £50 notes. These were placed in separate envelopes by Lord Northcliffe and addressed to a number of people, several of whom lived in the Temple. "They are old friends of my father's," he explained, "and people I knew in my young days, but now down and out. On no account must you mention my name."

"It was for the masses he worked," says the writer, "not for the highbrow crank whose literary style may be so highly polished that only the surface can be seen. Lord Northcliffe's name will be handed down for generations, while the fame of these writers will disappear as ripples on water."

RAILWAY SITUATION.

THE STRIKE MAY SPREAD

PICKETS AT SALLINS.

TROUBLE AT NAAS.

There was no marked change in the railway situation during the last two days. It was rumoured last evening that the men at Sallins may go out on strike to-day. No confirmation of this rumour could be obtained, but it is significant that pickets were on duty.

On Saturday the Great Southern and Western Railway Company received a telegram from Naas, stating that a strike picket had arrived there, and was preventing goods from being admitted to the station.

The pickets further intimated to the company's officials that they would allow no trains to travel, except those with live stock, which were then on the rails.

On inquiry at Kingsbridge, our representative learned from the management that they had a meeting with the locomotive men's representatives, the N.U.R., and also the A.S.L.E. and F. on Saturday.

A fortnight ago the National Union representatives failed to turn up at an appointed meeting, and after waiting two and a half hours the management had to confine themselves to the one association, which claimed that it represented the great majority of the drivers and firemen. The N.U.R. had not formally met them since on the matter, but particulars of the suspended guaranteed week for the locomotive department were agreed upon for the present week, and the staff was fully notified. The work, it was stated, had been carried through without any demur on the part of the men.

On Saturday morning, however, the National Union representatives attended at Kingsbridge, and requested the restitution of the guaranteed week for their men for this week, and tried to ignore the arrangement already come to for the two preceding weeks; whilst the A.S.L.E. and F. asked for the men, as a whole, the continued suspension, with limited guarantees.

Incidentally, it was mentioned that the company had increased the minimum guarantees considerably for the forthcoming week, though in at least two cases the terms had to be conditional.

SALLINS.

At Sallins, for example, if the traffic provided for by the company is allowed to flow to and from Dublin, all the locomotive men, as well as the traffic men, at that and adjoining stations could be given full time.

It was pointed out that the application of the N.U.R., as it affects the Inchicore men, was, that for the present all the men employed there should have a full week's pay, although it was common knowledge that there was scarcely any work for them to do owing to the strike amongst the traffic employés at the Dublin stations.

Eventually the National Union representatives retired from the meeting, and the management, on the assurance of the society remaining, who admittedly control by far the largest number of men on the system, generally agreed to continue the suspension of the guaranteed week for the locomotive men in Dublin and throughout the system.

The alternative, as explained to our reporter, would be to terminate the services of the greater number of the company's drivers and firemen, for whom there is no work available, and to retain only the small number for whom work could be provided—a course, which the official interviewed told us, the company would deplore.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH.

CELEBRATION OF 108th ANNIVERSARY.

The 108th anniversary of the opening of St. George's Church, Dublin, was observed yesterday by appropriate Services of thanksgiving. The Rev. Fergus Greer, rector of the parish, was the preacher at morning Service.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH.

At the evening Service the Bishop of Meath took as his text St. Luke, 16th Chapter and 5th verse—"How much owest thou unto thy Lord?" Having explained the story of the unjust steward, he said that there were other gifts besides that of money. They might be very poor in money, and yet everyone there that night, even the very youngest, was a steward and a trustee of some gift from God. What were they doing with these gifts? What use were they making of them? "How much owest thou?" No man could answer that in another man's name. He could not answer it for them, and they could not answer it for him; and yet he wanted to show them a few things which would help them to give a truthful answer.

First of all, they owed to God their lives; and what a wonderful gift that was and how mysterious! What use were they making of their lives for God? They owed to God their reason. They looked down on animals and called them lower creatures; men were the masters. God had given them intellects and power, and they should consecrate their powers to the best services of other people and to God. They owed to God their love—love which they were capable of giving to others and which others could give to them. They had parents to watch over them, friends to stand by them, children in their homes to throw their arms around them. How thankful they ought to be! Let them choose good friends.

AN ANNIVERSARY.

They owed to God the means of grace. That meant opportunities and ways of getting help in their religious life. That Sunday was the anniversary of that church. For 108 years that building in which they met that night had stood as a positive proof of God's care for, and interest in, the souls of men. Within those walls hundreds of God's children had assembled week after week to worship and praise Him. This house of God was their inheritance. Generations which built and worshipped in that church had passed away, and they in their turn were now inheritors in trust. It was a great responsibility, and God grant that they may prove worthy of it. God grant that they may use the means of grace offered to them within those sacred walls. Let them not forget that they owed to God their salvation. Their salvation was a free gift from God. Would they answer now, "How much owest thou unto thy Lord?" Life, intellect, love, means of grace, salvation—everything. What had they to pay? Nothing, absolutely nothing.

THE RINK ROBBERY.

GROCER'S ASSISTANT REMANDED.

In the Dublin Police Court on Saturday a young man named Thomas Moloney, 8 Emly place, off Sheriff street, who was stated to be a grocer's assistant, was remanded on a charge of conspiring to rob the Postmaster-General and with taking part in the robbery from the Rink Post Office on Friday of the sum of £2,340.

A caretaker at the Cavendish row entrance to the Rink Post Office stated that he saw three men, of whom the accused was one, enter the Rink. He asked them their business, and they said that they were Oriel House men. The accused remained at the door, and the other men went into the office. He also saw a number of other men rush up with revolvers, but he saw no arms with the accused.

An acting overseer, who was on duty at the time, said that one of the men took £2,300, which he handed over to another man through a partition.

A member of the C.I.D. deposed that the accused made the following statement:—"I was at the Post Office, where I had gone for stamps. I took no part in any raid, and I did not say that I was an Oriel House man to any of the officials there. I do not know who the raiding party was."

A remand for a week was granted.

ATTACKS ON RAILWAYS.

It is reported that armed men stopped a passenger train and a goods train from Limerick last Friday in the section between Bansha and Cahir, and removed some goods.

A body of armed men burned down the signal cabin at Gowran Station, raiding the station premises.

RAILWAY SITUATION.

THE STRIKE MAY SPREAD

PICKETS AT SALLINS.

TROUBLE AT NAAS.

There was no marked change in the railway situation during the last two days. It was rumoured last evening that the men at Sallins may go out on strike to-day. No confirmation of this rumour could be obtained, but it is significant that pickets were on duty.

On Saturday the Great Southern and Western Railway Company received a telegram from Naas, stating that a strike picket had arrived there, and was preventing goods from being admitted to the station.

The pickets further intimated to the company's officials that they would allow no trains to travel, except those with live stock, which were then on the rails.

On inquiry at Kingsbridge, our representative learned from the management that they had a meeting with the locomotive men's representatives, the N.U.R., and also the A.S.L.E. and F. on Saturday.

A fortnight ago the National Union representatives failed to turn up at an appointed meeting, and after waiting two and a half hours the management had to confine themselves to the one association, which claimed that it represented the great majority of the drivers and firemen. The N.U.R. had not formally met them since on the matter, but particulars of the suspended guaranteed week for the locomotive department were agreed upon for the present week, and the staff was fully notified. The work, it was stated, had been carried through without any demur on the part of the men.

On Saturday morning, however, the National Union representatives attended at Kingsbridge, and requested the restitution of the guaranteed week for their men for this week, and tried to ignore the arrangement already come to for the two preceding weeks; whilst the A.S.L.E. and F. asked for the men, as a whole, the continued suspension, with limited guarantees.

Incidentally, it was mentioned that the company had increased the minimum guarantees considerably for the forthcoming week, though in at least two cases the terms had to be conditional.

SALLINS.

At Sallins, for example, if the traffic provided for by the company is allowed to flow to and from Dublin, all the locomotive men, as well as the traffic men, at that and adjoining stations could be given full time.

It was pointed out that the application of the N.U.R., as it affects the Inchicore men, was, that for the present all the men employed there should have a full week's pay, although it was common knowledge that there was scarcely any work for them to do owing to the strike amongst the traffic employés at the Dublin stations.

RACEGOERS PLEASED.

ENJOYABLE WIND-UP AT LEOPARDSTOWN.

The two-day meeting that concluded at Leopardstown on Saturday provided an enjoyable wind-up of the week's sport. The weather was so exceptionally fine and bright that but for a certain keen nip in the wind it was difficult to realise that autumn had made its exit in favour of "drear November." On the first day the attendance in the members' enclosure was on the small side, but Saturday's gathering made ample amends, and all present seemed to be well pleased with their afternoon's amusement. The early start on each day came in for general approval, and the crowds were able to get home before dusk.

Amongst those present, many of whom attended both days, were:—Viscount and Viscountess Powerscourt and the Hon. Doreen Wingfield, General Sir Bryan and Lady Mahon, Sir Walter and Lady Nugent, the Hon. Lady De Courcy Wheeler, the Hon. Mrs. Dewhurst, Lady and Miss Chance, Brigadier-General and Mrs. Smith-Bingham, the Hon. H. C. Alexander, General and Mrs. Waldron, Captain A. Boyd Rochfort, V.C.; Colonel and Mrs. Clarke, Colonel Jameson Davis, Colonel Croft, Captain Anthony Maude and Miss Maude, Miss Hughes, Captain and Mrs. Wyndham Quin, Captain Arnott, Mr. Arnott, Captain and Mrs. King French, the Misses French, Colonel and Mrs. Sparke, Mr. and Mrs. Brinckman, Captain Shirley, Mr. J. GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS.

ANTRIM FARMERS SEEK INFORMATION.

At a meeting of the North Antrim Farmers' Association in Ballymoney—Mr. Arthur M'Kinley presiding—Mr. James Pettigrew, B.A., secretary, read replies that he had received relative to the Association's request for a return of the officials employed in the Northern Government in each department, and the salaries and duties attached to each position.

Mr. J. Milne Barbour, M.P., wrote enclosing certain estimates for the financial year 1922-23, and a copy of the official Directory of the Government of Northern Ireland.

Mr. R. D. Megaw, M.P., wrote that in the Ministry of which he had the honour to be a member there were no unnecessary officials. It had been a common occurrence for him in the last year to find that many of the officials with whom he had been associated had been working to late hours day after day without a murmur.

The Chairman said that the replies could not be regarded as satisfactory. It was said that this was the age of taxation with the consent of the governed, and he did not see why the return should be withheld. The Association with other bodies would press for an answer.

A CREW OF CHIEF OFFICERS.

The Norwegian barque Stromberg, which was lying idle since December last in Cork Harbour, left in tow for Norway a few days ago, and every member of the crew of eight, with the exception of the cook, held chief mate's certificates. They were signed on in Norway by the owners to do the double trip for the sum of £6. Owing to the weather which prevailed on their arrival in Queenstown it was thought prudent to engage some extra men, and they could not be got for less than £15 each, with their passage paid back to Hull or Newcastle.

DEGREES CONFERRED.

STUDENTS DEMONSTRATE AT UNIVERSITY CEREMONY.

Lively scenes were associated with the annual conferring of degrees at the National University on Saturday. Prior to the ceremony, a crowd of students in motley array assembled in Earlsfort terrace, and indulged in the usual pranks of youthful enthusiasts. Mock degrees were bestowed on all and sundry by a group of engineering students, whose quaint garb had queer jazz-like effects. After Dr. Coffey, the members of the University staff, and the new graduates had filed into the Council Chamber, a wild rush was made by the students, who took possession of the hall and proceeded to create an unearthly din. Visitors who came to see the ceremony left disappointed, as they were unable to get admission. The recipients of honours had a lively time, as they were pelted with bags of flour and rice, while the inevitable egg was a deadly missle. There was much whistling and cheering, mingled with cries for the Republic and the Chancellor (Mr. de Valera), who was an absentee. Dr. Coffey's address was inaudible.

When the formal ceremony was over, a riotous procession emerged and rushed towards St. Stephen's Green, where two tramcars were "commandeered" and utilised for a tour through the city. At Nelson Pillar the students alighted and marched towards Grafton street. Having created much commotion in the busy thoroughfares, they gradually dispersed, their store of frenzied enthusiasm having apparently spent itself.

A PLUCKY RAILWAYMAN.

We have received from "G.H.C." £1, for railway linesman Patrick O'Toole, who, on Friday morning jumped on a moving engine from which the driver and fireman had been taken by armed men, at Killiney, County Dublin, and succeeded in stopping it before it could reach an obstruction which had been placed on the line.

ULSTER EXCHEQUER.

HEAVY COST OF POLICE.

The accounts of the Exchequer of Northern Ireland show that on the 1st October the balance in the Exchequer was £250,275, the tax revenue for the month amounted to £451,495, the non-tax revenue to £227,885, and other receipts (Ulster Savings Certificates) to £42,000, making a total of £971,653. The expenditure was £874,100, the principal items being:—Old-age pensions, £69,000; grants to local authorities, £130,000; Royal Ulster Constabulary, £50,000; Special Constabulary, £375,000; Ministry of Education, £139,000. The balance in the Exchequer on the 31st October was £6,053. The expenditure for the current financial year amounts to £5,570,472.

WARD UNION HUNT.

THE OPENING MEET.

Arriving at The Ward on Saturday shortly before the scheduled hour for the opening meet of the season, we found the famous tryst practically deserted. A few locals stood about; otherwise the place was as lacking in animation as on an ordinary afternoon. But prompt to time, the new huntsman, William Strickland, accompanied by his charges, put in an appearance, to be followed at a short interval by the Master, Mr. T. Levins Moore, both superbly mounted.

The scene then underwent a remarkable transformation in a very short space of time. Followers of the "Wards" had assembled from all parts of the county, the farming element being, as usual, very strongly represented, and dozens of motors were "parked" on each side of the road. A quarter of an hour previously it had been, as stated, almost deserted; now all was bustle and animation. For a quarter of a mile the road was blocked, and, in the glorious sunshine, the picture was one to gladden the heart of hunting men, a pleasing touch of colour being added to the brilliant spectacle by the "pink" of the Master and the hunt attendants. Some well-known personalities in connection with the pack were, however, away. For the first time in 57 years "Jim" Brindley was missing from an opening meet. But it was a gathering of splendid proportions, in which the fair sex figured prominently.

But although the conditions, from the viewpoint of those who were not actively participating in the business of the day, were ideal, they were quite inimical to hunting—a bright sun, with the air cold and dry, and the ground so hard as to be practically unfit to ride over. The gloomy forebodings of the big cavalcade which moved off for Mr. Wilkinson's place, The Wooton, where the enlargement took place, were, unfortunately, borne out, for it proved a moderate day's sport, scent altogether failing in half an hour, and the deer being left an outlier.

After the usual law, hounds were laid on, and ran through Davidstown, taking a left-hand course to Kilbride. Scent proving very variable on the dry ground, hounds hunted slowly over the Kilbride road to Baystown, and crossing the Ballymacarney River, they ran completely out of scent on the road near Hollywood Rath.

Incidentally, it may be stated that the prospects for the season are distinctly encouraging. A fine herd of 17 deer are available, and since the close of last season the pack has been augmented by some fine-looking hounds purchased from the Meath, Queen's County, and Northumberland packs. The final selection has left twenty couple to work with, and on Saturday, under very adverse circumstances, they acquitted themselves right well.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

MAN AND WIFE DEAD IN THEIR HOME.

A shocking discovery was made on Saturday night in Sheffield, when John Gill, aged 56, a steel works labourer, and his wife, aged 54, were found dead, lying on the kitchen floor of the house, where they resided, both with their throats cut.

The man had been unable to work lately owing to a nervous breakdown, and had been on "short time" for nearly two years previously. They had seemed in a normal condition on Saturday evening. They were discovered at about midnight.

RAID ON A SWEET SHOP.

In the Dublin Police Court on Saturday Patrick Fagan, whose address was given at 32 East Arran street, was charged with having, in company with two armed men who are not in custody, entered the premises, No. 8 Mary street, and stolen a sum of £6.

Miss May Smith, an assistant in Bradley and Collins, confectioners, Mary street, said that three men entered the shop at 10 p.m. They drew revolvers. The accused was the man who stood at the door, while another man with a revolver put herself and a customer into a back room. The men in the shop could not open the cash register, and she was brought out and forced to open it. £6 was taken.

The accused was remanded for a week.

DUBLIN AND THE PROVINCES.

Cancelled Bank Note Negotiated: No Railway Wagons at Country Fair. Northern School Inspection System Condemned: Work Refused. Shipyards' Bonus to be Reduced: Stout as "Wages."

RUTLAND HIGH SCHOOL.—The report read at the annual prize-giving of the Rutland High School, Dublin, indicated that a high standard of achievement had been attained in all departments. Mr. George Birney, the Chairman, referring to the statement in the report that greater efforts were being made by the pupils to overcome a disinclination to exert the mind, commended their diligence and perseverance, and pointed out that the one serviceable, remunerative quality that could be attained in every study and in every pursuit was the quality of attention, which, unlike genius or brilliancy, can always, after due term of submissive service, be commanded, and was certain, if cultivated, to bring forth flowers and fruit. He paid a tribute to the teaching staff, and expressed the hope that the school would maintain its high position. Mrs. Greer distributed the prizes.

CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS.—The Institute of Chartered Accountants in Ireland has accepted with regret the resignation from the Council of Mr. Robert Walsh, Belfast, after 30 years' service. Mr. John Bailey, Belfast, has been admitted an associate in practice, and Messrs. James Ball, Belfast; John Crowley, London, and John O'Shea, Dublin, associates not in practice. Arrangements have been completed for holding the half-yearly examinations from the 14th to the 17th.

"GREATER DUBLIN" SCHEMES.—In the report presented to the annual meeting of the Civics Institute reference was made to the lectures given during the previous year, and to the steps taken, in conjunction with the Dublin Citizens' Housing Committee, towards forming a Greater Dublin Development and Housing Committee which, it was hoped, in co-operation with several other social organisations, to bring into active being immediately after the publication of the prize design and report in the "Greater Dublin" town-planning competition. The report mentions a new Parliament building with offices, site for the Roman Catholic Cathedral, a park system for children's playgrounds, utilisation of the old barrack sites, new docks and harbour, outlines a policy of development extending over the next fifty years, and anticipates for Dublin a period of unprecedented growth and prosperity. Attention is drawn to the fact that the Royal Institute of Architects of Ireland has formed a consultative Town-Planning Committee.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION LECTURES.—During the past few weeks conferences on the subject of religious education have been conducted by the Diocesan Inspector of the Dublin, Glendalough, and Kildare Diocesan Board of Education at the following centres:—Dublin Diocese—St. Kevin's, St. Jude's, Raheny, St. Andrew's, Rathmines, Leeson Park, Monkstown, Carrickmines. Glendalough—Greystones, Dunlavin, Celbridge, Wicklow, Arklow. Kildare—Portarlington. These gatherings were attended by over 200 Sunday School teachers and others, representing some sixty parishes. The teaching of the Diocesan Calendar and the aim of the Sunday School were among the subjects discussed.

CLASSICAL CONCERT.—The opening recital of a classical series given by the Royal Dublin Society will take place in the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, when the Brodsky Trio with Dr. Esposito will perform the following programme:—Trio for piano, violin, and 'cello in D major (Beethoven); trio for piano, violin, and viola, E flat (Mozart); quartet, piano and strings, G minor (Brahms).

All are cordially invited. A silver collection in aid of Association funds will be taken.

CLERGYMAN INJURED.—While riding a motor bicycle in Sandford road on Saturday night the Rev. W. N. Harvey, rector of Sandford, collided with a motor car and sustained a broken leg. He was removed to a private hospital.

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S MEN'S SOCIETY.—A lantern lecture, entitled "Our Wonderful Skies," will be given this evening in the Parochial Hall, Clyde road, Dublin, at eight o'clock by Mr. J. H. Bazin.

INCOME TAX APPEALS.—On Thursday last the Commissioners of Income Tax sat in the courthouse, Longford, and heard a number of appeals against income tax assessments from all over the county. It is a long time since a court of appeal sat in Longford. The department is making strenuous efforts to recover the accumulated arrears of the last few years.

OBLIGING SHOPKEEPER.—National troops at Thomastown, Co. Kilkenny, have arrested a man on a charge of having changed a cancelled £10 note with a Thomastown shopkeeper. The note is alleged to have been stolen during the recent raid on the Graigue-na-Managh branch of the National Bank.

PIGS IN DEMAND.—Sixteen hundred pigs were on offer at the Newcastle West, County Limerick, market, and were sold within twenty minutes. Bacon pigs fetched from 105s. to 110s. a cwt. Cattle could not be sold, except to local dealers, as the railway company had not provided any wagons. The local traders' association has made a strong protest.

TEACHERS' GRIEVANCE.—At the monthly meeting of the Belfast Branch of the Irish National Teachers' Organisation on Saturday, the inspection system again came in for criticism, and the nature of the complaints made by teachers from all parts of the area showed that the discontent with the system under the Northern Ministry was worse than it was at any time under the Dublin Castle régime. It was stated that a large number of teachers, with long and creditable records, had had their "reports" suddenly lowered under the Northern Ministry, and some were actually threatened with dismissal. Comment was made on the conduct of certain officials and the necessity urged for stronger action than has already been taken. It was decided, however, in the first instance, to give the Ministry an opportunity of introducing a measure of reform, and the following resolution was adopted unanimously, and ordered to be forwarded to Lord Londonderry and to the Secretary of the Ministry:—"That no system of inspection will be considered satisfactory which does not provide for an impartial court of appeal on which the teachers shall have representation." The opinion was generally expressed that the existing method of dealing with teachers' appeals against inspection reports was only a farce.

SHIPYARD WAGES REDUCTION.—Messrs. Harland and Wolff, Limited, and Messrs. Workman, Clark, and Co., Limited, have informed the Belfast District Committee of the Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades' Federation that they have decided to withdraw the remaining 10s. a week of the cost of living bonus, as instructed by the National Shipbuilding Employers' Federation in Great Britain. As on the last occasion both firms are prepared to withdraw the 10s. in four instalments, two weeks later than in Great Britain. At a meeting of the Federation reference was made to the anomalies and dissatisfaction that arose at the last negotiations with the firms on the withdrawal of the 16s. 6d. a week bonus, owing to different agreements that were made with the societies, and the Federation was advised before taking any action to make sure of the local and national position. Enquiries are to be made, and a further meeting held.

DOLE PREFERRED TO WORK.—At a meeting of the Strabane Urban District Council a Councillor complained that a number of men, who had refused to accept stone-breaking employment, because they were to be paid at piece-work rates, had now been refused unemployment relief. He said that many people could not make anything by breaking stones at piece-rates. The Clerk said that the men had been sent to him by the Labour Exchange. They refused the work, and he could, therefore, do nothing in the matter of keeping them on the dole list.

PAYMENT IN STOUT.—At Bailieborough (Co. Cavan) Quarter Sessions, Owen Reynolds Lisduff, claimed compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act, for injuries to his hand from Brian Reilly of the same place, Reilly said to Reynolds, who was employed by him, go home and get your gun; put a cartridge in it; shoot the crows that are eating my oats, and for every crow you shoot you will get a bottle of stout. Reynolds got the gun, but when he went to shoot it exploded, and his hand was injured, two of the fingers having to be amputated. The plaintiff, in cross-examination, could not say if the cartridge was home-made. Counsel for the defence contended that the cartridge was home-made, and that the plaintiff took unnecessary risk in using it. The judge allowed £20, and 12s. 6d. a week until further orders.

SEEKING WORK FOR UNEMPLOYED.—A deputation from the Belfast District Committee of the Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades' Federation appeared before the Belfast Harbour Commissioners in support of a proposal that they should grant special facilities in the event of some of the condemned battleships being brought to Belfast for breaking-up. The Commissioners said that they were prepared to undertake the work providing a satisfactory agreement was reached in the matter of wages.

CHEMICAL WORKS STRIKE.—The strike at Messrs. Richardson's Chemical Works, Short Strand, Belfast, still continues, and has now entered into its sixth week. Messrs. Richardson issue the following statement:—The minimum wages paid by the company up to five weeks ago for ordinary unskilled labour were 50s. 9d. per week of 47 hours, or an increase of 203 per cent. over pre-war rates.

INTER-CITY GAMES.

QUEEN'S AND TRINITY STILL UNBEATEN.

G. V. STEPHENSON'S FINE PLAY.

Saturday's programme included four matches between Dublin and Belfast clubs, the net result of which was two wins for each city. Dublin University put up another fine win against North of Ireland in the College Park, the final score being 42 points to 9. Queen's University, who have an unbeaten record in the North this season, visited Lansdowne road, and defeated Wanderers by 2 goals and 4 tries to a penalty goal and 3 tries, a result to which the international three-quarter, G. V. Stephenson, contributed a big share. Lansdowne travelled to Belfast, and though putting up a good game against Instonians, suffered defeat by 10 points to 5. Palmerston continued their winning sequence by defeating the Northern team, Malone, by a goal and a try to a goal. Blackrock College showed improved form in their game with Old Wesley, which they won by a goal and 4 tries to a penalty goal and a try. Bective Rangers' forwards always held the upper-hand with Clontarf at Castle avenue, the result being a four points' victory for the Donnybrook team. At Richmond Barracks the 2nd Welch Regiment had an easy victory over Loyola, who were without two of their team, and University effected a surprise win over Monkstown at Sydney Parade.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY (42) v. NORTH OF IRELAND (9).

There was a big attendance in the College Park on Saturday, when, under ideal conditions, the home side won very easily by 6 goals and 4 tries to 3 tries. Teams:—

Dublin University.—E. W. Bingham; S. J. Cussen, R. E. Maguire, M. Sugden, J. P. Steele; C. McCaldin, C. Nunns; J. D. Clinch, R. Y. Crichton, J. C. Gillespie, L. W. Smith, J. Speedy, I. Stuart, J. K. Thompson, and J. Van Druten.

North of Ireland.—J. W. McConnell; R. Hamilton, A. W. Greeves, J. R. Carr, C. T. Davidson; T. Mayne, A. S. Pollock; N. Brand, M. McKee, R. W. Hutchinson, N. McPherson, N. Stafford, W. A. Jones, H. Kincaid, and G. Robinson.

Referee—Mr. J. J. Rowland.

The visitors were badly handicapped owing to the absence of half a dozen of their usual side, their centres, Finlay, Jackson, and Palmer being a big loss, as their substitutes proved very weak in defence. J. C. Gillespie took his place in the Trinity pack for the first time this season, but the captain, R. H. Owens, was still on the injured list, and neither of the half-backs, Malan and J. F. Stewart, were able to turn out, their places being taken by J. McCaldin and Nunns. The visitors sprung a rare surprise by running in a brace of tries in the first ten minutes, but it was only a flash in the pan, helped by the slackness of the home side, who afterwards were superior in all departments of the game.

Bingham, at full for the winners, had an easy time, but fielded and kicked well. Sugden was excellent in the centre, and Cussen ran strongly and kicked well. The success of the rear division was McCaldin, who made a great deputy for Malan, and, besides getting the ball away smartly, frequently cut through. Crichton played a fine game forward, while he scored three excellent tries and landed four difficult goals. Van Druten was also good, and closely followed by Thompson, Gillespie, and Stuart. McConnell had a nasty time of it at full for the Northerners, and made very few mistakes. With the forwards beaten, the backs got little of the ball, Hamilton being the best of the "threes," while Mayne spoiled and stopped pluckily. The best of the forwards were Brand, McKee, Hutchinson, and Jones.

The visitors were the quicker to start, and early on Carr, picking up, put Hamilton over on the left corner, Mayne failing to goal. Soon after Carr dropped at goal, sending wide, instead of passing out to Hamilton. Another score came immediately, as Trinity started passing at half-way, Hamilton intercepted Maguire's transfer to Cussen, and dashed away, to cross at the corner, McConnell failing to goal. After this Trinity took charge of the game till the interval, and from a scrum near the line McCaldin slipped over, and Crichton landed a fine goal from far out. Cussen next rounded off a nice bout of passing by crossing, while I. Stuart, with a timely pass, let Gillespie off to score between the posts, Sugden missing the easy kick. After a clever run by Sugden, Smith put Crichton over, and Trinity led by 14 points to 6 at half-time.

Early in the second half Crichton finished off a clever dribble by scoring, and Nunns converted, while a clever run on the left by Sugden let Crichton over for his third try. Clever work by Gillespie let Sugden over next, and Nunns goaled, but after this the North came away, and clever footwork by Kincaid resulted in Jones scoring an unconverted try. After this Trinity attacked to the finish, Cussen, McCaldin, and Maguire getting tries, Crichton bringing off fine goals for all three. Score:

Dublin University—6 goals 4 tries (42 points).
North of Ireland—3 tries (9 points).

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY (22) v. WANDERERS (12).

The visit of Queen's University (Belfast) to play Wanderers drew a large gathering to headquarters on Saturday. The game proved a splendid one, the Northerners eventually winning after a fast, open, and highly interesting match by 2 goals and 4 tries (22 points) to 1 penalty goal and 3 tries (12 points). The home back division included T. G. Wallis, whose first appearance it was since his injury at the beginning of the season; but the 'Varsity were without their fine forward, J. T. Smith, whose place was taken by W. Henry. The weather was fine, but cold, when the following lined out:—

Wanderers—D. Kennedy; T. G. Wallis, A. Reeves, Rev. R. Watson, M. Wilson; D. Saunderson, S. Brown; C. H. Ackland, R. Cherry, S. Darling, A. J. England, J. W. Johnston, N. Potterton, C. Tyndall, J. H. Werry.

Queen's University—D. R. Wheeler; S. Morrison, G. V. Stephenson, R. Pedlow, J. N. M'Feeters; L. G. Warwick, J. R. Wheeler (capt.); G. Caruth, N. S. Dickson, W. K. Hay, T. A. M'Clelland, F. S. Mayne, S. C. Morrow, N. B. Mann, W. Henry.

Referee—Mr. J. H. Miles.

The play opened in very exciting fashion, Cherry and Potterton broke away from the opening scrum and carried play up to the Northern line, where, following some loose work, Saunderson worried over for a try, which Wallis failed to convert. The 'Varsity rushed down from the kick-out, and after Caruth and McClelland had been prominent J. R. Wheeler sent the ball out, and Stephenson receiving made a great run before parting to McFeeters to score a try, which went unconverted. Wanderers were not long in taking the lead. A burst of their forwards carried play to the other end, where from a scramble Tyndall scored a try, Wallis making a good, but futile, effort to goal. The play continued to be fast and exciting, and both ends were visited in turn. The Northern backs had a couple of smart passing movements, and once Stephenson was almost over following a great run, Kennedy just bringing him down in time. Queen's were now attacking strongly, and J. R. Wheeler and Warwick were in turn only brought down on the line. At length, good kicking by Kennedy and Wallis eased the home position, and play was at the visitors' end when an injury to Wallis necessitated a short stoppage. He was soon able to resume. The play which followed favoured the Northerners, and Morrison had a great run. He kicked high on reaching Kennedy, but in a race for the ball the Wanderers' man got there first and touched down. Queen's, however, were not long delayed a score, as from a pass by J. R. Wheeler, Stephenson, putting in a clever run, scored, and Pedlow goaled. The visitors continued to press, and from a forward rush on the line Caruth scored, but the kick at goal missed.

Queen's opened the second period in strong fashion, and a capital bout of passing between J. R. Wheeler, Warwick, and Stephenson found the latter racing away, and on reaching Kennedy he sent McFeeters in for a try, which was not improved upon. The University continued to monopolise the play, and Stephenson, taking a rather difficult pass from J. R. Wheeler, raced away at top speed, and outpacing the opposition scored, for Pedlow to convert. Wanderers woke up after this, and good footwork by Werry, Cherry, and Potterton, supplemented with good kicking by Wallis and Wilson, enabled the home side to put up a strong spell of attack. A long kick by Watson was mis-fielded by D. R. Wheeler, and Wilson dashing up scored, but Wallis missed from an easy angle. The home side maintained the pressure, and Wilson had a dash, and just on the line passed to Brown who, however, was at once grassed by Stephenson. A score was only delayed a minute, however, as from a free Kennedy landed a great goal. An attack by Queen's was short-lived, as the home pack rushed away to the visitors' end, where Saunderson and Brown were prominent. The game quickly changed to the Wanderers' end, however, where, after McClelland and Caruth had put in good footwork, a short round of passing led up to Warwick sending McFeeters over for an unconverted try.

While admitting that Wanderers put up a very creditable fight, there is no denying that they were beaten by a much superior side. In all phases of the game the University were the masters, but their chief pull lay behind the scrums, where their three-quarters and halves gave as good a display of clean, accurate handling and smart running as one could wish to see. The outstanding player on the field was G. V. Stephenson, who at centre three-quarter for the winners gave a really brilliant display. His two scores were cleverly obtained, while he paved the way for the registering of two others. McFeeters, on the wing, also gave a fine display, while J. R. Wheeler at half made many good openings. D. R. Wheeler, in the last line of defence, made one bad mistake which cost his side a score but otherwise he did well. The forwards all worked hard, and if Caruth stood out best, McClelland and Mann were not far behind. For Wanderers, Kennedy played very well at full, Wilson, particularly in the second half, did fine work in the three-quarter line, and next to him came Watson. Wallis kicked well but appeared to be still suffering from the effects of his recent injury. Saunderson performed well at half, while best of the front rank were Cherry, Werry, and Potterton. Result:—

Queen's—2 goals and 4 tries (22 points).
Wanderers—1 penalty goal and 3 tries (12 points).

INSTONIANS (10) v. LANSDOWNE (5).

The visit of Lansdowne to Belfast excited much interest, and, in view of the fact that there was no other senior match in the city, a large gathering of spectators assembled at Ormeau, the headquarters of the North of Ireland club. Unfortunately, the weather was unsettled, and for the first fifteen minutes of the game the players had to contend with a heavy downpour. Although the rain kept off for the remainder of the afternoon, the playing pitch was slippery and the ball greasy, causing many mistakes. Mr. C. Lefevre had charge of the following teams:—

Lansdowne—W. E. Crawford (captain); W. J. O'Donel, R. W. Jeffares, J. Bell, G. E. Larkin; D. R. Robertson, R. M. Campbell; H. Bell, A. D. Brennan, W. Brown, F. Dearden, L. Healy, W. Ludendorff, J. S. Pettigrew, and P. Whitty.

Instonians—R. S. Gilbert; E. Abernethy, T. Hewitt, W. Hewitt, R. O. McClenahan; W. H. Hall (captain), J. C. McDowell; S. S. Brown, J. A. Chambers, J. Campbell, H. Copeland, A. Fullerton, F. W. Haslett, A. Shane, and T. G. Ward.

Pettigrew opened for Lansdowne, who, chiefly through the aid of their forwards, kept play in "Inst." territory for several minutes. Robertson then opened up for J. Bell, who tried to cut through, and bad tackling almost let him in. Gilbert temporarily relieved, but O'Donel and Jeffares returned and set up a strong attack. Eventually Instonians eased the pressure, and Shane led a rush to half-way, where Crawford dashed in and found a useful touch, enabling his side to maintain their territorial advantage. The next raid by Instonians was checked by a free for off-side at midfield, Crawford failing to find touch, and Hall replied with a lengthy drive; but Brennan and Brown came back at the head of the Lansdowne pack, and the home skipper went down to the ball in great style. The first real danger to the visitors came from McClenahan, who broke away at midfield and made considerable ground. His transfer to [illegible] the latter's grasp, however, and the chance was lost; while, after a clever handling movement by the Instonian threes, the ball went loose. The visitors' forwards, so far, were the better pack, and their heeling was very smart, but the backs did not make the most of the chances offered. Coming away in the loose Lansdowne dribbled well down, and Brown went over for the opening score, Crawford adding the extra points. Instonians retaliated strongly, and Larkin and O'Donel checked successive raids; but Jeffares was tackled in possession near his own twenty-five, Crawford at length getting a good touch. O'Donel was served by Robertson from the line out, and dashing along the wing he kicked ahead when hemmed in, and the ball trickled into touch near the corner flag. After Campbell had made a good attempt to go in on the blind side, the Instonians got moving, and Abernethy was hauled down close to the line. Lansdowne led at half-time by 1 goal to nil.

Instonians pressed on the resumption, but Crawford saved from the feet of the forwards, and then Brown led a dashing raid for the visitors, T. Hewitt pulling down Jeffares when the latter tried to cut through. Splendid combination by the brothers Hewitt and Abernethy led to the last-named crossing for Copeland to kick a fine goal. T. Hewitt made a great run down the centre, but slipped, and was overtaken by Bell, who set Larkin off, the wing being grassed by Hall. Instonian raids were foiled by Crawford and Robertson, and the Lansdowne full-back made a splendid effort to kick a goal from near half-way when Instonians were penalised. A fine break away by Robertson roused the spectators; but, unfortunately, his pass went astray, and the Belfast side attacked, O'Donel getting a neat touch after W. Hewitt had kicked ahead. The Lansdowne wing almost forced his way over a moment later, Gilbert just getting to the ball in the nick of time and clearing. With Fullerton and Abernethy leading a loose rush Crawford had no time to gather; but, with a hefty punt on the fly, he got touch near half-way. Robertson gave a smart transfer to Bell, the latter kicking into touch, instead of opening up to Larkin, who was lying handy. Fine defence work by Instonians kept the eager Lansdowne forwards out, but Campbell had a chance. He held on too long, and was tackled with play in the centre. McClenahan broke away with the ball at his feet. Going through the defence he was momentarily held up by Crawford; but, the ball evading the latter's grasp, W. Hewitt grounded for a try, which Copeland improved upon. Brennan, Brown, and Pettigrew made ground in the loose, and then Crawford, with a penalty, made an effort to locate the uprights from just over half-way. After the visitors' captain had been beaten by a bouncing ball, Larkin came in and checked Abernethy. Strong pressure by Lansdowne followed, but the defence prevailed. Result:—

Instonians—2 goals (10 points).
Lansdowne—1 goal (5 points).

BLACKROCK COLLEGE (17) v. OLD WESLEY (6).

Blackrock College—J. O'Regan; M. James (capt.), E. Mathews, J. O'Donnell, P. J. Winters; — Byrne, J. Smith; D. Browne, L. Broderick, T. Crowley, M. Coogan, M. Gleeson, J. Keating, J. Sullivan, — Stokes.

Referee—Mr. P. Scythes.

Wesley were without Holland all through the first half, Kilpatrick being brought out of the scrum to play centre, and the visitors were the aggressors for the greater portion of it. O'Donnell opened the scoring after Byrne and Smith had handled, and soon afterwards the same player let James away to score the second try, neither being converted. Wesley forwards, by good work in the loose, eased the pressure temporarily, but the visitors were soon back again, and after O'Donnell had twice been brought down just outside, Winters made a good run, and Mathews, getting hold, raced over for a good score, which James converted. Wesley worked to the visitors' line, and McGowan had a chance but kicked the ball dead, and then good passing between Massey, Tombe, Kilpatrick, and Deane looked like bringing a score, but the wing man over-ran the latter's pass.

Brought up to full strength, Wesley did much better in the second half, and after Blackrock had attacked in the opening stages, their forwards began to beat the opposition for the ball in the scrums, as well as doing well in the loose, with the result that, for quite a long period, Blackrock were kept on the defensive. A good run by McGowan led up to Carson getting over for Wesley's first score from a line out, and later on, from a free, Ford further reduced the lead by goaling. Blackrock, however came again near the close, and as a result of good back play, Mathews and James got over for unconverted tries.

While Wesley were badly handicapped in the first half by playing a man short, it is very questionable whether this had any actual bearing on the ultimate result, although the scores might have been closer.

When Wesley were at full strength the forwards had somewhat the better of the argument with the opposing eight, but the Blackrock backs were always the much more dangerous lot. For the winners, O'Regan did not make a mistake at full, Mathews and O'Donnell did well at centre and took a lot of stopping when under way, while Smith and Byrne were very useful at half. The most prominent forwards were Gleeson, Keating, Broderick and Sullivan. For Wesley, Kapp, Deane, Massey and Tombe, were the best of the backs, and Ford, Gray, Barrett, and Alley were always conspicuous in the pack. Result:—

Blackrock College—1 goal 4 tries (17 points).
Old Wesley—1 penalty goal 1 try (6 points).

PALMERSTON (8) v. MALONE (5).

At Milltown on Saturday, Palmerston continued their run of successes, defeating Malone by a goal and a try (8 points) to a goal (5 points). The following were the teams:—

Palmerston—V. E. Kirwan; J. Smith, J. Armstrong, M. Blunden, H. Nicholson; C. E. Langford, R. D. Stephens; W. Hazlett, C. M. Hill, S. V. Kirwan, J. E. Kerr, C. B. Keatinge, J. V. Lochtie, T. L. Jolley, B. N. Wayne.

Malone—R. Caldwell; J. H. Majury, T. Patterson, W. A. Lamont, A. Macaulay; W. Gunning, J. Motherwell; J. Stafford, M. Stafford, R. King, M. Henry, W. Graham, W. Hennessy, T. Buchanan, H. Kennedy.

Referee—Major Weir.

The Belfast side are not strong this season in the back division, and they travelled somewhat below full strength in this respect; but their forwards have been giving useful accounts of themselves, and they did so again on this occasion. They were, however, up against a side, in Palmerston, that has won so far mainly on its forward strength, the result being that in a good forward struggle on Saturday there was not much to choose between the sides. For a while in the opening half it seemed as if the Malone forwards were going to give a really smart display in snatching at openings in the loose game, but they disappointed; and in the second half the game may be said to have been lost by them for want of a nippy forward or back to take advantage of their chances. Palmerston forwards played a good bustling game all through, and if the backs had not much showy handling, they were at least better in this respect than the visitors, and the score effected by Nicholson in the second half was the result of a capital bit of smart play. V. Kirwan, Smith, Nicholson, and Stephens (backs), and Hazlett, Jolley, S. Kirwan, and Keatinge (forwards), showed up well for the winners. For Malone, Gunning and Caldwell (backs), and M. Stafford, Hennessy, and Graham (forwards), were the pick.

The opening half was fairly evenly contested. Early on from a scrum in midfield Stafford passed out to Langford, who sent Armstrong on for a nice run and kick, following which a forward rush carried up to Malone line, and Hill secured an unconverted try. Malone were not long in equalising, and taking the lead, Motherwell scoring from some forward work, and M. Stafford converting from an easy position.

Early in the second period Palmerston forwards established an attack at the Malone 25, and Nicholson, picking up, ran through the defence for a smart try, which Smith converted with a finely-judged kick from a difficult angle. After this the Malone forwards attacked strongly in the loose, and a score seemed certain, but there was no one nippy enough to seize the chances. Later Buchanan made a mark practically in front of goal, but the kick was charged, and a certain score was lost. In the closing stages Palmerston nearly scored again from a forward rush, and Hennessy all but succeeded for Malone. Result:—

Palmerston ...... 1 goal 1 try (8 pts.)
Malone .... 1 goal (5 pts.)

BECTIVE RANGERS (11) v. CLONTARF (7).

Although Bective beat Clontarf at Castle avenue on Saturday by four points, on the scores of a goal and two tries to a dropped goal and a try, they were worth more of a winning margin as the game went. Teams:—

Clontarf—H. S. T. Cormac; J. N. Dollar, J. H. Hopkins, W. L. Freeman, A. Kelly; J. J. Booth, A. E. Dallas; J. M. Quail, J. A. Watts, T. Wilson, E. Roche, W. McL. Moffatt, W. Barton, S. P. Mercier, W. E. Corrigan.

Bective Rangers—J. Ballagh; Cleary, D. Pedlow, A. P. Atkins, Spadacini; C. P. Culhane, J. A. Clarke; W. P. Collopy, R. Collopy, P. Dunne, J. D. Egan, C. Fagan, Farrell, E. Powell, A. Wade.

Referee—Mr. V. V. Drennan, Lansdowne.

Bective had a powerful pack doing duty, but their three-quarter line was weak. They had the advantage of the slope, the sun behind them, and the wind. Still they took a long time to settle down, and Clontarf had the better of the opening, until Powell picked up in the loose, and after a run, sent R. Collopy over, far out at the right, the London-Irishman failing to convert from a difficult angle. Good kicking by Cormac, Dallas and Freeman kept the visitors out, and Kelly showed much cleverness in cutting through. After a spell of attack, in which selfishness predominated on the part of Bective, Clarke burst over for a good try, which Atkins converted, though it was a very near thing from near the touch-line, and the ball was only inches inside the off-goal post. Fagan next barely missed dropping a goal, and the interval arrived with Bective leading by eight points clear. In the second period Cormac cross-kicked cleverly, and matters looked menacing for Bective, but Fagan cleared and W. Collopy, Clarke, and Cleary put Rangers attacking. Wild passing let Bective down, and Freeman sent Hopkins over at the left to ground behind the posts for a smart score, Dallas, however, missing the kick. Towards the end Dallas made amends by dropping a capital goal, and a robust game ended in a win for Bective by four points.

Bective, considering their chances, should have scored more points. They outweighed the opposition, but did not let the ball loose. Ballagh, now recovered from his recent injuries, was quite sound, if a bit too orthodox and unenterprising. Atkins kicked finely, but the "threes," as a lot, never combined. Culhane has done better, though he gave fitful glimpses of what is in him by clever cutting through. J. Clarke, as usual, was as dogged and plucky as ever, and R. Collopy, Dunne, Fagan, and Wade were most prominent of the pack, W. Collopy being obviously handicapped by a stiff knee. For Clontarf, Cormac did well at back, Freeman, Hopkins, and Kelly were always resourceful in the three-quarter line, Dallas very good at out-half, and of a keen hard-trying pack, Corrigan, Quail, Wilson, and Mercier were the best. Result:—

Bective Rangers—1 goal 2 tries (11).
Clontarf—1 dropped goal 1 try (7).

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE (16) v. MONKSTOWN (13).

In view of Monkstown's victory over Wanderers the previous Saturday, it came somewhat as a surprise to find University College giving them a drubbing. The game was played at Sydney Parade in fine, dry weather. Teams:—

Monkstown—Westropp; Breen, Ganly, O'Brien, M'Caldin; Clarke, Pickeman; E. S. Crawford, R. D. Crawford, Mather, Mahoney, Scott, Vercueil, Rankin, Ranson.

University College—Mahoney; Russell, Hogan, V. Davy, Silke; O'Sullivan, E. Davy; Spain, Winters, Matthews, Cullen, M'Nally, Glynn, Brosnan, Joyce.

The College won the toss and the scoring quickly started, Silke getting over for an unconverted try. Monkstown pressed hard, and looked dangerous for a while. The students soon added to their lead, E. Davy getting in a fine piece of individual work in running from his own 25 and scoring. He added the points himself. O'Brien started the ball rolling for Monkstown with a try, which Ganly converted, and half-time arrived with the College 3 points to the good.

Breen equalised for the homesters on the resumption, and M'Caldin added another try, Ganly again converting. The students had now to make leeway to the extent of 5 points, and this E. Davy proceeded to do by again getting over and converting. The College pressed hard now for the deciding score, and victory came when V. Davy got over for a try, Cullen failing with the kick.

It was a fast game, especially in the second half, and the College did unexpectedly well. Their forwards played good, bustling football, and although the backs were scrappy at times, they were strong at the defensive game. Monkstown's backs were hampered by misfielding and bad passing by the centres, while their forwards could have shown a little more vigour and dash.

Westropp is a useful "full," who kicks with discretion, and tackles pluckily. Pickeman and the two wings, Breen and M'Caldin, showed up the best of the other backs, and Mahoney, Mather, and Scott worked hard forward.

E. Davy played a very sound game at out-half for the College. Silke and V. Davy were the pick of the others, and Spain was ably supported by Matthews and Cullen. Result:—

University College—2 goals, 2 tries (16 pts.).
Monkstown—2 goals, 1 try (13 pts.).

2nd WELCH REGIMENT (47) v. LOYOLA (3).

Played at Richmond Barracks. The following were the teams:—

Loyola—O'Connor; Armstrong, Bexall, McNamara, O'Connor; Lyons, Early; Murtagh, McGrath, McCarthy, Brindley, O'Connor, Kavanagh.

Welch Regiment—Payne; Wyatt, Sergeant Beynon, Jones, Jones; Morgan, Dillon; Captain Price, Captain Cripps, Lieutenant Reynolds, Sergeant Brindley, Lawlor, Williams, Moody, Lieutenant Lane.

Referee—Mr. H. S. Hill.

Loyola were two short and were out-played by a much superior team. The Welch gave a fine display, their backs being particularly good, and their passing smart and accurate. Payne, at full, was very good though, of course, he got nothing to do in the tackling way, and the three-quarters, especially Wyatt, Beynon, and R. Jones, all played finely, the quartette showing good combination. Morgan is a clever half and made many openings for his three-quarters and also scored himself on two occasions. Cripps, Lawlor, Williams, and Moody showed up prominently in the front rank. Loyola, though heavily out-classed, played up pluckily to the end, and Armstrong, McNamara, Lyons, McGrath, and McCarthy were the most notable players on the side.

Play was only in progress a few minutes when Morgan slipped over for a try, which was quickly followed by another from R. Jones. From a long throw in by Wyatt, Williams scored a fine try, and before the interval Beynon, R. Jones, and Morgan crossed the line, the last score being converted by Price.

The second half was a repition of the first, and C. Jones, Beynon (twice), Wyatt, R. Jones, Cripps, and Dillon, all scored tries that Payne converted twice, and Price once. Nearing the end a good burst of Loyola forwards was well checked by Payne, and then the visitors being awarded a penalty, Armstrong dropped a goal. Result:—

Welch Regiment—4 goals 9 tries (47 points).
Loyola—1 penalty goal (3 points).

SHELBOURNE UNLUCKY.

DRAWN GAME AT RINGSEND.

The position of Shelbourne and Shamrock Rovers in the League of Ireland competition, and the fact that Shelbourne had suffered defeat the preceding week by Jacobs, imbued the meeting of Shamrock Rovers and Shelbourne at Ringsend with more than ordinary interest, and a large crowd gathered in the Shelbourne enclosure to witness the game. With the exception of Egan, whose place in Rovers' attack was filled by Jones, the teams were at full strength.

The game provided plenty of excitement, and a fast and strenuous 90 minutes failed to produce a score. This result was in a great measure disappointing to the supporters of the Shelbourne side, inasmuch as they had by far the best of the exchanges all through, and were entitled to at least a couple of goals on the run of the play. In all departments they were vastly superior, and displayed a far better knowledge of the finer points. However, the more robust tactics of Rovers completely upset many of their movements, but their failure was in greatest measure due to the weakness of the inside forwards. Time after time the Shelbourne half-backs made the pace, and Harris and Watson made repeated openings, which failed to materialise, while the wings, particularly the right, put across splendid centres, which Fortune and Williams made feeble efforts to turn to account.

On the other hand, with the limited chances which came their way, Rovers were much more dangerous, as their shooting was better and never lacked sting. Walsh, in the Shelbourne goal, having to deal with a couple of rasping shots. Through the field and towards goal Rovers were outplayed, and were decidedly lucky to come out with a point.

The opening half was well contested, both goals receiving attention, but nearing the interval Shelbourne's better footwork and understanding gave them the advantage. In the closing half Rovers were outdplayed, and kept defending for the greater part of the time. Fortune, the Shelbourne inside left, had a couple of easy chances of scoring. His shooting was bad, however, and on one occasion he missed an open goal from a few yards' range. Rovers put up a good defence, which prevailed, and the game was left drawn, both teams failing to score.

Expectations were realised at Anglesea road, where Bohemians took the full complement of points from Shelbourne United, the home team being beaten 5-0 after crossing over 3 goals in arrear, their goalkeeper being defeated thrice in the opening twenty minutes. Jacobs, who figure at the head of the table, had to go all out in their match with Dublin United to keep their unbeaten record intact, and succeeded in doing so only after a strenuous struggle, in which their defence was sorely tried in the last half hour or so, Collins' fine goalkeeping being a great asset in their favour.

Olympia, who have yet to win a match in the competition, gave a much improved display against St. James's Gate, with whom they shared the honours of a hard-fought game, and at Athlone the local team gained their fourth brace of points, Midland Athletic being beaten by the odd goal of three. At Terenure Pioneers had an easy victory over Rathmines Athletic by 4-0.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LEICESTER WOOL, Saturday.—Although business is brisk on orders already in hand, repeat orders are checked by the advancing prices of wool and yarns. LISTOWEL.—This was the largest quarterly fair ever held in Listowel, and owing to the resumed train facilities—which had been suspended for the past four months—numerous buyers attended from Limerick, Cork, Dublin and the Midlands. Business started off very briskly, and continued so until shortly after 10 o'clock, when a rumour went abroad that the rails on the G.S. and W.R. had been torn up, and a bridge destroyed between Abbeyfeale and Devon road, with the result that buying was suspended for over an hour, when it was ascertained that the rumour was unfounded. November 4, 1922.

The following letter has been addressed by SENATORE G. MARCONI, G.C.V.O., LL.D., D.Sc., the Chairman of the Company, to Helbert, Wagg, and Co., Ltd.

Marconi House, Strand, London, W.C. 2, 4th November, 1922.

Gentlemen,—With reference to the £1,500,000 6½ per Cent. Convertible 10-Year First Debenture Stock which you are purchasing, I have pleasure in giving you the following information:

The last balance-sheet (see below), audited by Messrs. Cooper Brothers and Co., the Company's Auditors, shows the surplus of assets over liabilities as at 31st December, 1921, to be £7,961,946. This figure does not include any sum in respect of the considerable claims against Government Departments which are still outstanding, neither, of course, does it include the proceeds of the present sale of Debenture Stock.

These assets include holdings in associated and other companies, which stood in the balance-sheet at £2,953,521, having been valued by the Board on the following basis: Where such shares had quotations they were taken at their mean quoted values; where they were unquoted, they were taken at cost where they had paid or had prospects of paying at an early date dividends of an amount which the Board considered would justify their being valued at cost; but where they had paid no dividends and for the time being have no prospect of paying dividends, as for instance, shares in our Russian Companies, they were not taken into account at all.

The Auditors have certified, under date 11th October, 1922, that according to the Company's Books there has been an increase in these holdings since the 31st December, 1921. On the above basis of valuation the Board are satisfied that their aggregate value to-day is higher than it was then.

A very substantial part of these holdings could be readily sold without impairing the Company's actual business, although on the grounds of general policy it is desirable that they should be retained.

The large number of patents and rights which the Company possesses figures in the books at the sum of £283,691, which the Directors believe to be a very modest figure.

There is no item in the accounts representing goodwill.

The Company has no Debentures outstanding, nor except a mortgage of £6,611 has it any obligations other than those arising in the ordinary course of its business. Furthermore it has no Bank overdraft.

The annual net profits for the last seven years as shown in the audited accounts have been:

For the year ending 31st Dec., 1915	£377,817
For the year ending 31st Dec., 1916	318,433
For the year ending 31st Dec., 1917	383,835
For the year ending 31st Dec., 1918	597,038
For the year ending 31st Dec., 1919	630,739
(Exclusive of £590,000 received from the Government as damages for breach of contract.)
For the year ending 31st Dec., 1920	297,881
For the year ending 31st Dec., 1921	275,361

thus showing an average annual sum of £411,686, or sufficient to cover the interest on the Debenture Stock now sold more than four times. These profits were arrived at before deducting, in respect of 1919, 1920, and 1921, Directors' additional remuneration and, in respect of 1921, approximately £30,000 for Corporation Profits Tax and balance of Income Tax unprovided for, but they do not include anything in respect of the unsatisfied claims against Government Departments.

The business of the current year has every prospect of showing improvement over that of 1921, which, as is common knowledge, was one of unprecedented difficulty.

The proceeds of the present sale to you are entirely destined for purposes of further development. It is expected that at least half such proceeds will be directly instrumental in providing employment in the United Kingdom.

There is an ever-increasing demand from all parts of the world for wireless facilities.

Substantial sums are required for the construction of new telegraph stations, some of which are in course of construction and others about to be commenced. In addition, Broadcasting should materially increase the Company's business both at home and abroad, and will probably require the continuous employment of from £700,000 to £800,000 for some time to come. The authorised balance of £1,500,000 of Stock will not be issued except as and when in the opinion of the Directors the Company's programme of development requires, and in no case before the 1st April, 1923.

Yours faithfully,
G. MARCONI, Chairman.

To Helbert, Wagg, and Co., Ltd., 37 Threadneedle-street, E.C. 2.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS TO THE SHAREHOLDERS.

We have audited the above Balance Sheet with the books in London and accounts from Rome. A large part of the Investments and Shares in Associated Companies are held abroad. Except as to a part held in Russia we have seen letters or certificates stating that they are held on behalf of this Company. We are unable to form an opinion as to the value of the Shares in Associated and other Companies and Patents entered at £3,237,212 17s. 11d. and Debts due by Associated Companies entered at £1,584,777 5s. 7d., which includes Interest credited to Profit and Loss as to which we refer to the Directors' Report. We have obtained all the information and explanations we have required. In our opinion, such Balance Sheet is properly drawn up so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the Company's affairs according to the best of our information and the explanations given to us and as shown by the books of the Company.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

In a circular addressed to the shareholders the directors of Wolsey, Ltd., state that the adverse balance at December 31, 1921, after the adjustment of taxation, amounted to £221,957, less the balance to credit of capital reserve account, £25,022, leaving a deficit of £196,935 to be dealt with. The Board have come to the conclusion that the adjustment of the position in order to enable the first available profit to be appropriated in the payment of dividends should not be longer delayed, and they are pleased to report that the holders of the vendors' shares agree to the following scheme:—The loss of £196,935 is to be written off 207,300 vendors' shares by reducing each of these shares by 19/- per share, leaving 207,300 Ordinary Shares of 1/-, and calling these shares "B" Ordinary Shares, which will have the right to share in the profits available for distribution on the footing that the "B" Ordinary Shares shall rank for dividend as if they were fully paid up "A" Ordinary Shares. None of the rights of the Preference shareholders will be affected by the reduction proposed.

The offer of J. P. Restaurants to take over the management of Lockharts, Ltd., has been turned down by the directors of the latter company, who intend carrying out the provisional agreement with the Aerated Bread company for the sale of the Lockharts undertaking on terms which will provide 12/- for Preference Shares and 1/6 for Ordinary Shares. It will be recalled that the original scheme provided for only 1/- per share to the Ordinary shareholders.

With reference to statements that have appeared in the Press regarding the closing down of the Knight Central Mine early next year, we understand from the Central Mining and Investment Corporation, Ltd., that a circular which was published in Johannesburg on 3rd November will be issued forthwith by the London office of the company. It will be seen that the discontinuance of operations is due to the exhaustion of payable ore, and that the question of wages, to which reference has been made, plays no part in the decision. Nothing is known of the alleged recommendation by the Mining Industry Board that the rates of wages should be increased.

Secretary to the Treasury Mellon announced that the United States public debt has been reduced from 26,596,701,000 dollars, when the debt was highest on August 31st, 1919, to 23,077,783,000 dollars on October 31st, 1922.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

LOANABLE SUPPLIES INCREASED.

An advance to 2¾ p.c. from 2 p.c. was made in the selling rate for supplementary three months' Treasury bills on tap on Saturday, this being in conformity with the results of Friday's tenders. At first loanable credit was rather usable, with week-end money 2 p.c., but with some of the banks buying December bills at 2⅞ to 2¾ p.c., supplies increased, and accommodation was offered at 1½ p.c. rather freely. Fixtures were going on at 1½ p.c. Transactions, apart from the buying of Decembers already mentioned, were restricted in discounts, and the tendency was steady. January and February Treasuries were sellers at 2¾ p.c., with buyers few, and fine three months' Bank bills were 2⅞ p.c. to 2¾, most houses quoting the higher figure. Four months' paper was called 2¾ to 2⅞ p.c., and six months 2¾ p.c.

The foreign exchanges were quieter and fluctuations in rates were less violent. Marks touched 27,500, but closed practically unchanged at 26,425 to the £, while francs, after touching 65.25, left off at 64.98, being slightly weaker on the day. A slight improvement to 67,250 occurred in Polish marks, but Greek drachmae continued on offer up to 250 to the £. Sterling on New York was steady at 4.46⅛ dollars. China exchanges remained weak.

WHAT IS LINEN?

NECESSITY FOR LEGAL DEFINITION.

TRADE OUTLOOK IMPROVING.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BELFAST, Saturday.

The question, "What is linen?" is now agitating the linen industry in the North of Ireland, and it is not improbable that steps will be taken in the near future to have the commodity legally defined as pure all-flax fabrics. The term "household linens" is very loosely applied, and in the minds of many people imply any fabric for household requirements, such as cotton or "unions," in which there is only a proportion of flax. From time immemorial fine linen has been looked upon as a flax fabric, and the selling of cottons or goods with a cotton mixture is regarded as a misuse of the term linen, and also a deception upon the public. Only a small proportion of the public can differentiate between linen and cotton mixture goods, and in their interest, as much as in the interest of the linen industry, it is contended that there should be some legislative limit applied, so that linen might be definitely known as flaxen fabrics, and that even in the case of "unions" the proportion of cotton in its composition should be clearly stated. The Irish Linen Society some years ago instituted a trade mark in the hope of providing some guide to the public, and prevent them from being imposed upon, but the existence of this official seal is not sufficiently well known. It is recognised that the trouble is one which is difficult to avoid. So loosely is the term "linens" applied that in fully 75 per cent. of the advertisements of household linen it might be construed that the articles offered for sale are cotton instead of flax fabrics with their greater endurance. It is admitted that there is no real intention to deceive, but it is due entirely to the fact that the public now class practically all household goods under the category of linen, and that cotton towels and sheets, as well as "union" kitchen cloths and pure linen damask, are all embraced incorrectly in the one term "linens." It is not improbable that the question, "What is linen?" may occupy as much attention in the near future as "What is whiskey?" and "What are kippers?" did a few years ago.

AN IMPROVING TONE.

It is gratifying to record that the improvement in the linen industry is being steadily maintained, and buyers are displaying more confidence than they have done for a long time. The amount of bulk buying, however, is not large, and it is expected that there will be no really settled conditions until the question of raw material is put upon a more satisfactory basis both in regard to the amount of supply available and the price. Belfast houses have received a considerable number of orders in Great Britain for the Christmas trade, and the volume is larger than in the two previous years. It is evident that the Germans are out to capture the greater portion of the Swiss embroidery industry, and it is significant that many of the fancy boxes of embroidered handkerchiefs and lace-edged handkerchiefs, which formerly came from the Swiss makers, are now arriving via Germany. Orders from America received by Belfast houses are satisfactory and encouraging, and it is evident that the buying in America is now upon a more settled basis with the question of tariffs out of the way. It is one of the characteristics of the American buying public that they quickly adjust themselves to tariff changes, and it has frequently been the case in the past that, when the new tariffs were expected to be a detrimental factor to further buying, the market automatically adjusted itself to the new conditions, and buying continued as steadily as before. Something of the same kind is happening again. It is also interesting to note that the amount of piece goods exported for the first nine months of this year is larger than the whole quantity exported for the twelve months last year, the figures being £5,433,178, as compared with £5,251,573 in 1921.

It is now evident that Germany is acquiring the greater portion of the available export supply of Russian flax, and this will have an important bearing upon the industry if there should be any development in the purchase of Belfast manufactured linen goods. Unless there is an elastic supply of flax it must lead to increased prices of the manufactured article.

Considerable interest is being taken in Belfast in the new fibre Arghan, which it is understood many rubber companies contemplate growing. Cordage makers are principally interested in the fibre as a possible source of alternative supply, but cotton goods makers in Lancashire and Linen manufacturers in Belfast are not overlooking its possibilities for cloth. Lancashire is submitting it to close scientific research, and, no doubt, Belfast will do the same.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

COMING GOLDFIELDS REPORT.

The annual report of the Consolidated Gold Fields of South Africa is due to be issued this month, and shareholders are no doubt wondering whether it will contain a dividend announcement. The Ordinary shareholders received no return on their capital for 1920-21, and there has since been delay in paying the Preference dividends. Seeing that the company's accounts are made up to June 30, that it was in the June half of this year the Rand strike and revolution occurred, and that most of the activity in South African mining shares has occurred since the turn of the half-year, it should hardly come as a surprise if the Gold Fields accounts for 1921-22 fail to make a cheerful showing (says Truth). Active markets and/or expanding dividend income are required by finance companies in order to show good earnings. But the Gold Fields directors should, at any rate, be able to speak cheerfully about what has happened in the company's current financial year, especially in view of the reduction of Rand working costs and the recovery in profits, to say nothing of the remarkable appreciation in the market value of the shares of the Robinson Deep, one of the company's chief Rand assets. As has been shown in Truth recently, the Gold Fields is now participating in the development of oil enterprises, and the directors should have something to say about this and other new business in their report. Now that the shares have come back under par they seem a fair speculation.

FINANCE OF "THE NORTHCLIFFE PRESS."

To-day there will be introduced to the Stock Exchange the Deferred shares of the Associated Newspapers, Limited (owning the Daily Mail, the Evening News, the Weekly Dispatch, and the Overseas Mail), and the price at which they will be introduced is stated to be round about £6 for the £1 share. On these shares within the past week or so there has quietly been declared an interim dividend at the rate of 40 per cent. In this connection the £1 Ordinary shares of the Daily Mirror Newspaper, Limited, have recently been active and strong; people seem to be gradually realising the true position (writes the Observer). Not only is the Daily Mirror Company, we believe, to declare on December 1 a quarterly dividend at the rate of 30 per cent., but by the recent arrangements it has obtained, in conjunction with the Sunday Pictorial Newspapers, Limited, a controlling interest in the Associated Newspapers, Limited, just mentioned. Through its holding of 375,000 shares, the Daily Mirror Company controls the Sunday Pictorial Company, and these two concerns, through their shareholding in the recently-formed Daily Mail Trust, Limited (which issued debentures), control the Associated Newspapers, Limited. When the debentures of the Daily Mail Trust are redeemed, the great profits of its combination of newspapers will accrue to the Daily Mirror and Sunday Pictorial Companies in proportion to their holdings. In fact, the Daily Mirror Company may be described as the principal shareholder of the vast newspaper combination, so that it is not difficult to understand the intense interest taken in the Ordinary shares of the Daily Mirror Newspaper, Limited, by those who know the position. If Associated Newspapers (Daily Mail, etc.) shares are worth over £6, at which, apparently, they will be quoted to-day, what is the value of the shares of the Daily Mirror Company, which may be described as the ultimate proprietor?

UNITED RAILWAYS OF HAVANA.

In our (Stock Exchange Gazette) issue of October 19 we showed the results achieved during each of the ten years to the end of June, 1921, and anticipated that, although the gross receipts during 1921-22 had declined by £2,550,000, we believed the board would again be able to pay 4 per cent. on their Ordinary capital. Not only do the directors now recommend a distribution of 4 per cent., but they are able to carry forward £207,061, which is within a little of the amount brought in from the previous year, while £105,000 is to be set aside to a special account for deferred maintenance. The company seems to have earned the dividend with a surplus of nearly £100,000, compared with a surplus of £207,724 a year ago, when 4 per cent. was paid, and this implies a reduction in working expenses almost as great as the fall in gross receipts and an expense ratio which must be down to about the lowest level seen for many years. Taxes also will be found to be lower. As regards the prospects, the last traffic return showed an increase in gross receipts, and it is to be hoped, although hardly expected, that this will continue. There is no doubt that financial affairs in Cuba have recently undergone considerable improvement and that prospects are much better than was the case a short time ago, while as to the next sugar crop, this is expected to be more or less the same as the last, which produced roughly about 4,000,000 tons. The recent improvement in the selling price of sugar is also helpful, so that it looks as though the difficulties of the island of Cuba and the United Railways of Havana have about ended, that the proprietors have about seen the worst, and may now anticipate a more favourable future.

THE RIDGWAYS DEAL.

Official confirmation is now forthcoming of the statement made in this journal (Investors' Chronicle) a few weeks ago to the effect that the ordinary shares of Ridgways, the old-established tea merchants, are to be purchased for £4 cash, and this will be ex a dividend of 11½ p.c. to be paid on 22nd January next, which will be retained by the vendors. The 5 p.c. preference shares will have their dividend raised to 5½ p.c. Through the medium of the Imperial and Foreign Corporation, the Star Tea Co., which has been intimately associated with Ridgways for many years, is to take over the Ridgways ordinary and to increase its own capital from £220,000 to £925,000. The existing 100,000 6 p.c. Star Tea preference will have their dividend raised to 7 p.c., and will form part of the new 500,000 7 p.c. £1 preference. The existing 120,000 Star Tea ordinary will be converted into 10 p.c. cumulative preferred ordinary, part of the issue of 400,000 new preferred ordinary, and there will be 500,000 new Star Tea deferred shares of 1s., which will represent the Imperial and Foreign Corporation's profit on the deal, they procuring the subscription of sufficient of the new preference and preferred capital of the Star Tea to provide a sum of £680,000. Star Tea preference holders have the option, instead of receiving increased interest, of selling their preference shares to the Imperial and Foreign Corporation at 20s. Ridgways having owned the Star Tea ordinary shares for many years, the child is swallowing the parent, but, doubtless, most independent holders of Ridgways ordinary will regard the offer as attractive, even after due consideration of the recent dividend record. Whether they will be equally eager to invest the proceeds in Star Tea preference, which they are invited to do, seems doubtful, the creation of the small issue of Star Tea deferred, with a relatively big share in profits, not being conducive to conservative finance.

STRONG DEMAND FOR PALM OIL.

The principal feature in the tropical produce market during the past week has been the remarkable and continued activity in palm oil (writes our Liverpool Commercial Correspondent). Buyers have been in the market every day for all descriptions and all positions, and sellers have found it difficult to cope with the full extent of the demand. It is estimated that the week's sales exceed 5,000 tons, and prices on the week's trading show an appreciation of from 20s. to 40s. per ton. The buying on spot account has been urgent, but distant periods have been in practically equal request, and current prices cover any position for arrival up to the end of March. Quotations are made also for later months at a very trifling discount. The market finishes strong and active, with material for transit options commanding a premium of 10s. per ton, and in some cases more, over parcels for fixed ports. Lagos is now quoted £34 5s., Sherbro £33 10s., Benin £34, and New Calabar £33 15s. Palm kernels have not been so active, but prices have kept very steady, and at anything below £17 the trade appears to take a considerable interest. Importers, however, are asking full prices, and it is not possible to do business at Liverpool under about £17 2s. 6d. Practically the same quotations rule at Hull, but the business there has been small and confined largely to transactions between dealers. Hamburg has experienced a small trade in afloat, but Antwerp continues to rule dull. There has not been much doing in the market for copra, but prices have fluctuated slightly, leaving the final level rather higher each time. Trading, however, has been largely of a speculative nature, and as prices in the East are considerably above those ruling in this country, it is very infrequently that business is possible with shippers. For refined oils the market during the week has continued firm, with no important change in values. The market in nut oils has been quiet, although some activity was shown early in the week. Business, however, has been small, and although quotations are firm, they are generally unchanged. Ground nuts have been well held, and decorticated Nigerians for prompt shipment demand £20 10s., while Gambias in the shell are quoted £15 10s.

LIVERPOOL MEAT IMPORTS.

There was a considerable reduction in the amount of fresh meat landed at Liverpool during the past week from Overseas ports. There were no live cattle, and only a fraction of the usual supplies of mutton and lamb carcases. Only three vessels arrived with freights as follows:—The Persic, from Australia, with 390 sheep and lamb carcases and 314 pieces of beef; the Celtic, from New York, with 1,000 quarters of beef, and the Port Elliott, from Australia, with 1,760 bags, and 7,238 quarters of beef, making a total of 390 sheep and lamb carcases, 1,000 carcases of pork, 2,074 bags and pieces of beef, and 7,238 quarters of beef. Compared with the arrivals of the preceding week, these figures show a decrease of 381 cattle, 6,002 sheep and lamb carcases, 483 carcases of pork, 772 bags, etc., of beef, and 21,653 quarters of beef.

To THE MELFORD INDUSTRIAL CORPORATION, LIMITED,
4 London Wall Buildings, E.C.

"Gentlemen, 25 October, 1922.

"With reference to the 225,000 7½ per Cent. Cumulative Preference Shares of £1 each, part of an authorised amount of 300,000 of such Shares, which you have purchased, the proceeds of which will be used in the general development of the Company's business, I have pleasure in giving you the following information:—

"Sir J. L. Hulett and Sons, Ltd., was registered under the Laws of the Colony of Natal as a limited Company in the year 1892. Its progress since has been practically continuously successful, and to-day the Company ranks amongst the largest and most important industrial undertakings in South Africa.

"The business of the Company is that of Sugar Milling and Refining, Tea Growing, and Manufacturing.

"Its property consists of about 28,742 acres of freehold land in Natal, producing crops of tea and sugar cane, with, in addition, Government concessions securing the supply of cane to the factories.

"It also possesses four fully-equipped modern mills, having an aggregate capacity of over 60,000 tons of sugar, with refinery, and two up-to-date tea factories, sixty miles of narrow gauge railway with locomotives, trucks, tramways, and sidings.

"The last Balance Sheet shows that the surplus net assets of the Company (without any allowance for goodwill) after deducting outstanding debentures and all other liabilities, including a contingent liability of £40,000, amount to £874,800, to which has to be added the net amount realisable by the Shares you have purchased—£213,750—making a total of £1,088,550 of assets which stand as security for the Preference Shares, and which are thus four and a half times covered.

"In the opinion of the Board the assets of the Company are undervalued.

"The Audited Accounts of the Company show that the profits, after deducting Debentures interest, redemption, depreciation, and reserves, since the year 1912, have been as follows:—

DIVIDEND ON ORDINARY SHARES.

	Issued Capital.	Profits.
1912	£460,000	£67,852	12%
1913	500,000	34,965	5%
1914	500,000	43,244	5%
1915	500,000	56,267	8%
1916	500,000	67,987	8% and Bonus 6d.
1917	500,000	85,957	8% " " 6d.
1918	500,000	81,654	8% " " 6d.
1919	500,000	80,826	8% " " 6d.
1920	500,000	85,748	8% " " 1s. and 20% Bonus Shares.
1921	600,000	80,174	8%

"As an illustration of the financial policy adopted by the Board, taking the accounts for the year 1921, the profit of £80,174 was arrived at after providing for depreciation, placing £25,000 to General Reserve and £10,000 to Debenture Redemption Reserve.

"The accounts for the year ended 30th June, 1922, have just been completed, and although this has been a difficult trading period the amount shown as net profit is £58,599, but this was arrived at after paying Debenture interest, writing off £35,455 for depreciation, and carrying £10,000 to General Reserve.

"The net annual average amount of profits thus conservatively shown for the last eleven years, including 1922, is £67,571.

"Upon this basis the profits (without taking into account any benefits from the new Capital) secure the interest four times on the Preference Shares you have purchased.

"In conclusion, the Directors have every confidence in the future of the Company.

"Yours faithfully,
"J. LIEGE HULETT Chairman, by his Attorney, JOHN S. SHELDRICK.
"Chairman of the London Committee."
